Acknowledgment

This publication is a product of the efforts of the Socio-Economic Research Bureau (SERB). Executive Director David Joseph Emmanuel Barua Yap Jr., PhD, was responsible for developing the project design, extracting the raw data from the COMELEC, structuring the data, and conducting statistical analyses on the processed data. Service Director Elsie C. Gutierrez of the Economic Policy Research Service (EPRS) and Service Director Rosemarie R. Sawali of the Social Policy Research Service (SPRS) provided editorial support and contributed to the writing of several provincial-level profiles. The SERB staff, comprised of Rommel V. Asuncion, Elyzabeth F. Cureg-Estrada, Cynthia R. Lorenzo, Madrigal P. Macadato, Jr., Mark Carmelo R. Manguera, Anna L. Mendoza, Krishna Margaret U. Mirida, Ma. Kristina P. Ortiz, John Paul S. Quieta, Ulysis P. San Juan, Dawndale Albert O. Tanilon, Ephraim D. Valenzuela, and Annalin A. Villanueva, conducted in-depth research and generated the provincial-level profiles contained within the manuscript. The assistance provided by Patricial Laly Pascual, SERB intern, is also acknowledged. Noteworthy are the active roles assumed by the SERB over the course of this endeavor, including data collection, dataset cleaning, processing and analysis, case study and verification, and the careful drafting of provincial profiles.

The Bureau expresses its sincere appreciation to Dr. Romulo Emmanuel M. Miral Jr., PhD, Deputy Secretary General, for his valuable guidance and continued support throughout the development of this publication. It is also grateful for the efforts of Byron M. Bicencio in editing the manuscript and Ray Leonard D. Denolo for the layout and design.

Likewise, the Bureau extends its gratitude to the Election Records and Statistics Department (ERSD) of the Commission on Elections (COMELEC) for its speedy provision of the relevant election documents utilized in the study.

INTRODUCTION

The Socio-Economic Research Bureau Statistical Inventory of Potential Political Dynasts (SERB SIPPD) contains individual-level information on the presence or absence of likely dynastic linkages across elected officials within the same province, province-level information on the potential number of dynasts occupying elective positions in each province, and provincial profiles discussing the number and distribution of potential dynastic families within each province.

The basic data were collected from official Commission on Election (COMELEC) documents in PDF format. The documents provided included information on winning candidates on the provincial, district, and municipal levels. Barangay-level positions were excluded from consideration given the volume of information and resource constraints. For the 2025 precursor dataset, 1,900 pages were parsed and pre-processed through a customized Python script. The scraped or extracted datapoints were then programmatically cleaned, transformed, and organized into a structured dataset through a separate set of codes. The SERB subsequently compared the contents of the pre-processed dataset with the contents of the original PDFs to ensure the reliability of the machine-encoded data.

The precursor dataset was then evaluated using another Python script based on a variation of the last-name, middle-name matching protocol devised in the peer-reviewed journal article Political Dynasties and Poverty[1]. In particular, an elected official is flagged dynastic if either of the following conditions hold:

1. His or her LAST NAME has at least one match with the LAST NAME or MIDDLE NAME of another elected official within the same province.
2. His or her MIDDLE NAME has at least one match with the LAST NAME or MIDDLE NAME of another elected official within the same province.

It is important to emphasize that the protocol is limited and can lead to false positives. Two individuals with matching middle or last names may not be related by consanguinity or affinity. While the inclusion of a locational condition reduces the likelihood of identifying unrelated officials as dynastic, the protocol remains imperfect. Nevertheless, the edge cases involving two unrelated individuals with matching surnames are not expected to be numerous enough to significantly alter the provincial-level or national-level statistics. Another concern is raised by relationships defined by legal affinity. It may be the case that two individuals with different last names and middle names are, in fact, related by affinity. In some situations, therefore, the protocol may underestimate the prevalence of more sophisticated dynastic structures. Similarly, officials with hyphenated last names may not be flagged as dynastic - even with the inclusion of additional algorithmic rules to evaluate more complex surname structures. In response, the SERB conducted case studies on the most prominent families flagged by the dataset. These analyses contain information on the familial relationships binding elected officials – essentially providing evidentiary proof to substantiate the claims of the matching protocol and filling in some of the gaps in the algorithm. It is important to emphasize, however, that time and resource constraints precluded the Bureau from evaluating potential dynasts using official documents (e.g., government documents, affidavits, etc.). Instead, case-to-case analyses were limited to readily accessible public reports and information.

Analyses of the resulting dynastic datasets yielded the following variables: dynastic count or the count of elected officials flagged as dynastic using the matching protocol, dynastic share or the proportion of elective positions held by potential dynasts, dynastic surnames or the count of potentially dynastic families (i.e., surnames that appear at least twice in a particular province), dynastic size or the ratio between dynastic count and dynastic surnames, and dynastic structure or the most expansive (potential) dynasty in the province (i.e., what are the positions held by the most prominent potential dynasty in the province?). Additionally, the dynastic share variable was subjected to standardization to more easily identify the provinces with relatively high dynastic share estimates and those with relatively low dynastic share estimates.

RESULTS

The last-name, middle-name matching protocol flagged 9,792 elected officials as potentially dynastic. This figure corresponds to an estimated dynastic share 54.45%. Put differently, over half of all the elected officials evaluated in this exercise were identified as potential dynasts.

The provincial-level dynastic share variable exhibits a considerable amount of variability with some provinces below 30% (Benguet with 23.9%, Kalinga with 27.37%, and Mountain Province with 8.04%) and some provinces above 70% (Pangasinan with 74.41%, Lanao del Sur with 77.21%, and Pampanga with 82.23%). It is worth emphasizing that dynastic share, at least as defined by the name matching protocol, is notably low in the Cordillera Administrative Region (CAR).

The overall distribution of dynastic shares can be viewed as relatively normal with the peak at the average and with most provinces exhibiting dynastic shares ranging from 40% to 60%. There is an argument to be made that the distribution is slightly skewed to the left with more provinces positioned above the mean dynastic share in the histogram. This is largely attributable to the provinces located in the CAR – particularly Mountain Province.

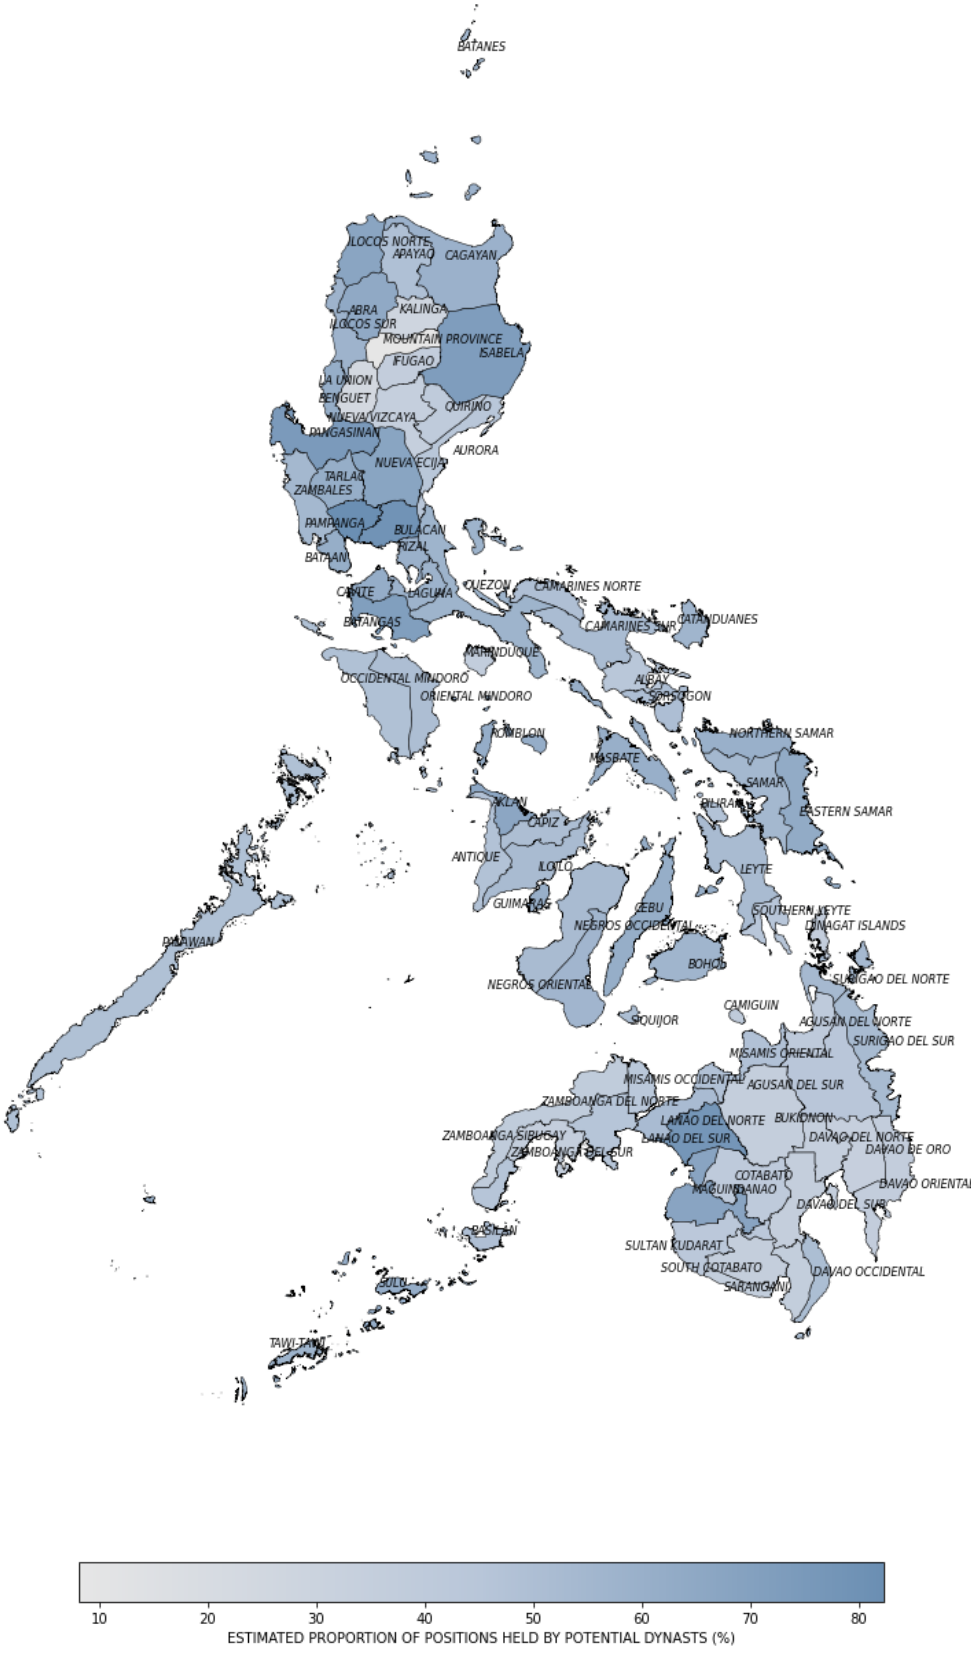

Figure 1b

Histogram of Dynastic Share Across Provinces

The standard scores of the dynastic shares surface the locations where dynastic prevalence is notably higher or notably lower than the national mean dynastic share. As mentioned earlier, the dynastic share of provinces in the CAR are remarkably low. Similarly, several Mindanaon provinces registered relatively low dynastic shares. In contrast, several provinces in Central Luzon and Northern Luzon yielded dynastic shares that are significantly above the national mean. It is of note that outside of Aklan, Maguindanao, and Lanao del Sur, the top ten provinces with the highest dynastic share are found in Luzon.

Figure 2

Classification Map of Standardized Potential Dynast Variable Across Provinces

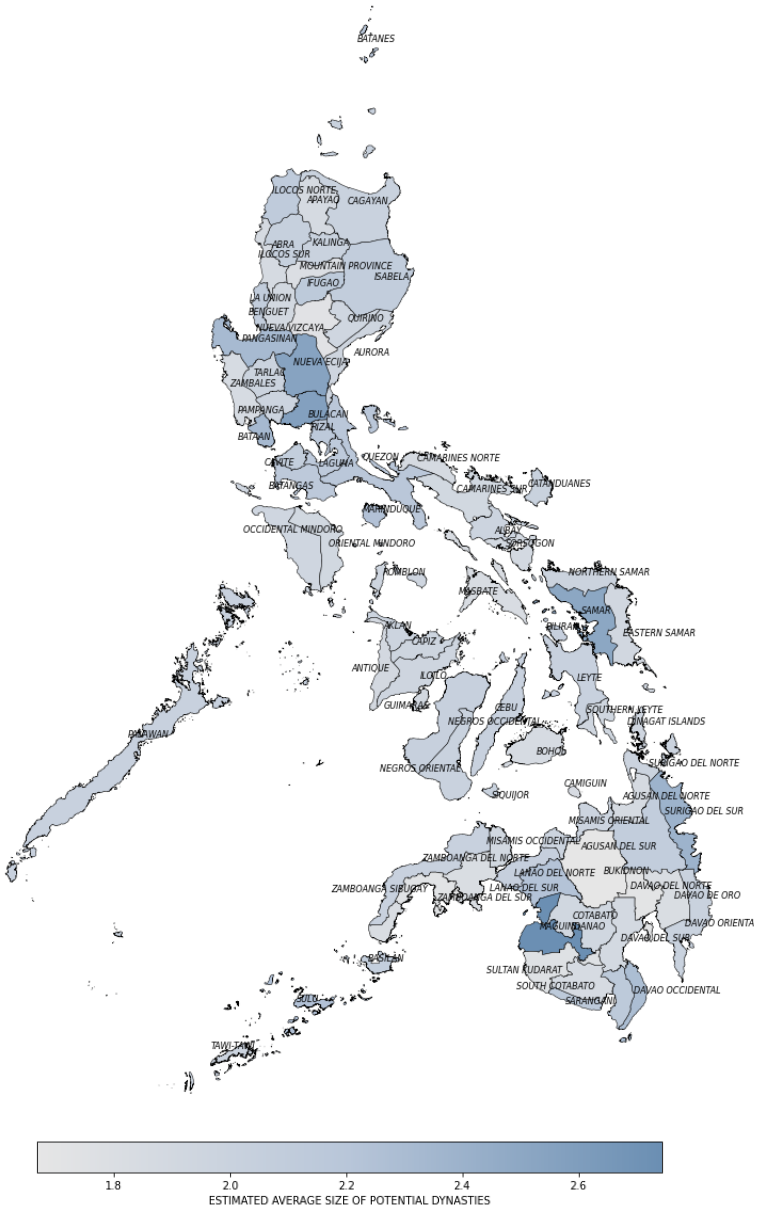

On the national-level, the estimated average size of a (potential) dynasty is around two (2.0). There is not much variability involved with this variable, with all provinces contained with the maximum value found in Maguindanao at 2.7 (i.e., Maguindanao del Norte at 2.05 and Maguindanao del Sur with 3.02)[2]. It is of note that values below 2 are indicative of the presence of interrelationships between surnames or the possibility of branching dynasties (i.e., at least two instances of a dynast with both a middle name match and a last name match).

[2] The undivided Maguindanao province is included in the present discussion to allow for longitudinal analyses involving 2022 election data, the same treatment was applied to the Special Geographic Area from the province of Cotabato.

Map of Average Dynasty Size Across Provinces

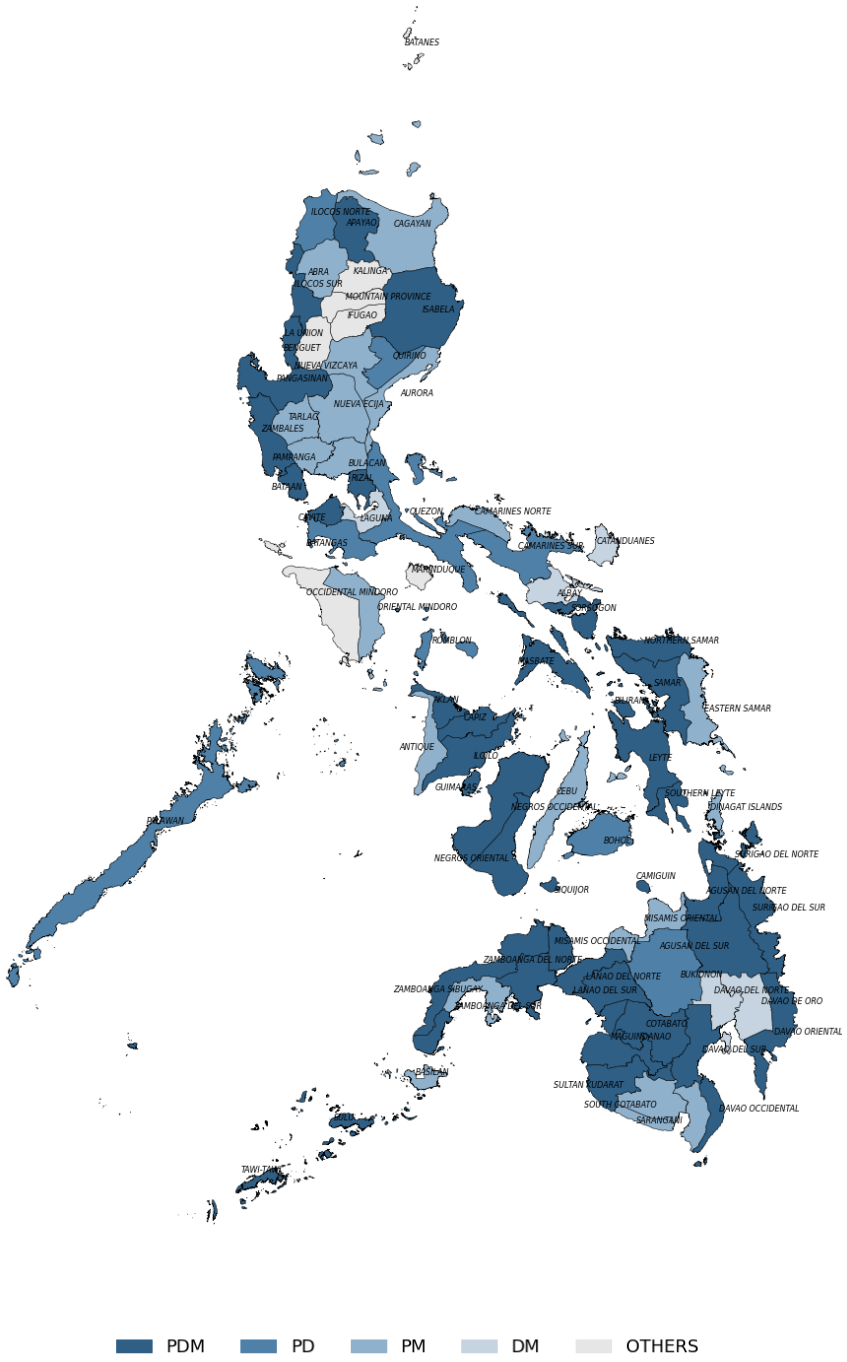

The nomenclature of dynastic structures is based on the reach of the most expansive (potential) dynasty in the province. A province receives a 'PDM' (i.e., province, district, municipality) dynastic structure if it has a dynasty that has: 1) a governor or vice-governor, 2) at least one representative, and 3) at least one mayor or vice-mayor. A province receives a 'PD' (i.e., province and district) dynastic structure if it did not receive a 'PDM' tag and has a dynasty that has: 1) a governor or vice-governor and 2) at least one representative. A province receives a 'PM' (i.e., province and municipality) dynastic structure if it did not receive any of the preceding tags and has a dynasty that has: 1) a governor or vice-governor and 2) at least one mayor or vice-mayor. Finally, a province receives a 'DM' (i.e., district and municipality) if it did not receive any of the preceding tags and has a dynasty that has: 1) at least one representative and 2) at least one mayor or vice-mayor.

The PDM classification is the most common structure with an estimated count of 41 provinces with a PDM structure. The PM classification is a distant second with 20 provinces with the PM tag. With 9 provinces tagged with the PD classification, 70 provinces are estimated to have dynasties with members holding elective positions in multiple levels of local government.

Classification Map of Dynastic Structures Across Provinces

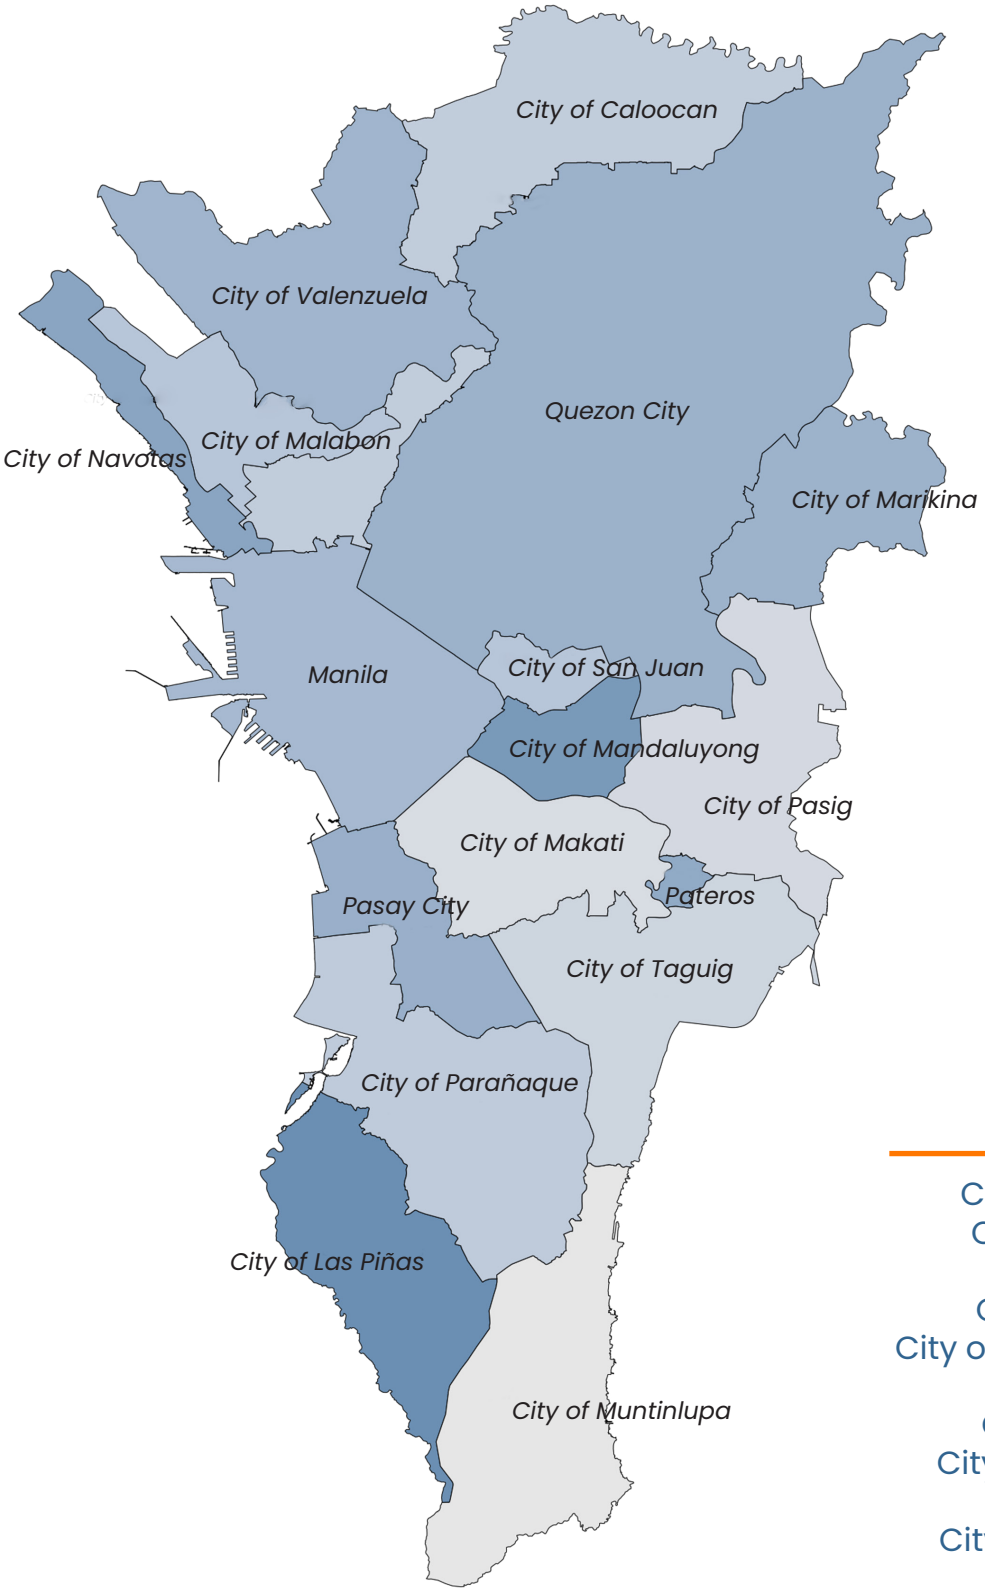

It is interesting to note that while several Mindanaon provinces are counted among the provinces with the lowest dynastic shares – many of these same provinces are found to have PDM structures. In contrast, there are relatively fewer provinces with PDM structures in Luzon. These, in turn, suggest at possible differences in political dynamics between the two regional groups.

The succeeding section contains province-specific case studies of selected surnames flagged as dynastic by the matching algorithm. The selection of surnames for discussion was guided by the size of the dynasty (i.e., the number of matches found for a particular surname) and the positions held by the dynasty (i.e., surnames holding provincial and other local positions were prioritized given that their implied influence extended to a province). To further lend structure to the case studies, the following nomenclature was formulated.

- A provincial dynasty (PROV DYN) refers to a surname with:
  - at least two of its holders flagged as dynasts AND
  - at least one of them serving as governor or vice-governor.
  - Examples include combinations such as governor + representative (s), governor + mayor (s), and vice-governor + representative(s).
- A district dynasty (DIST DYN) refers to a surname with:
  - at least two of its holders flagged as dynasts AND
  - is NOT a PROV DYN AND
  - at least one of them serving as a representative.
  - Examples include combinations such as representative(s) + mayor(s), representative(s) + mayor + vice-mayor and representative(s) + board member(s).
- A municipal dynasty (MUN DYN) refers to a surname with:
  - at least two of its holders flagged as dynasts AND
  - is neither a PROV DYN or DIST DYN AND
  - at least one of them serving as mayor or vice-mayor.
  - Examples include combinations such as mayor(s) + board members, mayor(s) + vice-mayor(s), vice-mayor(s) + board members.
- A minor dynasty (MIN DYN) refers to a surname with:
  - at least two of its holders flagged as dynasts AND
  - is not a PROV DYN, DIST DYN, or MUN DYN

Essentially, emphasis was placed on surnames identified as PROV DYN and DIST DYN. In situations where none were found then especially large surname counts that were tagged as MUN DYN or MIN DYN were evaluated.

Given severe limitations involving time and human resources, the identification or verification of familial relationships among potential dynasts was based on publicly available online information. These include reports from reputable news outlets as well as posts indicating familial relationships on official local government social media pages (i.e., birthday greetings from the incumbent to another incumbent indicating their relationship). It is of note that while it is technically possible to request for official records such as statements of assets and liabilities (SALNs), the protracted process of submitting official requests for sensitive documents such as the SALNs of almost 18,000 officials alongside the implied resource investments constituted a cost that was deemed to be too steep for the purposes of this research project.

Caloocan City is one of Metro Manila's vote-rich cities with an estimated 770,000 voters as of 2025. Despite having a dynastic share of 26.1%, which is below the national average of 54.5%, Caloocan City is home to two (2) notable district-based political dynasties.

At the city level, the MALAPITAN family holds multiple positions. The patriarch, Oscar "Oca" Gonzales Malapitan, serves as Representative of Caloocan City's 1st district after serving three terms as Mayor. His two sons also hold elective positions: Dale Gonzalo "Along" Rigor Malapitan serves as mayor, having previously been the 1st district representative and Vincent Ryan "Enteng" Rigor Malapitan serves as councilor of the 1st district.

Another family is the ASISTIO clan. Dean Asistio is currently serving his second term as representative of the 3rd district while his sister-in-law, Constalene Carmen Navarro Asistio serves as a 3rd district councilor following the term limit of her husband, Luis "LA" Asistio III. Their cousin, Aurora 'Onet' Henson, also serves as a councilor.

Note: For brevity, one municipal dynasty was not included as it belongs to one family.

Las Piñas is a highly urbanized city in Metro Manila, forming a lone district. It records the highest dynastic share in the National Capital Region at 66.7%, exceeding the national average of 54.5%. This concentration is sustained by one (1) district-level dynasty, two (2) municipal dynasties, and one (1) minor dynasty.

The AGUILAR family stands as a long-standing municipal dynasty in Las Piñas, beginning in 1995 with Vergel "Nene" Aguilar's tenure as mayor. He was later joined in public office by his wife, Imelda Tobias Aguilar, who now serves as the city's vice mayor. Their children carried the dynasty forward: April Tobias Aguilar is the current mayor, while her siblings Alelee Tobias Aguilar and Lord Linley Rebueno Aguilar serve as councilors. Adelbert San Miguel Aguilar, a close relative, also sits in the council.

The VILLAR family, closely linked to the Aguilars through Cynthia Aguilar Villar, sister of Vergel Aguilar, stands as one of the country's most prominent political clans. Former Senate President and Speaker Manny Villar, together with his wife former senator and representative Cynthia Villar, established the family's national prominence. Their daughter, Camille Villar, now serves as senator, while their son, Mark Villar, also a senator, previously district representative of Las Piñas and later served as Secretary of Public Works and Highways, extending the family's influence beyond the city.

While the table above displays the SANTOS surname categorized as a potential district dynasty, their familial relationship cannot be publicly verified.

CITY OF MAKATI

SURNAME	COUNT	REP	MAY	VMAY	CBM	TYPE
YABUT	2	0	0	0	2	MINOR DYN

The City of Makati is one of the 16 highly urbanized cities (HUCs) in the National Capital Region (NCR). As an HUC, it is not covered by any provincial governor; instead, it is the President, through the Department of the Interior and Local Government (DILG), who exercises general supervision over the city officials. The city ranks first in terms of per capita income, and is considered as a premier financial hub in Metro Manila.

The city is run by one mayor, one vice mayor, and sixteen (16) members of the Sangguniang Panglungsod (eight each per legislative district), and is represented by two Members of the House of Representatives.

There is only one family name, YABUT, which was marked as recurrent: Councilor Anna Alcino M. Yabut of the 1st district and Councilor Nemesio S. Yabut Jr., of the 2nd district.

While the BINAY family name may be regarded as the politically-dominant family in the city of Makati, only Mayor Maria Lourdes Nancy Binay is actively serving at present, based on the 2025 election results. It is noted, however, that the mayoralty of the city has been consistently held by a Binay family member since 1986, starting with the patriarch, former Mayor and former Vice President Jejomar Binay, then his wife, former Mayor Elenita Binay; followed by his three (3) children, former Mayors Jejomar Erwin, and Mar-Len Abigail, and current Mayor Maria Lourdes Nancy. In the 2022 elections, there were three (3) family members who simultaneously held various positions: Maria Lourdes Nancy as Senator, Mar-Len Abigail as Makati Mayor, and Luis Jose Angel Campos as Representative of the 2nd district of Makati (spouse of Mar-Len Abigail).

Out of the 15 elective positions in the City of Malabon, five (5) are occupied by individuals sharing common family names, representing a 33.3% dynastic share. The most prominent political family in the city is the ORETA family. Representative Antolin Aquino Oreta III of the lone district of Malabon belongs to the Oreta clan and is a cousin of Senator Paulo Benigno Aguirre Aquino IV. He is also the brother of Councilor Jose Lorenzo Aquino Oreta. Another official who bears the same family name is Councilor Paulo Dionisio Oreta.

Two councilors in the city share the middle name DAVID: Jasper Kevin David Cruz (2nd district) and Maricar David Torres (2nd district). However, their relationship, if any, cannot be ascertained based on available information.

The Lone District of Mandaluyong is estimated to have (one) 1 district dynasty, three (3) municipal dynasties, and one (1) minor dynasty. Representative Alexandria Pahati GONZALES is the aunt-in-law of council member Michael Eric Gonzales Cuejilo. On the other hand, Mayor Carmelita Aguilar ABALOS is the mother of councilors Charisse Marie Aguilar Abalos-Vargas and Benjamin Aguilar Abalos, III.

The City of Manila has an indicative dynastic share of 40.9% which is notably lower compared to the national average of 54.5%. It has two (2) district dynasties, two (2) municipal dynasties, and five (5) minor dynasties based on surname counts.

While the surname CHUA appears to have the highest number of elected officials, desk research could not confirm that Representative William Irwin Chua Tieng (3rd District), Representative Joel Respall Chua (5th District) and Karen Chua Alibarbar (3rd District Councilor) are related. Classified as a district dynasty is the ABANTE surname – Representative Bienvenido Mirando Abante Jr. (6th District) has a son - Benny Toledo Abante III – who is a city councilor.

There are two (2) municipal dynasties in Manila. One (1) involves Mayor Francisco "Isko Moreno" DOMAGOSO whose son, Joaquin "JD" D. Domagoso, is a city councilor. Mayor Domagoso's political career, spans more than twenty years starting as a city councilor then as vice mayor, then mayor and even running for president in 2022.

Another municipal dynasty is traced to the ATIENZA surname. Vice-Mayor Angela Lei Ilagan Atienza–Valdepeñas whose sister, Arlene Maile Ilagan Atienza, also served as a city councilor. They are the daughters of Lito Atienza, who served as vice mayor then as mayor of the city for three consecutive terms. He was also the representative for the Buhay Party-List from 2013 to 2022.

Marikina City has an indicative dynastic share of 45.0% which is lower compared to the national average of 54.5%. It has two (2) district dynasties, one (1) municipal dynasty and one (1) minor dynasty based on surname counts.

The surname REYES is classified as district dynasty and has the highest number of elected officials with the same surname. However, online verification shows no relation among the identified officials – Representative Marcelino Reyes Teodoro; Vice-Mayor Del Reyes De Guzman, and City Board Member Celeste Natividad Reyes.

Another district dynasty identified can be traced to the TEODORO clan. Representative Marcelino Reyes Teodoro's wife, Marjorie Ann Ang Teodoro, replaced him as the mayor of the city in the 2025 elections. Representative Teodoro served for three consecutive terms as mayor for the period 2016-2025. Mayor Teodoro first served as the representative of the 1st District of Marikina (2022–2025).

One municipal dynasty – DE GUZMAN - is also tagged. Familial connection between Vice-Mayor Del Reyes De Guzman and City Board Member Romina Kate Navarro De Guzman could not be confirmed by publicly available online information.

A minor dynasty involving the surname Santos with four city board members was identified. However, familial kinship among them cannot be established given publicly available data.

CITY OF MUNTINLUPA

Muntinlupa has an indicative dynastic share of 0.0%, suggesting that there is an absence of any dynastic presence within the city. Rozzano Rufino "Ruffy" Bunoan Biazon won the mayoral race unchallenged in the 2025 midterm election. Mayor Biazon is the son of the late Senator and former Armed Forces of the Philippines (AFP) Chief of Staff Rodolfo Gaspar Biazon. Mayor Ruffy Biazon also served as the Representative of Muntinlupa City between 2001 to 2010 and from 2016 to 2022.

Jaime Dela Rosa Fresnedi is currently serving his second term as the Representative of the Lone District of Muntinlupa. He also served a total of eighteen years as mayor of Muntinlupa from 1998 to 2007 and 2013 to 2022. The political dynamics between the BIAZONs and FRESNEDIs is characterized as a strategic alliance, effectively swapping roles in 2022 to maintain continuity of service. Both run under the "One Muntinlupa" slate in favor of a shared long-term vision for the city.

Out of the fifteen (15) elective positions in the City of Navotas, eight (8) are currently held by individuals sharing common family names, representing a 53.3% dynastic share. The TIANGCO siblings occupy the mayoral and congressional seats in the city. John Reynald Mercelo Tiangco serves as the city's chief executive, while his brother, Tobias Reynald Marcelo Tiangco represents the lone district of Navotas in Congress.

Another pair of officials that share the SANCHEZ family name are Vice Mayor Tito Morales Sanchez and Councilor Mylene Refil Sanchez (1st district). The Sangguniang Panglungsod also includes two officials with the surname VICENCIO: Arvie John Sangalang Vicencio (1st district) and Rochelle Cruz Vicencio (2nd district). Two councilors share the family name DELA CRUZ: Edgardo Dela Cruz Maño (1st district) and Analiza Dela Cruz Lupisan (2nd district). The relationships between these individuals cannot be determined based on available information.

The City of Parañaque is a highly urbanized area in Metro Manila and forms a lone congressional district. The city records a dynastic share of 28.6%, well below the national average of 54.5%, reflecting two (2) district posts held by the same individual along with one (1) minor dynasty.

The DE LEON–OLIVARES family constitutes a prominent dynasty in Parañaque. Their political roots trace back to their father, Dr. Pablo Olivarez, who entered politics in the 1980s as mayor during two separate periods, later served as Barangay Captain of San Dionisio, the largest barangay in Parañaque until he retired in 2023. He led the city during its transition from a municipality to a fully recognized city and helped shape the family's early presence in city politics. Eric de Leon Olivarez currently serves as Parañaque's representative in the House of Representatives, while his brother, Edwin de Leon Olivarez, is the sitting mayor. In the 2025 elections, Parañaque's First Lady Aileen Claire Olivarez, wife of Mayor Eric Olivarez, ran as an independent candidate for mayor against her brother-in-law, Congressman Edwin Olivarez. Eric Olivarez, in turn, sought to swap positions with his brother by running for the city's 1st district representative.

Moreover, Raquel Gabriel Velasco and Carina Santos GABRIEL both serve as members of the Sangguniang Panlungsod. Their shared surname and concurrent roles highlight a minor example of dynastic participation, though blood relations among officials sharing the same surname cannot be verified with the information currently available online.

Pasay City is a highly urbanized coastal city in the National Capitol Region composed of a lone legislative district and two Sangguniang Panlungsod districts. The city has an indicative dynastic share of 46.7% which is lower than the national average of 54.5% but is one of the cities in Metro manila with a relatively high dynastic concentration. It has two (2) district dynasties, one (1) municipal dynasty and two (2) minor dynasties.

The CALIXTO family has been a fixture in Pasay City politics for several decades, beginning in the 1980s with Eduardo Calixto, who served as its mayor. In the 2025 elections, the family secured the city's three major leadership positions: district representative, mayor, and vice mayor.

Pasay City lone district Representative Antonino Calixto, a former three-term mayor is brother to current Mayor Imelda Calixto-RUBIANO, a former district representative. Both Antonino and Imelda have previously held other local positions in Pasay City - Antonino as vice Mayor and councilor and Imelda also as councilor.

The latest election results also reflect the involvement of the younger generation. Vice Mayor Mark Anthony Calixto, son of Rep. Antonino, previously served three terms as the top-ranking councilor for District 1 and as majority floor leader. On the other hand, Mayor Imelda's son, Luigi Calixto Rubiano, has begun his political career as a city councilor.

The City of Pasig, a highly urbanized city with one (1) congressional district, two (2) councilor districts, and 30 barangays, reflects an indicative dynastic share of 13.3%, a notably modest figure relative to the national average of 54.5%. One (1) district-level dynasty is identified, while neither a municipal nor minor dynasty is active. Among the 16 cities in the National Capital Region, the City of Pasig has the third lowest share of political dynasties, after the City of Muntinlupa (0.0%) and the City of Makati (10.0%).

The only active political name in the City of Pasig is the ROMULO Family. Representative Roman Tecson Romulo of the Lone District of Pasig is uncle to Pasig City Councilor Simon Romulo Tantoco (i.e. third degree of consanguinity) through Representative Romulo's sister. Note that only two members of the Romulo family hold active government positions in Pasig despite the family's long history of statesmanship. Among the most notable members of the Romulo lineage are former senator (1987–1998) and executive secretary (2001–2004) Alberto G. Romulo, the representative's father; former United Nations General Assembly President (1949) Carlos P. Romulo, the representative's grand-uncle; and former tourism secretary (2018–2022) Bernadette Romulo-Puyat, the representative's sister.

Although only one (1) district-level political dynasty was identified following the 2025 elections, the city's longest-entrenched political family was not displaced until 2019, when incumbent Pasig Mayor Victor Ma. Regis "Vico" Sotto defeated Robert "Bobby" Eusebio, ending nearly three decades of political domination for the Eusebio family. This political change was further reinforced when Representative Roman Romulo defeated Richard "Ricky" Eusebio in the congressional race.

Further note that two (2) major positions in the city are held by individuals affiliated with prominent political names. Mayor Vico Sotto belongs to the Sotto family, which includes current Senate President Vicente "Tito" Sotto III, his uncle, and incumbent Quezon City Vice Mayor Gian Sotto, his cousin (i.e. fourth degree of consanguinity). Similarly, Pasig Vice Mayor Robert "Dodot" Jaworski Jr., through his maternal grandfather Ramon Revilla Sr., is related to the Bautista-Revilla political family in Cavite.

Pateros, the sole municipality among the cities comprising Metro Manila, is part and being represented in the House of Representatives, along with the 1st district of Taguig City.

The dynastic share of Pateros is 29.4% which is below the national average of 54.5%, with five of its local officials out of 17 total elected positions sharing common last name or middle name.

Despite the noted similarities in the last name and/or middle name of seven officials, it has no dynasty considering the incumbent officials elected as of 2025 based on online sources are not related. The three councilors of Pateros under the CRUZ surname or middle name – Paul Argie Diesma Cruz, Nestito Cruz Ponce Jr., and Jose Jonathan Cruz Sanchez - are not related, similar with the Pateros and Taguig 1st District Representative Ricardo Samonte Cruz Jr. Likewise, based on online sources, the city board members Elpidio Villegas Acosta and Milaor Baduya Villegas, are not identified as being related.

Quezon City is Metro Manila's most vote-rich city with over 1.4 million voters. An estimated 63.6% of elected positions in the city are held by individuals belonging to political dynasties, which is higher than the national average of 54.5%.

In Quezon City, the BELMONTE clan holds various political positions across the city. Maria Josefina 'Joy' Belmonte serves as mayor and is the daughter of former House Speaker and former Quezon City Mayor Feliciano Belmonte Jr. Her first cousin, Vicente Eric "Vincent" De Guzman Belmonte Jr., serves as councilor for the 4th district, while his wife, Irene Belmonte, previously served as councilor of the same district. Also part of the family is her nephew, Fernando Miguel 'Mikey' Francia Belmonte, who serves as councilor of the 2nd district. Her cousins are Ricardo Belmonte Jr. of the Serbisyo sa Bayan Party-list group and former 6th district representative, Jose Christopher "Kit" Yuvienco Belmonte.

The SOTTO clan also maintains a presence in the city's political landscape. Gian Carlo Jose 'Gian' Gamboa Sotto serves as vice mayor of Quezon City and is the son of Current Senate President Vicente 'Tito' Sotto III. His sister, Diorella Maria 'Lala' Sotto, currently serves as chairperson of the Movie and Television Review and Classification Board (MTRCB). Also part of the family network is his nephew, Victorio Manuel 'Vito' Sotto Generoso, who serves as councilor for the 6th district. Another prominent member of the extended clan is his cousin, Victor Maria Regis 'Vico' Sotto, the mayor of Pasig City.

Although not identified in the table, the GO-YAP clan is also a prominent political family. Edgar "Egay" Go Yap is a Quezon City 4th district councilor while his wife, Ma. Ganda Yap is the captain of Barangay Doña Imelda. His siblings are ACT-CIS Party-list representative Edvic Go Yap, and Benguet Lone District Representative Eric Go Yap.

The TULFO clan also holds key positions, Ralph Wendel Pua Tulfo serves as a 2nd district councilor, who is the son of Senator Rafael "Raffy" Teshiba Tulfo and ACT-CIS Party-list Representative Jocelyn Pua Tulfo. Also part of the extended family network are his uncle, Senator Erwin Teshiba Tulfo, and his cousin, Adrian Leandro Pua Tio, who serves as Mayor of Luna, Isabela.

Multiple father and son tandems are present across Quezon City. In the city's 3rd district, the PUMAREN family holds two (2) positions, with Franz Santos Pumaren serving as district representative and his son, Franz Luis Benjamin 'Luigi' De Guzman Pumaren, as councilor. In the 4th district, the SUNTAY family also maintains this pairing, with Jesus Manuel Angel 'Bong' Cabochan Suntay as district representative and his son, Jesus Miguel 'Atty. Migs' Cabochan Suntay, serving as councilor. Meanwhile, in the 5th district, the VARGAS brothers hold elective posts, with Patrick Michael 'PM' Dumlao Vargas serving as district representative and Alfredo Paolo 'Alfred' Dumlao Vargas III as councilor.

Among the youngest first class highly urbanized cities in Metro Manila, the City of San Juan has an indicative dynastic share of 33.3%, considerably lower than the national average of 54.5%. With a population of less than two hundred thousand, the city only has a lone legislative district and 21 barangays.

Only 5 of 15 elected officials are potentially members of political dynasties. These are from the Zamora and Reyes families. Members of the latter though who have a common Filipino surname do not seem to belong to a verified political clan.

This leaves the ZAMORAs as the prominent political family, by default, in the city. Siblings Francisco Javier Manlapit Zamora and Ysabel Maria Jorge Zamora currently serve as city mayor and district representative, respectively. Mayor Francis is already on his third term while Rep. Ysabel is on her second term. She succeeded her father, Ronaldo Zamora, who served as congressional representative for a total of 21 years. Note also that sibling Amparo Maria Jorge Zamora, previously won the 2nd-district seat in Taguig-Pateros during the 19th Congress.

The Zamora clan was able to dislodge a prominent political clan in San Juan – the Ejercitos / Estradas – who held the mayoralty post for 44 nonconsecutive years.

The city of Taguig as of the 2025 midterm election, is composed of two (2) districts of 37 barangays that elect twelve city councilors and each a separate congressional representative.

Taguig City has a dynastic share of 17.9%, or five (5) of its elected officials out of the total 28 sharing the same last or middle name.

The current 1st District Representative Ricardo Samonte Cruz Jr. and incumbent city board members Allan Paul Carlos Cruz and Arnold Jaramiel Cruz are distant relatives while Fanella Joy Bote Panga-Cruz is not related, inspite of sharing the surname.

Likewise, the two members of the city council with the same middle name of Carlos – Rodil Carlos Marcelino and Allan Paul Carlos Cruz - are not related based on available online sources.

The city though is known for the Cayetano siblings, the incumbent senators Pilar Juliana Schramm Cayetano and Alan Peter Schramm Cayetano, whose wife is the incumbent Mayor Maria Laarni Clarino Lopez Cayetano. The Cayetano political clan of Taguig City started with the entry to politics in 1998 with their father, former Senator Rene Cayetano and alongside Alan Peter Cayetano in the city council, who in turn ran for representative in 2001, and then his sister in the Senate in 2004.

Valenzuela City has an indicative dynastic share of 43.6%, below the national average of 54.5%. It has two (2) district dynasties, one (1) municipal dynasty, and one (1) minor dynasty.

The TING-GATCHALIAN name refers to the Gatchalian family, whose members carry Ting as their shared middle name, derived from their mother, Dee Hua Ting Gatchalian. All four brothers (i.e., Sherwin "Win," Kenneth, Rexlon "Rex," and Weslie "Wes") are sons of industrialist William Gatchalian and Dee Hua Ting. The family has held the Valenzuela City mayoralty continuously since 2004, with Sherwin serving from 2004 to 2013, Rex from 2013 to 2022 after, and Weslie "Wes" Ting Gatchalian from 2022 to the present. Members of the family have also served in the 1st District congressional seat over time, with Rex as representative from 2007 to 2013, Wes from 2016 to 2022, and Kenneth currently holding the post following Wes' transition to the mayoralty in 2022. Before becoming mayor, Wes served as Alay Buhay party-list representative from 2013 to 2016 and later as Deputy Speaker during his final term in Congress. Beyond the city, Sherwin has served as senator since 2016, while Rex currently serves as Secretary of the Department of Social Welfare and Development under the Marcos administration. In the current cycle, the family simultaneously holds the city mayoralty, the 1st District congressional seat, a Senate seat, and a Cabinet post.

Abra has an indicative dynastic share of 64.3%, higher than the national average of 54.5% and the highest in the Cordillera Administrative Region (CAR). Abra has one (1) provincial dynasty, one (1) district dynasty, 48 municipal dynasties, and 37 minor dynasties.

The most prominent political clans in the province are the BERSAMIN and BERNOS families. Two members of the Bersamin family currently occupy the top provincial positions in Abra with Eustaquio Purugganan Bersamin as governor and Ana Marie Afable Bersamin as vice governor (Abra's uncle-niece tandem). Eustaquio Purugganan Bersamin is the brother of Lucas Purugganan Bersamin who served as executive secretary of President Bongbong Marcos from 2022 to 2025. Luis Jorobots Bernardez Bersamin IV and Patrocinio Bersamin Abaya Jr. are members of the Sangguniang Panlalawigan. At the municipal level, Emmanuel Eleazar Bersamin Eduarte is the current vice-mayor of Tayum, Abra. Dangwa Bag-ayan Bersamin is also a member of the Sangguniang Bayan in the Municipality of Boliney. While it is possible for unrelated individuals to share the same surname and or middle name, the prominent Bersamin family in Abra's public and political life are all part of the same immediate and extended lineage. Overall, the Bersamins occupy six positions from provincial to municipal level.

The Bernos is another prominent family in Abra's political landscape. Congressman Joseph Sto. Niño Blando Bernos is the representative of the lone district of Abra. There are also Bernoses occupying three mayoral seats in the province: a) Bucay Mayor Andrea Ma. Francheska Beronilla Bernos, b) Danglas Mayor Esther Blando Bernos, and c) La Paz Mayor Danielle Belynne Beronilla Bernos. Lino Abella Bernos II also serves as board member in the Sangguniang Bayan of La Paz. In total, the Bernoses has five (5) positions from district to municipal level.

At the municipal level, the Crisologo, Cardenas, Domingo, and Molina registered the highest number of positions (6 to 7 seats) having the same surname with at least one mayoral or vice mayoral seat and three municipal board members.

Apayao has an indicative dynastic share of 49.4%, modestly lower compared to the 54.5% national average, with one (1) provincial dynasty, 11 municipal dynasties, and eight (8) minor dynasties. The province is second to Abra in the Cordillera Administrative Region (CAR) with its dynastic share of 64.3%.

The most prominent political clan in Apayao is the BULUT family. The late Elias K. Bulut Sr., the family patriarch, is recognized as the" Father and Founder of Apayao". He is instrumental in creating Apayao as an independent province in 1995 where he also served as its first congressman. Since late 1990s, the Bulut family held dominant control over the province, often alternating positions between Elias Jr. and his sister Eleanor. Following the 2025 midterm elections, the Bulut political family solidified its control over the provincial government with a father-daughter tandem of Governor Elias Cayaba Bulut Jr. and Vice Governor Kyle Mariah Chelsea Sipsip Bulut-Cunan. Eleanor Bulut-Begtang, sister of Gov. Bulut Jr., is also the current Representative of the Lone District of Apayao. The youngest son of Bulut Sr., Shamir Marrero Bulut is also the Mayor of Calanasan where the Bulut family has its stronghold. Overall, they have four key political positions in the province.

Among possible municipal dynasties, the PASCUA surname has the highest number of positions (5) with one mayoral seat, one provincial member and three municipal members.

Benguet has an indicative dynastic share of 23.9%, significantly lower than the national average of 54.5%. Nevertheless, it has two (2) provincial dynasties, nine (9) municipal dynasties, and eight (8) minor dynasties. Its relatively low dynastic share suggests that political power is possibly more dispersed within the province.

While there is no data confirming the relationship of Governor Melchor Daguines DICLAS and Kapangan Councilor Maribelle Inlubang Diclas, they could be distant relatives from the broader Diclas clan originating from Buguias, Benguet. Tagged also as a provincial dynasty, Marie Rose FONGWAN Kepes is the vice governor of Benguet and her brother, Nestor Tirso Fongwan Jr. is a councilor in the Municipality of La Trinidad.

Ifugao has an indicative dynastic share of 36.6%, significantly lower than the 54.5% national average, with one (1) provincial dynasty, nine (9) municipal dynasties, and 11 minor dynasties. In general, there are no "fat" political dynasties (multiple family members hold high-level offices simultaneously) in the province. While there is a presence of several prominent political families, cultural and indigenous norms appeared to have rejected the existence of political dynasties.

Tagged as a provincial dynasty, the LUGLUG family is represented by Vice Governor Martin Luglug Habawel Jr. and his two relatives—Municipal Councilors Karen Joy Beyer Luglug (Banaue) and Jan Gulf Bumolo Luglug (Lagawe). Vice Governor Martin carries the surname Luglug as his middle name, indicating his maternal lineage is part of the Luglug family of Ifugao. His political background is a blend of the Habawel (paternal) and Luglug (maternal) families, both of which have established roots in the province's local government.

Binwag, Allaga, Baguilat, Bahingawan, Ballogan, Buyagawan, Chilagan, Natuno and Taguling are possible municipal dynasties with identical surnames of at least one Mayor or Vice Mayor and one Board Member.

Kalinga has an indicative dynastic share of 27.4% with one (1) district dynasty, four (4) municipal dynasties, and eight (8) minor dynasties. Kalinga, Ifugao, and Mountain Province share a unique political landscape characterized by a strong cultural resistance to entrenched political dynasties. In Kalinga, most governors have historically been limited to a single term. The province uses the "bodong" (peace pact) and "pagta" (laws) to manage inter-tribal relationships and prevent single-group dominance.

While the AGYAO family is tagged as a district dynasty, there is no clear information confirming the relationship between Representative Caroline Batalao Agyao and Tabuk City Councilor Eduardo Agyao Sacaye. While they share the same Agyao name—which is common among the prominent political and indigenous families in Kalinga—official biographical details of Rep. Agyao do not list Councilor Sacayle as a member of her immediate family.

In Pinukpuk, Kalinga, Mayor Jimmy Balagso DASAYON and Vice Mayor Shirlynne Balagso Dasayon-Alunday are the town's father-daughter tandem, both having been elected under the Nacionalista Party (NP) in the May 2025 elections.

Mountain Province has an indicative dynastic share of only 8.0%, significantly lower compared to the 54.5% national average. It has the smallest proportion of public officials belonging to a dynastic political lineage in the Cordillera Administrative Region (CAR). Along with Benguet, Ifugao and Kalinga, Mt. Province is part of the "interior Cordillera" where major, multi-generational political dynasties are notably absent compared to other regions. The province has one (1) provincial dynasty, no district dynasty, two (2) municipal dynasties, and two (2) minor dynasties.

The DOMINGUEZ family has a long-standing history in the province politics, dating back to the late Congressman Victor Sicado Dominguez and his wife, former Representative Josephine De Castro-Dominguez. Vice Governor Jose Oyaoy Dominguez and Board Member Joseph Alejandro Coto-ong Dominguez are members of the same prominent political clan in the province, specifically from the Municipality of Sabangan.

The BUNED and BUYAGAN surnames are tagged as municipal dynasties with at least one position occupying the mayoral or vice mayoral seat. While Sagada Vice Mayor David Tallusen Bucang Buyagan and Besao Vice Mayor Elizabeth Ayyawan Buyagan share the same surname, there is no available record identifying them as relatives.

Ilocos Norte has 2 legislative districts, 2 cities, and 21 municipalities. It has an indicative dynastic share of 66.8% this is higher than the national average of 54.5%. The study estimates that Ilocos Norte has two (2) provincial dynasties, 42 municipal dynasties, and 34 minor dynasties. It has no district dynasties as its two representatives are related to the governor.

The most prominent political family in the province is the MARCOS family. Six of its members currently occupy both gubernatorial-level positions, both district representative seats, and two board member positions. The incumbent governor, Cecilia Araneta Marcos is the first cousin of the president, Ferdinand Bongbong Marcos Jr. Similarly, 2nd District representative Angelo Marcos Barba, is a first cousin of the president. This makes the presidential son, 1st District Representative and Majority Leader, Alexander Araneta Marcos a distant nephew of both. Vice-Governor Matthew Marcos Manotoc is a first cousin of Majority Leader Marcos. Board members Ruben Castro Marcos, Elybert Marcos Rarogal, and councilors Elybert Marcos Rarogal and Ruben Felicito Castro Marcos are likely counted among the clan. Their exact relationships to the more prominent members of the Marcos family are, however, unclear given the paucity of online information regarding these individuals.

The municipalities of Nueva Era and the adjacent towns of Bangui and Dumalneg, are both tied to the name GARVIDA. Spouses Aldrin Ragonjan Arvida and Caroline Arzadon Garvida both serve as Mayor and Vice-Mayor of Nueva Era, respectively. Dumalneg Mayor Fraincess Kwyn Garvida Espiritu and Vice-Mayor Justine Francis King Garvida Espiritu are also likely related. The mayor of Bangui, Denton Lawrence Go Garvida, also bears the same name along councilors Myrna Cascayan Garvida and Anna Marie Garvida Fabi. There are also Garvidas serving as municipal council members in Pagudpud.

Note: 8 other municipal dynasties, and 51 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Ilocos Sur has 2 legislative districts, 2 cities, and 32 municipalities. It has a dynastic share of 57.82% and is above the national average of 54.5%. It is estimated that there are two (2) provincial dynasties, 58 municipal dynasties, and 51 minor dynasties in Ilocos Sur.

The SINGSON clan has long been the most prominent name and has a deep presence in the whole province. Currently, it has branched out from two related, albeit distant patriarchs, namely, former long-time governor Luis "Chavit' Singson and former 2nd District Representative Eric Dario Singson.

Governor Jeremias Crisologo Singson is the brother of Chavit Singson who has two children in key positions in Ilocos Sur: Vice-Governor Ryan Luis Versoza Singson and 1st District Representative Ronald Versoza Singson. Eric Singson, meanwhile, is the father of both 2nd District Representative Grace Kristine Singson Meehan and Board Member Ericson Singson.

The presence of the name further extends in key positions in Caoayan (Mayor Germelina Singson Goulart), City of Candon (Mayor Eric Dario Singson, Vice-Mayor Kristelle Gocho Singson, Councilor Jaime Maglanoc Singson, Councilor Eric Owen Gacula Singson, Jr.), City of Vigan (Mayor Randolf Versoza Singson, Councilor Evarista Ancheta Singson, III), Narvacan (Councilor Luis Charles Pintor Singson).

Municipal dynasties likewise exist in Ilocos Sur. For instance, Santa Lucia Mayor Joseph Simon Basingil VALDEZ has a similar middle name and surname with Councilor Kennette Basingil Valdez. The municipality of Salcedo, meanwhile, has a different profile as its two highest elected officials both carry the name GIRONELLA: Mayor Grazielle Gironella Itchon and Vice-Mayor Louie Festejo Gironella.

Note: For brevity, 20 other minor dynasties were no longer included in the table

La Union has 2 legislative districts, 1 city, and 19 municipalities. It ranks within the Top 20 in terms of dynastic share with a ratio of 61.47%. The study estimates that there are four (4) provincial dynasties, three (3) district dynasties, 22 municipal dynasties, and 35 minor dynasties in La Union.

The ORTEGA clan has long been one of the more prominent names in the province and is shared between Governor Mario Eduardo Campos Ortega and his nephew Representative Francisco Paolo Padua Ortega, V of the 1st District of La Union. The name is also carried by other elected officials within the 1st District such as Representative Ortega's father Vice-Mayor Pablo Campos Ortega, and his mother, Mayor Mariquita Padua Ortega of San Juan. Governor Ortega's daughter, Danielle Bianca Gaerlan Ortega, is likewise in an elective position as a council member in the City of San Fernando. Councilor Tomas Joaquin Balingit Ortega of Bacnotan also belongs to the same clan.

SIBUMA is also a key name in the province of La Union. Vice-Governor Eric Ong Sibuma is the brother of Agoo Mayor Frank Ong Sibuma, and Aringay Mayor Benjamin Ong Sibuma. Aringay Vice-Mayor Charito Sibuma Yu and provincial board member Alyssa Kristine Bernal Sibuma also share the name with the officials mentioned earlier.

GARCIA is likewise a prominent name in the province. Incumbent 2nd District Representative Dante Sotelo Garcia shares the name with local chief executives in his district, namely, Genefer Garcia Bulao-Madriaga of Caba, Geralyn Garcia Bulao of Pugo, and Jonalyn Garcia Fontanilla-Piayas of Tubao. There are also Garcias sitting as municipal council members in the same district.

At the municipal level, both Naguilian and Rosario contain the surname FLORES for the positions of Mayor and Vice-Mayor. PINZON is also a key name in La Union especially in Bangar as this is shared by Mayor Joy Pinzon Merin, and both Councilors Astaire Vance Iedritz Pacquingan Pinzon and Karl Matthew Mangaoang Pinzon. Luna Mayor Gary Napeñas Pinzon likewise carries the name along with council member Kyle Hannah Relucion Pinzon.

Note: For brevity, 56 other municipal dynasties and 80 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Pangasinan has 6 legislative districts, 4 cities, and 44 municipalities. The Province ranks in the Top 5 among all provinces in terms of dynastic share at 74.41% and is estimated to have three (3) provincial dynasties, six (6) district dynasties, 74 municipal dynasties, and 80 minor dynasties.

Incumbent governor Ramon Velicaria GUICO, III is the son of 5th District Representative Ramon Naval Guico, Jr. He is also the brother of Binalonan mayor Ramon Ronald Velicaria Guico, IV. On the other hand, the incumbent Vice-Governor Mark Ronald DE GUZMAN Lambino shares a name with provincial board member Marinor Baltazar De Guzman, Balungao Vice-Mayor Philipp De Guzman, Basista councilor Amorsolo Baysic De Guzman, Manaoag councilor Jon Edmund Augustus De Guzman Amador, Natividad councilor Betha Fe Rafael De Guzman, Mabini councilor Ariel Justo Reyes De Guzman, and Basista councilor Chrisanto Asenafe De Guzman. Note that there are no reliable information to prove the kinship ties between the Vice-Governor and the other personalities with the name De Guzman.

4th District Representative Maria Georgina PEREZ DE VENECIA is the wife of five-time Speaker Jose De Venecia, Jr. She shares the Perez name with other elected officials outside of her district, namely, Mayor Kenneth Marco Sison Perez and his brother Vice-Mayor Alain Jerico Sison Perez (San Manuel), and Vice-Mayor Jose Antonio Miguel Yatco Perez (City of Alaminos). Council members with the name Perez are also found outside of the District. This profile is also similar to that of 3rd District Representative Maria Rachel Jimenez ARENAS except with that of Vincent Nathaniel Silverio Arenas who is a council member in a municipality located in her district.

A different profile is observed in the case of 1st District Representative Arthur Del Fierro CELESTE. He is the father of Alaminos Mayor Arth Bryan Caasi Celeste, cousin of Agno mayor John Natividad Celeste, brother of Bolinao Mayor Jesus Salvador Del Fierro Celeste and Vice-Mayor Arnold Del Fierro Celeste. Other clan members also serve as council members in the District. In so far as the 6th District of Pangasinan is concerned, Representative Marlyn Primicias-AGABAS was not captured by the algorithm, and thus is not shown on the table, although she bears the same surname as Tayug mayor Tyrone Damasen Agabas.

At the municipal level, CRUZ is the most prominent as the name is shared by Mangatarem Vice-Mayor Ronnie Cruz Palisoc, and municipal council members Teresa Gianna Sales Cruz and Jonathan Barte Cruz. Binmaley Vice-Mayor Edgar Mamenta Cruz likewise carries the name although there are no other elected officials with the same name in the municipality. Other elected officials with the name Cruz serving as councilors are scattered all throughout the Province.

Batanes is counted among the provinces in Cagayan Valley Region (Region II) and is the Philippines' northernmost province. It is also the smallest both in terms of population and area. It is composed of a lone legislative district and six (6) municipalities. The province has an indicative dynastic share of 54.9% which is comparable to the national average of 54.5%. It has one (1) provincial dynasty, one (1) district dynasty, four (4) municipal dynasties, and 11 minor dynasties.

The most recent election results indicate a change in provincial executive leadership, while the legislative seat remained with the incumbent. The election of Governor Ronald "Jun" AGUTO Jr. marks a transition to a provincial leader without established familial ties to previous traditional dynasties. Based on surname matching, no incumbent at the provincial or municipal levels is currently linked to the Governor. Governor Aguto won over Medardo "Jun" ABAD Jr., a former diplomat and a new participant in Batanes politics. While the specific familial connection between Medardo Abad Jr. and the family of former Representative Florentino "Butch" Abad could not be confirmed through publicly available online information, the election outcome suggests a diminishing support for the Abad surname. This trend is further evidenced by the reelection of Representative Ciriaco GATO Jr., who previously defeated Butch Abad in 2019 and Luis Abad in 2022. The Gato family's presence in Batanes politics dates back to Simon Gato and Vicente Gato, who served as governors between the 1980s and early 2000s; they were the uncle and cousin of the current Representative, respectively.

Provincial level dynasty can be linked to Vice Governor Jonathan Enrique VALIENTE Nanud Jr., whose middle name matches that of Provincial Board Member Joel Valiente Velayo from the town of Itbayat. The likelihood of dynasty, however, may be slimmer as Vice Governor Nanud comes from a different town, Uyugan, where he formerly served as mayor. On the other hand, a possible district dynasty can be linked to Rep. Gato and Municipal Board Member Gershom Ponce Gato, both are from Itbayat town.

A possible municipal dynasty is figured in the family name CULTURA in the towns of Itbayat and Sabtang. Itbayat Mayor Joseph Cultura may be related to Sabtang Mayor Teresita Cultura Neyala and Vice Mayor Clemente Cultura Ladreza Jr. Their actual filial link, however, is subject to verification.

Note: For brevity, 34 municipal dynasties and 47 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

The province of Cagayan occupies the northeastern tip of Luzon and one of the largest provinces in Region II. It is composed of three (3) legislative districts, 28 municipalities and one (1) component city. The province has an indicative dynastic share of 59.2%, which is slightly higher than the national average of 54.5%. It has two (2) provincial dynasties, four (4) district dynasties, 38 municipal dynasties, and 47 minor dynasties.

Historically, the names ENRILE, LARA, MAMBA, NOLASCO and VARGAS have been significant in Cagayan's political leadership. Members of these families have held elective positions either simultaneously or in succession. In recent years, the Enrile family's presence in elective posts has declined, with influence shifting toward executive functions, particularly through the Cagayan Economic Zone Authority (CEZA), currently led by Katrina Ponce Enrile, daughter of the late Senator Juan Ponce Enrile.

General Edgar "Egay" AGLIPAY entered politics by winning the gubernatorial seat against two popular names: Zarah Pulsar-Lara - wife of 3rd District Representative Joseph Lasam Lara; and Melvin "Boy" Vargas Jr. - former vice governor and son of the late Governor Melvin Vargas Sr. Gov. Aglipay, a former Philippine National Police Chief and native of Camalaniugan, is not associated with a local political dynasty. His children, Michael Edgar Aglipay and Emmeline Aglipay-Villar, however, both previously served as DIWA Partylist Representatives. Emmeline is married to Senator Mark Villar, who is part of the Aguilar-Villar political family of Las Piñas City. Governor Aglipay ran under the One Cagayan Party with Vice Governor Manuel Noveno Mamba. Vice Governor Mamba won over his cousin Leonido Noveno Fausto Sr., while Fausto Jr. secured a seat as provincial board member.

1st District Representative Ramon Nolasco Sr. returned to Congress after being preceded by his son Ramon Jr., who served two terms. Ramon Sr. had earlier served as a two-time three-term mayor of Gattaran and as 1st District Representative. The current mayor of Gattaran is Matthew Nolasco, another son of Ramon Sr.

Rep. Lara and Iguig Mayor Juditas Lasam Trinidad share the same middle name which may indicate possible family ties. 2nd District Representative Baby Aline Vargas-Alfonso is the youngest daughter of the Vargas patriarch Florencio Vargas. A possible emerging extended dynasty is identified with Councilor Juicy Carodan-Alfonso of Sto. Nino, whose husband may be related to Baby Aline's husband, establishing possible relationship by affinity of these two women leaders.

At the municipal level, 50.0% or half of the 28 towns in Cagayan province are led by mayor-vice mayoral teams who are confirmed relatives. These family names include, among others: Mamba of Tuao; Antiporda of Buguey; Pagurayan of Sto. Nino; Carag of Solana; Florida of Allacapan; Unite of Ballesteros; and Ruma of Rizal.

Note: For brevity, 58 municipal dynasties and 65 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

The province of Isabela is the second-largest province in the Philippines by land area and is located in Cagayan Valley Region (Region II). It is composed of three (3) legislative districts, 34 municipalities and three (3) component cities. The province has an indicative dynastic share of 72.4%, one of the highest in the country, significantly surpassing the national average of 54.5%. It has four (4) provincial dynasties, three (3) district dynasties, 65 municipal dynasties, and 65 minor dynasties.

The DY and ALBANO families are among the most influential political groups in Isabela. Over time, members of both families appear to have maintained their alliance of alternately occupying provincial and congressional positions. In the most recent election cycle, both families secured representation across provincial, district, and municipal levels. The Dy family reached a milestone when 6th District Representative Faustino "Bojie" Dy III was elected Speaker of the House of Representatives in the 20th Congress. Two of his nephews also hold congressional seats: Faustino Michael "Mike" Dy III (5th District) and Ian Paul Dy (3rd District). The 1st District is represented by Antonio "Tonypet" Albano, completing his third term in Congress. He is the son of the late Rodolfo Albano Jr., who previously served as district representative, vice governor, mayor of Cabagan, and at one time as a representative of the LPGMA Party-list.

At the provincial level, the Dy and Albano families continue to hold key positions. Governor Rodolfo "Rodito" Albano III, brother of Representative Tonypet Albano, previously served as vice governor. The current vice governor, Francis Faustino "Kiko" Dy, son of Speaker Dy, formerly served as Mayor of Echague. Another nephew of Speaker Dy, Manuel Faustino "King" Dy, is a provincial board member.

Both families are also represented in municipal level leadership. Echague Mayor Faustino "Inno" Dy, a former 6th district representative is Speaker Dy's son while San Manuel Mayor Faustino "Dondon" Dy IV is his brother. In Cauayan City, Mayor Caesar "Jaycee" Dy Jr. and Vice Mayor Benjamin Dy III are both nephews of the Speaker. On the Albano side, Cabagan Mayor Mila Albano-Mamauag is sister to Governor Rodito Albano and Representative Tonypet Albano.

TAN is another prominent political name in Isabela. Incumbent 4th District Representative Joseph Salvador Tan, a former mayor of Santiago City, is father to incumbent Mayor Alyssa Sheena Pua Tan who also previously served as 4th District Representative. Mayor Tan is wife to Mayor Inno Dy of Echague. Santiago City Vice Mayor Jamayne Castillo Tan ran with Mayor Tan under "Team Tan" in the last election, though her filial connection to the mayor is subject to verification.

Note: For brevity, 3 municipal dynasties and 13 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

The province of Nueva Vizcaya is located at the southernmost part of Region II and is often referred to as the gateway to vast Cagayan Valley Region. It is composed of a lone legislative district and 15 municipalities. The province has an indicative dynastic share of 35.0%, significantly lower than the national average of 54.5%. It has one (1) provincial dynasty, two (2) district dynasties, 17 municipal dynasties, and 13 minor dynasties.

The province has long been shaped by the presence of the PADILLA and CUARESMA families. However, recent elections, along with the passing of Governor Carlos M. Padilla, have shifted the balance of leadership. The current political environment reflects the emergence of new names and alliances.

Governor Jose "Jing" GAMBITO assumed office in 2023 through succession following the death of Governor Padilla. He later secured a fresh mandate by winning against Luisa "Banti" Lloren Cuaresma, a former governor and three-term congresswoman. Her daughter, Luisa Corazon "LC" Lloren Cuaresma, currently serves as provincial board member for the 1st District, while her son Benjamin Lloren Cuaresma III is serving his second term as mayor of Bambang. Both Banti and her late husband Benjamin Jr. previously held the mayoral post in Bambang.

Vice Governor Eufemia DACAYO, a former provincial board member, initially rose to the position by succession before being elected in 2025. She is married to Solano Mayor Philip Dacayo.

The CAYTON family holds positions at both district and municipal levels. Former three-term Mayor of Dupax del Norte Timothy Joseph Estonilo Cayton sits as the lone district representative of the province. His brother Juan Paolo Estonilo Cayton, a former provincial board member, is the current mayor of Dupax del Norte.

The province of Quirino is located at the southeastern portion of Cagayan Velley Region (Region II). It is composed of a lone legislative district and six (6) municipalities. The province has an indicative dynastic share of 39.7%, significantly lower than the national average of 54.5%. It has one (1) provincial dynasty, six (6) municipal dynasties, and eight (8) minor dynasties.

The CUA family has long been associated with political leadership in Quirino, maintaining a significant presence in the province for several decades. Members of the family have held the province's top positions, while maintaining alliances with other local leaders. The family patriarch Junie E. Cua, his wife Maria Angela "Angie" Enriquez-Cua, and their son Dakila Carlo "Dax" Cua have served the governorship and Quirino's lone district representative in Congress in the past 30 years. In 2022, Midy Nacague-Cua, wife of incumbent Governor Dax Cua was elected representative of the province. She is currently serving her second term in Congress. Governor Dax Cua also holds a national leadership role as President of the Union of Local Authorities of the Philippines (ULAP), coinciding with his third and final gubernatorial term.

At the municipal level, Diffun Mayor May Garnace Calaunan and Vice Mayor Marlito Garnace Corpuz share the same middle name indicating a possible dynasty. Other incumbent members of provincial board and municipal council share the same surnames with their town mayor or vice mayor. These include surnames Agsalda,Tolentino, and Tiburcio.

Note: For data processing purposes, retained the deceased elected Governor Tolentino in place rather than replace him with Vice Governor turned Governor Galban. For brevity, 5 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Aurora has an indicative dynastic share of 44.1%, lower than the national average of 54.5%. It has four (4) provincial dynasties, two (2) congressional dynasties, ten (10) municipal dynasties, and five (5) minor dynasties. For context, the province is composed of eight (8) municipalities and a single congressional district. Prior to 2002, the province belonged to Region IV.

ANGARA is the most prominent political family of the province. Four generations of family members have already held public office. Their patriarch, Juan Calderon Angara served as mayor of Baler and was the first elected head of the province in the early 1950s. His daughter and three sons also engaged in public service. These include former Senate President Edgardo Angara, former Governor and District Representative Bella Angara, and former Baler Mayors Arturo Javier Angara, and Joselito Angara.

The current district representative, Rommel Rico Teh Angara, is the first cousin of former Senator, now DepEd Secretary Juan Edgardo Sonny Angara. He is also the uncle of Vice Mayor Denise Alyanna De Jesus Angara, daughter of his brother - Baler Mayor Rhett Ronan Teh Angara. Venancio Aris Angara Egargue, another relative, is also a municipal board member of Baler. He has a nephew named Patrick Alexis Angara, as well as a cousin, Ruel Joseph Angara, who are provincial board members, with the latter holding an ex-officio post as the provincial president of Liga ng mga Barangay. A distant niece, Aleirah Angara Bitong, is a municipal councilor in Maria Aurora and her father, Ariel Saturno Bitong is the mayor of the town. Additionally, the Mayor and two councilors of San Luis are also distant relatives. These are Mayor Ariel Angara De Jesus, and Councilors Edwin Angara Pineda and Ariel Albertine De Jesus.

The TOLENTINO together with AMANSEC clan is another well-known political family in Aurora. Governor Reynante Amansec Tolentino who was elected in 2025, served as governor in 2024 when the father-son governor and vice-governor Noveras were removed from office. Ryan Austin Kuan Tolentino, his son, and Menard Macanas Amansec, another relative, join him on the provincial board. Board Member Amansec is the son of Narciso Amansec, a former Vice Mayor of Dipaculao and a three-term board member. Governor Reynante served previously as mayor of Dipaculao and provincial board member as well. Danilo Amansec Tolentino, his brother, is the current mayor of Dipaculao. Alan Forbes Tolentino, a Dipaculao municipal councilor, shares the Tolentino surname but familial ties are unverified.

Note: Surnames with asterisks share the same political clan network. For brevity, 20 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Bataan has an indicative dynastic share of 61.3% , higher compared to the national average of 54.5%. It has two (2) provincial dynasties, one (1) district dynasty, ten (10) municipal dynasties, and 23 minor dynasties. The province, which has a population of close to 900 thousand, has three (3) legislative districts, 11 municipalities, and one (1) component city – the City of Balanga, its capital.

The GARCIA family has been a fixture in Bataan politics for decades. Since 1987, except for a single-term break from 1992 to 1995, the patriarch, Enrique Tuason Garcia Jr. and his sons, Jose Enrique Sandejas Garcia III and Albert Raymond Sandejas Garcia, have served as congressional representatives. In addition to their legislative posts, the three have collectively served nine terms in the provincial capitol, including the current term of Governor Jose Enrique.

Other members of the family likewise occupy elective positions. Maria Angela Sandejas Garcia, the governor's sister, is on her second term as representative of Bataan's 3rd district, which was established in 2021. She previously served three terms as Mayor of Dinalupihan, a position currently held by her husband German Santos, Jr. who assumed office in 2022. Another sibling, Francis Anthony Sandejas, is the vice mayor of the City of Balanga and is married to Mayor Raquel Francis Domingo Garcia. A more distant relative, Maria Reanna Garcia Mendoza, sits as a member of the Balanga Sanggunian. Since 2007, the City of Balanga has consistently elected members of the Garcia family to key local posts.

At the provincial level, their first cousin, Maria Cristina Mangubat Garcia is the current Vice Governor. Two other officials bearing the Garcia surname hold vice mayoral posts - Vice Mayor Maria Chermaine Blossom Garcia-Sibug in Morong and Vice Mayor Cecilia Ruiz Garcia in Pilar. Public available records, however, do not clearly establish whether these officials are directly related to the more prominent members of the Garcia family.

Separately, it is also notable that parent-child pairings for Mayor and Vice Mayor are observed in two (2) Bataan municipalities. These are the David of Limay and Concepcion of Mariveles.

Note: For brevity, 25 municipal dynasties with 2 counts and 38 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Bulacan has one of the highest indicative dynastic shares of 79.1%, second only to Pampanga's 82.2%. This estimate should however be interpreted with caution, given the prevalence of common surnames in the province – such as Reyes and Dela Cruz. Nonetheless, based on the data, there is one (1) provincial dynasty, eight (8) congressional dynasties, 37 municipal dynasties, and 38 minor dynasties. The province comprises 20 municipalities, four (4) component cities, and seven (7) congressional districts, including a dedicated district for the City of San Jose Del Monte.

The most readily identifiable political dynasty in Bulacan is the VILLARICA family, also known for their pawnshop business. At present, there are four Villarica members who hold public office. 4th District Representative Linabelle Ruth Ramos Villarica is married to Meycauayan City Mayor Henry Resurreccion Villarica. Their son, Henry Lester Ramos Villarica, was also elected as city councilor while the mayor's brother, William Resurreccion Villarica, is a provincial board member. Overall, the Villaricas have held the 4th congressional seat since 2010 and the Meycauayan City mayoralty since 2016. Upon checking whether the family can be linked to the Ramos line from Sta. Maria, Plaridel, or Bulacan municipalities, no reliable leads can be found to suggest close consanguinity.

Three (3) of Bulacan's 24 municipalities and cities exhibit direct familial relationships between Mayor and Vice Mayor. Parent and child pairings in San Ildefonso and City of Baliwag, and spousal tandem in Doña Remedios Trinidad are confirmed.

Despite the recurrence of the Castro surname in the dynastic table above, available sources do not provide evidence of familial ties among the officials who serve in different localities. Kinship of the Vice Governor and a Board Member likewise cannot be conclusively established. A similar limitation applies to surnames Cruz, Dela Cruz, Santos, and Mendoza, whose double-digit dynastic counts reflect name frequency rather than verified familial relations.

Note: For brevity, 32 municipal dynasties and 44 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Nueva Ecija with an approximate dynastic share of 67.6% ranks eighth out of 100 cities and provinces. It has two (2) provincial dynasties, four (4) congressional dynasties, 42 municipal dynasties, and 44 minor dynasties. The province known for being the rice capital in the country, has four (4) legislative districts, five (5) component cities, and 27 municipalities.

The UMALI family has held provincial leadership positions since 2007, with Governor Aurelio Matias Umali now on his sixth term. He briefly ceded the post to his wife, Czarina Umali from 2016 to 2019. Since 2019, two of the Governor's brothers served as his deputy — first Emmanuel Antonio Umali for two terms, and currently Vice Governor Gil Raymond Umali. The family likewise held the 3rd congressional district seat from 2001 to 2016.

The VERGARA family took over the 3rd district seat in 2016. Rep. Rosanna Vergara held it for three terms. She was succeeded by her husband, Julius Cesar Vergara in 2025. Prior to this, Julius Cesar Vergara served six (6) terms as Cabanatuan city mayor (1998-2007 and 2010-2019) before his daughter, Myca Elizabeth Vergara ran and won the mayoral race in 2019, 2022, and 2025. They have steered Cabanatuan City politics since 1998, excluding a single term from 2007 to 2010 when an 'estranged' Vergara cousin led the city.

The PASCUAL family likewise merits inclusion. Rep. Emerson David Pascual served two terms as mayor of Gapan City (2016-2022) before securing a congressional seat in 2022 and 2025. His sister, Emary Joy Pascual has manned the mayoralty post since 2022 while the current vice mayor is their nephew.

While excluded from the matrix, the SUANSING family warrants mention. Rep. Estrellita Suansing was succeeded by her daughter, Rep. Mikaela Angela Suansing, following a three-term tenure that began in 2013. Her husband, Horacio Suansing Jr., also served as representative of Sultan Kudarat for nine straight years before the seat was secured by another daughter, Rep. Bella Vanessa Suansing.

Also, eight (8) of Nueva Ecija's 32 cities and municipalities are currently led by mayor and vice mayor tandems involving parent-child, siblings, or spousal relationships, specifically in Cabiao, Lupao, Pantabangan, Quezon, Rizal, San Antonio, San Leonardo, and the Science City of Muñoz.

Note: For brevity, 40 municipal dynasties and 52 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Pampanga takes the top spot with an indicative dynastic share of 82.2%, higher by 27.7% compared to the national average. It has two (2) provincial dynasties, five (5) congressional dynasties, 42 municipal dynasties, and 52 minor dynasties. The province with its four (4) legislative districts, one (1) highly urbanized city, two (2) component cities, and 19 municipalities, is replete with political families.

Governor Lilia Garcia Pineda has anchored the PINEDA family's hold on provincial leadership since 2010, alternating in election runs with her only son, Vice Governor Dennis Pineda. The family has also sustained control of Lubao, its historical political stronghold. After Governor Pineda's stint as mayor from 1992 to 2001, the position was won and held by her children Dennis Pineda (2001-2010), Mylyn Pineda-Cayabyab (2010-2019), and Mayor Esmeralda Pineda (2019–present), for nine years each. A grandson, Jayson Pineda Victorino, recently won as councilor. 2026 marks the 34th year of the family's leadership in Lubao. Note also that the wife of Vice Governor Dennis Pineda, Yolanda Miranda Pineda, sat as Mayor of Sta. Rita from 2007 to 2016.

Intergenerational succession is likewise observable in all four (4) legislative districts. In the 1st District, the LAZATIN family extended its tenure with the election of Rep. Carmelo Lazatin Jr., continuing the nine years of representation by his brother, Carmelo Lazatin II, who is now mayor of Angeles City. Prior to this, Carmelo Lazatin Jr. held the mayoralty for six years. Their father, Carmelo Lazatin Sr., also occupied both posts in the past, as city mayor from 1998 to 2007 and as congressman from 2007 to 2013.

In the 2nd District, the electorate consistently favored the MACAPAGAL family, which has won the last eight congressional races. Former President and incumbent Rep. Gloria Macapagal Arroyo accounted for five victories, while the remaining three were secured by her son, Juan Miguel Macapagal Arroyo, who also served as representative of Ang Galing Pinoy party list. As a side bar, another son, Diosdado Ignacio Jose Maria Macapagal Arroyo was also a congressman of Camarines Sur for nine years from 2007 to 2016.

In the 3rd District, neophyte Rep. Alyssa Michaela GONZALES won and succeeded her father Aurelio Gonzales after finishing his full nine years. Rep. Aurelio Gonzales also previously represented the district from 2007 to 2013. His son, Aurelio Brenz Gonzales, moved from councilor to Vice Mayor of San Fernando City, while Michaeline de Guzman Mercado, the congressman's spouse, entered politics as a provincial board member.

Finally, the BONDOC family has won all 4th District congressional elections since 1992. The father, Rep. Emigdio Bondoc, sat briefly from 1992 to 1997, then was succeeded by his son, Rep. Juan Pablo Bondoc. Current Rep. Anna York Bondoc is his sister and the wife of a potential dynastic mayor Jayson Sagum of San Luis.

Note: For brevity, 12 municipal and 38 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Tarlac records an indicative dynastic share of 61.4%, higher than the 54.5% national average. It has three (3) provincial dynasties, three (3) district dynasties, 17 municipal dynasties, and 38 minor dynasties present across its three (3) legislative districts, one (1) component city, and 17 municipalities.

The YAP family has sustained a prominent presence in Tarlac politics for nearly three decades, with its consolidation beginning in 1998 under patriarch Jose Yap Sr. Governor Christian Tell Areno Yap's current term marks the family's tenth consecutive gubernatorial victory, following nine-year stints by his uncle, Victor Yap, and his mother, Susan Yap-Sulit. Other family members also occupy elective posts, including San Jose Councilor Emilio Yap Macasaet, an ex-officio member of the provincial board, while his father, Rolando Ledesma Macasaet, represents the SSS-GSIS Pensionado party list.

The family has similarly exercised influence in the 2nd congressional district through successive election wins. The seat was first held by Jose Yap Sr. in 2007, followed by Susan Yap in 2010, Victor Yap in 2016, and Christian Tell Yap in 2022. This run ended in the most recent election with the victory of Tarlac City Mayor Maria Cristina Angeles, the Yaps' first congressional loss in almost two decades. Beyond the district level, members of the Yap family have also held elective posts in Victoria municipality at various points, including Jose Yap Sr. (1952-1959), Victor Yap (1988-1998), and Christian Tell Areno Yap (2019-2022). Another close family member, Jose Yap Jr., previously served as mayor of San Jose municipality until 2019.

The ANGELES family constitutes a more recent entrant into provincial politics. Former Tarlac City Mayor and incumbent Rep. Maria Cristina Angeles is the mother of Vice-Mayor and termer councilor Katrina Theresa Angeles. A planned mayoralty succession involving the congresswoman's husband, however, did not materialize after Mayor Susan Yap Sulit won the post, marking the Yap family's initial venture into city politics.

The storied AQUINO family maintains a presence in Moncada politics. Incumbent Vice Governor Estelita Montano Aquino previously served three terms as mayor before her adopted son, Mayor Ramon Benito Montano Aquino and brother-in-law Vice Mayor Jesse Espejo Aquino took over. Earlier, mayoralty position was held by her husband, Benito Espejo Aquino. Other individuals bearing the Aquino surname currently serve in the Sangguniang Bayan, suggesting broader familial participation.

Excluded from the table, the COJUANGCO family has retained the 1st district congressional seat across four generations, with incumbent Rep. Jaime Cojuangco continuing a lineage that dates back to 1909. In recent history, the family has held the congressional seat for sixteen years. Cojuangco scions who have held the seat are Rep. Jaime Cojuangco's father, Charlie Oppen, his grandfather Eduardo Jr., two Uncles, Enrique and Jose Jr., his great grandfather, Jose Chichioco Cojuangco Sr., and even his great-great grandfather Melecio Cojuangco.

Note: For brevity, 3 municipal dynasties and 26 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

With an estimated 54.5% dynastic share, Zambales closely mirrors the national average. It has three (3) provincial dynasties, two (2) district dynasties, 15 municipal dynasties, and 26 minor dynasties present in across two (2) congressional districts, one (1) highly urbanized city, and 13 municipalities.

Two families — Khonghun and Ebdane — emerge as the most established political clans in the province. The KHONGHUN family's emergence can be attributed to Mayor Jeffrey Domingo Khonghun, now on his second term in Castillejos. He previously represented Zambales' 1st district from 2013 to 2022. The congressional seat was then secured by his son, Rep. Jefferson Ferrer Khonghun. Prior to this, Rep. Jefferson Khonghun held several local and provincial posts, including vice governor from 2019 to 2022, mayor of Subic from 2010 to 2019, after first entering public office as a provincial board member in 2004. Another son, Jonathan John Ferrer Khonghun, assumed the Subic mayoralty for nine years until 2025, following two terms on the provincial board from 2013 to 2019. Their sister, Jacqueline Rose Ferrer Khonghun, is currently on her second term as vice governor. A younger generation has also entered local politics, with her son, Jamiel Jules Khonghun Escalona, elected as Olongapo City Councilor beginning in 2019.

Alongside the Khonghuns, the EBDANE family represents a more recent but influential political force. Former Philippine National Police Chief Hermogenes Edejer Ebdane Jr. first served as governor from 2010 to 2016 before returning to the post in 2019, which he continues to hold to this day. His sons have established political bases in separate municipalities. The elder, Jun Rundstedt Cabanayan Ebdane, previously served as mayor of Iba from 2013 to 2022 and now sits on the provincial board. His brother, Jun Omar Cabanayan Ebdane, built his political career in Botolan, where he is currently in his fourth year as mayor, following a brief stint as 2nd district representative in 2012 after winning a special election.

Note that in two local governments in the province, parent and child leadership pairings are observable. These are in Masinloc and Palauig municipalities.

Note: For brevity, 5 district, 49 municipal and 63 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Batangas Province is composed of six (6) districts, thirty (30) municipalities and four (4) component cities. The province records a dynastic share of 71.4%, significantly higher than the national average of 54.5%, driven by one (1) dominant provincial dynasty, eight (8) district dynasties, 52 municipal dynasties, and 63 minor dynasties.

The RECTO family remains influential, with Vilma Santos Recto serving as Governor, her husband former senator Ralph Gonzalez Recto now the country's Executive Secretary, and their son Ryan Christian Santos Recto representing the 6th District, previously held by his father.

Another notable clan is the REYES-LUISTRO political family. Gerville Reyes-Luistro serves as 2nd District Representative while her husband Noel Basit Luistro, serves as Mayor in Mabini.

The DIMACUHA family, 5th District Representative Beverley Rose Abaya Dimacuha is the only daughter of former mayors Eduardo Dimacuha and Vilma Dimacuha. Her husband is Batangas City Mayor Marvey Vittorio Mariño, while his sister-in-law Alyssa Renee Abaya Cruz is the Vice Mayor.

Representative King George Valencia COLLANTES holds the 3rd District, he is the son of former 3rd District Representative Maria Theresa "Maitet" and incumbent Mayor Nelson Perez Collantes of Tanauan City.

Although 52 municipal dynasties are currently recorded, it is notable that four surnames may potentially fall under this specific type of dynastic pattern. In Malvar, Mayor Artemio Manalo ABU serves alongside his son, Sangguniang Bayan Member Kurt Patrick Vergara Abu. In San Nicolas, Mayor Lester Dinglasan DE SAGUN is joined by his son, Sangguniang Bayan Member Ruelito Matienzo De Sagun. In Balete, Mayor Wilson VILLAPANDO MARALIT and his brother, Sangguniang Bayan Member Ronald Villapando Maralit, likewise share positions in local governance. Though 43 others bear the same surnames, their blood relations cannot be publicly identified.

Cavite Province is composed of 16 municipalities and 7 cities, subdivided into 8 congressional districts. It registers a dynastic share of 62.1%, exceeding the national average of 54.5%. Estimates allude to the preserved four (4) provincial dynasties, nine (9) district dynasties, 33 municipal dynasties, and 38 minor dynasties.

The most prominent is the REMULLA-DIAZ family, Governor Francisco Gabriel Diaz Remulla succeeded his uncle, Juanito Victor "Jonvic" Remulla Jr., now DILG Secretary. Jonvic's brother, Jesus Crispin Remulla, former 7th District Representative and DOJ Secretary, is the current Ombudsman. His son, 7th District Representative Crispin Diego Diaz Remulla, while his daughter Vice Mayor Jacinta Maria Remulla Diaz in Naic. Their nephews, Jesse Raphael Grepo Remulla and Darwin Martir Remulla, sit on the councils of General Trias and Imus.

The REVILLA-BAUTISTA forms a district dynasty: 1st District Representative Lani Mercado Revilla, her son 2nd District Ramon "Jolo" Revilla and Agimat Partylist Representative Leonard Bryan Revilla. Her husband, Ramon "Bong" Revilla Jr. served as senator, while siblings-in-law Mayor Strike Revilla and Vice Mayor Rowena Bautista Mendiola lead Bacoor.

The TOLENTINO family dominates Tagaytay, Vice Mayor Agnes Delgado Tolentino is married to former congressman and mayor Abraham Tolentino. Their daughter is 8th District Representative Aniela Bianca Delgado Tolentino and their son Mayor Aizack Brent Delgado Tolentino. Abraham's brother, former senator Francis Tolentino, has a son, Michael Francis Tolentino, on the city council, while cousin Allan Amon Tolentino serves in Silang.

Another district dynasty present is the FERRER family, prominent in the 6th District, with Representative Antonio Alandy Ferrer as the son of former provincial vice governor Luis S. Ferrer III, and grandson and great-grandson of former Cavite governors Luis Y. Ferrer Jr. and Luis O. Ferrer Sr. Their influence continues in General Trias, where his brother, Luis Alandy Ferrer IV, serves as Mayor, and his son, Martin Nicholo Ferrer as Sangguniang Panlungsod Member. The LOYOLA family likewise maintains a strong presence, with 5th District Representative Roy Maulanin Loyola, his wife Dahlia Ambayec Loyola as Mayor of Carmona, and their son Roy Ambayec Loyola III as Sangguniang Panlungsod Member, alongside Vice Mayor Cesar Loyola Ines Jr. and Sanggunian Panlungsod Rebecca Loyola-Reyes. The ADVINCULA family also holds multiple posts, with 3rd District Representative Adrian Jay Caguicla Advincula as the son of former mayor Alex Advincula, his brother Alex Lacson Advincula serving as Mayor of Imus, and his son Roberto Lacson Advincula as Member of the Sangguniang Panlungsod in Bacoor. In Dasmariñas, the BARZAGA family demonstrates similar influence, with 4th District Representative Francisco A. Barzaga, his mother Jennifer Austria Barzaga as Mayor, and his brother Elpidio "Pidi" Barzaga III as Vice Mayor.

The province's family ties continue in the municipality of Kawit, with Mayor Cynthia Gutierrez AGUINALDO and Vice Mayor Angelo Emilio Aguinaldo serving as a mother-son tandem. In Noveleta, siblings Davey Christian and Dhino Carlo Reyes CHUA hold the mayor and vice mayor posts, while their brother, Dennver Christopher, is Mayor of Cavite City. In Tanza, Mayor Archangelo Bacolod Matro and Vice Mayor Raymundo Arca DEL ROSARIO lead the municipality, while relatives Nino Federico Bacolod Matro and Antonio Del Rosario Jr. sit on the Sangguniang Bayan. However, the exact familial relations among these personalities are difficult to establish.

Laguna Province has 24 municipalities and 6 cities, represented through 6 congressional districts. The province records a dynastic share of 58%, slightly above the national average of 54.5%, sustained by one (1) provincial dynasty, seven (7) district dynasties, 37 municipal dynasties, and 48 minor dynasties.

The DIMAGUILA-REYES clans stand out as the most prominent district dynasty in Laguna, Lone District Representative Walfredo Reyes Dimaguila Jr. in Biñan, supported locally by his wife, Vice Mayor Jonalina Reyes Dimaguila, their son, Councilor Arthur Reyes Dimaguila. In Alaminos, Mayor Ericson Reyes Lopez leads the municipality with Councilor Edgardo Reyes Briz, though their direct link to the Dimaguila–Reyes line remains unconfirmed.

The AGARAO family is another notable dynasty with 4th District Representative Benjamin Cueto Agarao Jr., his daughter is Sangguniang Panlalawigan Member Maria Jamina Katherine Agarao and his son Mayor Joseph Kris Benjamin Agarao in Santa Cruz.

Other notable clans include the ARCILLAS family at the municipal level, with Arlene Arcillas serving as Mayor of Santa Rosa and her brother Arnold Arcillas as Vice Mayor; and the EJERCITO clan, with Emilio Ramon 'E.R.' Ejercito III as Mayor of Pagsanjan. He is part of the prominent Ejercito–Estrada political clan, being the nephew of former President Joseph Estrada and cousin of Senator Jinggoy Ejercito Estrada. E.R.'s son, John Paul Javier Ejercito, serves as councilor.

Quezon Province has 4 districts, 39 municipalities and 2 cities. It records a dynastic share of 57.4%, above the national average of 54.5%, estimates indicate three (3) provincial dynasties, two (2) district dynasties, 52 municipal dynasties, and 56 minor dynasties.

The ALCALA family holds positions across multiple levels of governance in this province. At the provincial level, Vice Governor Anacleto "Third" Almendras Alcala III is the son of Anacleto Alcala Sr. (identified as the patriarch from whom the family's political influence in Lucena and Quezon traces its roots). His cousin, Vinnette Estrella Alcala, holds a position in the Sangguniang Panlalawigan while her sibling Vince Rudolph Estrella Alcala holds a seat in the Sangguniang Bayan of Sariaya. In Candelaria, Sanggunian Bayan Member Daveilyn Arienda Alcala; cousin to Vinnette and Anacleto III, extends the family's reach into municipal politics. Lucena City (deed or indeed) serves as the dynasty's bailiwick, with Mayor Mark Don Victor Benitez Alcala, son of Vice Mayor Roderick Alcantara Alcala, and cousin Sangguniang Panlungsod Member Ryan Caezar Edaño Alcala.

The SUAREZ clan is anchored in Unisan and Quezon's 2nd District, with Congressman David "Jay-Jay" Suarez representing the latest generation of the dynasty. He is the son of Danilo E. Suarez, long-time Congressman and former House Minority Leader, and Aleta Suarez, who also held the congressional seat. His siblings, Donaldo "Don" Suarez served as Mayor of Unisan, while Danilo Jr. Suarez became a Board Member of Quezon Province. David's wife, Anna Marie Villaraza-Suarez, served as Representative of the ALONA Partylist.

The TAN-DE LUNA dynasty is led by Governor Angelina "Helen" Beredo De Luna-Tan, while her son Keith Micah "Mike" Tan succeeded his mother as Representative of Quezon's 4th District.

Another possible notable dynasty at the municipal level is the LIM brothers, who carry the 'Alagang Lim' brand of leadership. Mayor Anthony Lim serves in Tayabas City, while Mayor Ralph Edward Lim leads San Andres. In Tagkawayan, Mayor Luis Oscar Tolentino ELEAZAR serves alongside his wife, Sanggunian Bayan Member Rachel Abraham Eleazar. In Guinayangan, Mayor Cesar Juarez ISAAC III is joined by his brother, Sanggunian Bayan Member Christopher Marco Isaac. In Mauban, Mayor Erwin Bautista PASTRANA serves with his son, Sanggunian Bayan Member Juan Lorenzo Jacobo Pastrana, while in General Luna, Mayor Jose Stevenson SANGALANG is accompanied by son Sanggunian Bayan Member Mark Lloyd Escara Sangalang. In Lopez, a family tandem is evident with Mayor Isaias Bitoin UBANA II, his wife Board Member Rachel Acaylar Ubana, and their daughter, Sanggunian Bayan Member Ira Beatrice Acaylar Ubana. In San Nicolas, Mayor Joselito Rocas ALEGA serves alongside his daughters, Vice Mayor Jean Chriscelene Alega Floresta and Sanggunian Bayan Member Jazzy dela Rosa Alega.

Several local officials in Quezon share the same family names, though their exact relationships cannot be verified with available information online. These include Mayor Pastora Rosales AGUIRRE and Councilor Kristine Aguirre Adao in Mulanay; Mayor Gina Pera GONZALES and Councilor Jeric Gonzales Boniel in Burdeos; Mayor Vincent Arjay MARQUEZ Mea of Tiaong, Mayor Erick Marquez Wagan of San Antonio, and Councilor Dino Marquez Romero of Tayabas City; Mayor Lord Arnel 'LA' Fuente RUANTO and Sanggunian Bayan Member Marlo Ruanto Cuento in Infanta; and in Jomalig, Mayor Nelmar Tapar SARMIENTO and Councilor Merlinda Sarmiento Mampusti.

The Province of Rizal has four districts, 13 municipalities and one city (Antipolo). It records a dynastic share of 59.6%, above the national average of 54.5%, with four (4) district dynasties, 13 municipal dynasties, and 25 minor dynasties.

The ALCANTARA-YNARES family has played a significant role in Rizal politics for over half a century, beginning with Casimiro "Ito" Ynares Jr. as governor in the 1970s, followed by his wife Rebecca "Nini" Alcantara Ynares, who also served as governor. Their son, Casimiro "Jun" Ynares III, served as mayor of Antipolo City and earlier as governor, extending the family's role in local politics. Jun is married to Andrea Bautista-Ynares, who also served as mayor and comes from the Bautista-Revilla clan of Cavite. The family's influence continues with Nina Ricci Alcantara Ynares as Provincial Governor, Rebecca Maria Alcantara Ynares as 1st District Representative, and other members such as Ma. Elvira Cecille Ynares as Mayor and Russel Guiller Ynares as Vice Mayor of Binangonan.

Another prominent provincial presence is the GALANG-GATLABAYAN surname, which appears across different municipalities. Josefina Galang Gatlabayan currently serves as Provincial Vice Governor. She is married to Angelito Cabaron Gatlabayan, who previously held office as City Mayor of Antipolo and Representative of the 2nd District. Their youngest son, James Galang Gatlabayan, is a Member of the Sangguniang Panlungsod in Antipolo City.

While the table above highlighted only one surname categorized as a potential district dynasty, it is important to note that three additional surnames may also fall under this category; although they share the same surname, their family connections have not been publicly verified: TANJUATCO in the 2nd District, Garcia in the 3rd District, and Hernandez in the 4th District. In the 1st District, Representative Ronaldo Villanueva PUNO is the brother of former Representative Roberto Villanueva Puno, whose wife, Cristina "Chiqui" Roa-Puno, likewise served as Representative of Antipolo's 1st District. His family ties also include Reynaldo Nicolas Roa Puno, Member of the Sangguniang Panlalawigan, and Roberto Andres Roa Puno Jr., Vice Mayor of Antipolo City.

At the municipal level, among the 13 recorded municipalities, the ROBLES family in Baras stands out with a husband-wife tandem: Mayor Wilfredo Caisip Robles and Vice Mayor Kathrine Bulaong Robles, while other members of the Robles family serve as Sangguniang Bayan Members. In Angono, Mayor Gerardo Villamarin Calderon serves alongside his daughter, Vice Mayor Jeri Mae Esguerra Calderon

Catanduanes, an island province with a sole congressional district, is composed of 11 towns, divided under two (2) administrative districts electing for separate provincial board members.

Though its indicative dynastic share is 56.9% or 70 out of 123 local positions have at least one (1) matching last name or middle name, which is above the national average of 54.5%, it may not be reflective of the relations by blood or marriage.

As shown in the table, the inventory of last name and middle name shared by elected officials, indicate likely dynasties including one (1) provincial dynasty, one (1) district dynasty and 14 municipal dynasties.

The identified sole provincial dynasty of AQUINO-FERNANDEZ represented by Vice-governor Robert Aquino Fernandez (VGOV) and the three (3) municipal board members of Caramoran - Bonfillio Tarroquin Fernandez (MBM, Caramoran), Mathew Bernard Borbe Fernandez (MBM, Caramoran), Soneta Dela Cruz Fernandez (MBM, Caramoran) – though sharing surnames are from different families. With respect to the municipal board members from towns at the eastern district of province, at best, they are possibly distantly or indirectly related with the vice governor, or among each other.

Rep. Eulogio Rodriguez is likewise found to be not related to Pandan vice-mayor Eric Trinidad Rodriguez.

Other common family names that appear but whose exact relationships are undetermined that may be typical of a municipal dynasty include the Arcilla, Teves, and Guerrero surnames.

For brevity, 28 other municipal dynasties and 57 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Masbate Province has three (3) congressional districts, consisting of one (1) city and 20 municipalities spread over the islands of Masbate, Ticao and Burias. Its indicative dynastic share is 60.4% or 137 local officials out of 227 total positions have similar last or middle name, which is nearly five (5) percentage points above the national average of 54.5%. Masbate has 75 indicative likely dynasties, comprising two (2) provincial dynasties, 26 city/municipal dynasties, and 31 other minor dynasties.

The KHO hold nine elective posts in the province, including Ricardo Tingcungco Kho (GOV) now replaced by his father Antonio Tero Kho (now REP, 1st District), mother ELISA Tingcungco Kho (REP, 2nd District), uncle Wilton Tan Kho (REP, 3rd District), aunt Olga Tingcungco Kho (MAYOR, Masbate City), daughter-in-law Kristine Salve Hao Kho (MAYOR, Mandaon), and likely distant relatives - Philip Sonny Kho Cabataña (VMAY, Cataingan), Wilson Leo Kho (MBM, Cataingan), Ralph Kho Cabataña (MBM, Cataingan). While 3rd District Representative Wilton Kho's middle name is Tan, online sources do not confirm relation to Joseleo Ong Tan (MBM, Milagros) unlike in the case of Emily Estipona Hao (VMAY, Mandaon) who is the mother of Mandaon Mayor Hao Kho.

Another likely province-wide dynasty is the TALISIC represented by incumbent vice-governor Fernando Pastrana Talisic, sons Jeffrey Justin Tagnipez Talisic (MAYOR, Esperanza) and Rafael Job Tagnipez Talisic (MBM, Esperanza), and sister Gresilda Pastrana Talisic (MBM, Cataingan).

Sorsogon is divided into two (2) congressional districts for its one (1) component city and 15 municipalities.

It has 54.5% dynastic share or 85 officials out of the total 169 total positions sharing common last name or middle name. The province has 44 indicative dynasties comprising two (2) provincial dynasties, one (1) district dynasty, 19 city/municipal dynasties, and 19 minor dynasties.

The provincial dynasty of the HAMOR family includes Gov. Jose Edwin Brondial Hamor, wife Ma. Ester Escasa Hamor (MAYOR, City of Sorsogon), daughter Maria Minez Rabia Hamor (MAYOR, Casiguran), sister Catalina Grace Brondial Yu Hamor (MAY, Irosin), and likely relative Restituto Español Hamor (MBM, Casiguran).

ESCUDERO dynasty started with the patriarch Salvador C. Escudero Sr., who was governor in 1946-1955, followed by Antonio Escudero, then son Salvador Escudero III and wife Evelina B. Escudero who are the parents of Incumbent Senator Francis Joseph Guevara Escudero and Marie Bernadette Guevara Escudero (REP, 1st District). Other related incumbent officials to the siblings include cousin Krunimar Antonio Daen Escudero II (VGOV), distant relative Dennis Alfonso Lazaro Escudero (VMAY, Casiguran) and paternal uncle Ramon Bañares Escudero (MBM, Casiguran).

The sole district dynasty of the province is the FORTES represented by Manuel Laurio Fortes Jr. (REP, 2nd District), wife Cynthia Gacosta Falcotelo-Fortes (MAYOR, Barcelona) and likely distant relative Irvin Karl Serrano Fortes (MBM, Irosin).

Note. For brevity, 1 provincial, 24 municipal dynasties, and 29 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Aklan province, which consists of 17 municipalities and two (2) cities recorded an indicative dynastic share of 66.3% in the 2025 elections. This is significantly higher than the national average of 54.5%. Overall, Aklan's political landscape is characterized by the presence of two (2) provincial dynasties, 29 municipal dynasties, and 29 minor dynasties.

One of the most prominent political families in the province is the MIRAFLORES clan, whose members occupy several key positions. Florencio "Joeben" Tumbocon Miraflores serves as representative, while his sons, Jose Enrique and Jose Miguel, hold the governorship and the mayoralty of Ibajay, respectively. They are related through their maternal lineage to former representative Teodorico Haresco Jr. Meanwhile, his son, Jose Haresco, serves as a board member of the 2nd district.

In Kalibo, officials with the surname LACHICA include councilors William Tibar Lachica Jr. and Emerson Sucgang Lachica, sons of former mayor William Lachica Sr., and Ronald Lachica Marte (board member). Other Lachicas holding positions include Mark Ace Lachica Bautista (board member) and Patrick Felipe Lachica (vice mayor, Balete). However, the exact degree of consanguinity among these officials remains for verification.

In Libacao, the NAVAROSA family controls both the mayoralty and vice mayoralty, held by Vincent Navarosa and his son, Charito. Other family members also serve in the Sangguniang Bayan, including Winston P. Navarosa and Napoleon N. Navarosa as municipal councilors. In Lezo, two (2) officials are of direct lineage. Daughter and mother tandem, Meekia Fernandez Icasas currently serves as mayor, while her mother, Mary Lenette Rescate Fernandez, is the vice mayor. Five (5) officials also share the family name FERNANDEZ: Bob Augusto Fernandez Legaspi (Board Member, 2nd District). Joselito Besana Fernandez (Councilor, Banga), Lowell Seville Fernandez (Councilor, Ibajay), Diosilio Fernandez Malonosan (Councilor, New Washington), and Willie Fernandez Eimar (Councilor, Anini-y) but sources could not verify their exact relationship with the core Fernandez political family in Lezo, making it unclear whether they form part of the same extended dynasty or merely share a common surname.

In Tangalan, brothers Gary and Gene Torre Fuentes have held the mayoral and vice mayoral seats, alternating when term limits expire. Glenn Fuentes Tigson, a municipal councilor in Tangalan, and Venice Sharra Fuentes Roldan, a councilor in Banga, share the same FUENTES family name but sources could not confirm if they are related to the brothers.

Another family name that appears but whose exact relationships are undetermined include BAUTISTA. Six (6) officials share this family name: Juris Bautista Sucro, Mayor of Kalibo and Frolibar Sacapaño Bautista, Mayor of Malay. Municipal Councilors William Raval Bautista, Jr. (Batan), Glory Dee Flogio Bautista (Batan), Rex Abayon Bautista (Kalibo), Jazel Pastrana Bautista (New Washington).

The province of Antique consists of 18 municipalities and is currently represented by a single legislative district. It recorded a dynastic share of 47.9%, well below the national average of 54.5%. It has two (2) provincial dynasties, one (1) district dynasty, 22 municipal dynasties, and 19 minor dynasties.

At the provincial level in Antique, several family surnames appear across positions from the governorship down to municipal offices. The LIM family includes siblings Genevive Lim-Reyes, provincial vice governor and Rigil Kent Gumban Lim, mayor of Caluya; and their distant uncle Walden Mandolado Lim, vice mayor of Tibiao. The JAVIER surname includes Governor Paolo Everdado Sales Javier and Councilor Genevive Elanga Javier of Anini-y. However, the familial relationships among these officials cannot be verified based on publicly available records.

At the municipal level, the family name NICOPIOR is shared by four officials namely: Mayor Maribeth Nicopior Laserna, Vice Mayor Mary Jean Nicopior Te, and Board Member Cezmar Nicopior Tonogan of Libertad. Their cousin, Joseph Nicopior Untaran is the Mayor of San Jose.

Brother tandems are evident in the region. The mayoral and vice mayoral posts are occupied by the TAJANLANGIT brothers Ernesto III and Cezar in Tobias Fornier, the NECOR brothers Roberto and Gerry hold the same posts in Barbaza.

In Culasi, the LOMUGDANG father-son tandem leads, with Joel Alas as mayor and Jose Jeffrey as vice mayor. Their nephew, Pete Joseph Lomugdang Rivera, also serves as a councilor. In Hamtic, the PACIFICADOR family leads with Julius Ronald re-elected as mayor, while his father Julius secured a third term as vice mayor. Two other officials sharing the Pacificador surname, Ma. Eva Dominguez Pacificador and Joker Alberto De Las Llagas Pacificador, won the councilor seats.

In Anini-y, four officials share the surname POLLICAR. Reynaldo serves as mayor, and Maxfil as vice mayor, while Deniesse Sto. Domingo-Pollicar and Rollyza Nueva Haban Pollicar hold seats in the Sangguniang Bayan.

Meanwhile, Antique lone district Representative Antonio Agapito 'AA' Legarda is a member of the broader LEGARDA political clan, although this relationship is not reflected in the table. He is the half-brother of incumbent Senator Loren Legarda, whose son, Leandro Legarda Leviste, currently serves as the 1st District Representative of Batangas.[3]

[3] Further discussion can be found in the Batangas City report.

Capiz, composed of 16 municipalities and one (1) component city, has an indicative dynastic share of 50.5%, slightly below the national average of 54.5%. The province hosts two (2) provincial dynasties, 23 municipal dynasties, and 22 minor dynasties. It has no district dynasties, as its three (3) representatives—all members of the Tan clan—are related to the governor (thus part of the broader Castro clan).

The CASTRO clan holds five (5) simultaneous positions across two (2) levels of the LGU: Provincial Governor Fredenil Hernaez Castro; his wife, 2nd District Representative Jane Tan Castro; their children, Dumalag Mayor Maria Concepcion, Vice Mayor Fredenil Tan Castro II, and their nephew, Sangguniang Bayan member Rainjo Deysolong Castro. The husband and wife Castros have held the 2nd District representative seat for the past two decades. Governor Castro's Sister, Lilia Castro also ran for vice mayor in 2016 and won.

At the municipal level, the PALOMAR clan holds multiple positions. Current Mayor Rex Dante Lavado Palomar leads the municipality, while his older brother, former long-serving Mayor Roberto "Nonong" Palomar, now serves as vice mayor. Nonong Palomar's wife, Milagros Roa Palomar, occupies a seat in the Sangguniang Bayan, alongside their cousin, Karen Artuz Palomar, who is also a board member.

The TINSAY-DADIVAS are also holding positions in the province. The son of former Capiz 1st District Representative Rodriguez Dadivas, Rodriguez Tinsay Dadivas, Jr. is serving as Sangguniang Bayan member of Panitan, Capiz while his brother, Ronnie Tinsay Dadivas is serving as Roxas City mayor.

In Dumarag, the HACHUELA family leads the municipality through a father-daughter tandem: Mateo Concepcion Hachuela serves as mayor, while his daughter, Gleah Rose Bulaquiña Hachuela, holds the vice mayor position. In Pilar, the PEREZ family is represented by multi-term Mayor Arnold Alba Perez, his siblings Blesilda Perez Almalbis as board member and Ian Alba Perez as councilor. Within the same family name, Marlon Calimoso Perez holds a councilor seat in neighboring Tapaz, Capiz however, his relationship to the sibling cannot be confirmed based on available information.

Meanwhile, the YAP family name is shared by three (3) officials. Multiple-term Mayor Felipe Neri Navarra Yap is the son of former Mayor Amelia Yap, who served two terms, and the brother of former Mayor Jose Noel Yap. His nephew is Vice Mayor Jose Romeo U. Yap. Another official sharing the same family name, Cesar Salon Yap, Jr. is serving as board member; however, his kinship with the family could not be confirmed.

Guimaras is a small island province with only five (5) municipalities, yet it is one of the most dynasty-saturated provinces in Western Visayas. Its estimated dynastic share at 60.3% is higher than the national average of 54.5%. It has two (2) provincial dynasties, seven (7) municipal dynasties, and ten (10) minor dynasties. There is no district dynasty as their representative is related to the governor (thus included in the provincial dynasty).

The NAVA clan holds several positions in the province. Joaquin Carlos "JC" Rahman Araño Nava won as the lone district representative, who switched positions with his wife, Ma. Lucille Ledesma-Nava, who won the gubernatorial race. His brother, Felipe Hilan Araño Nava is a 2nd district board member. Anna Philippa Golez Nava, daughter of Felipe, won as vice mayor of Jordan.

The GUMARIN clan is another notable political family in the province. Cecile Cabangal Gumarin, former Vice Mayor and now Provincial Vice Governor, is married to Samuel Tayo Gumarin, who currently serves as Mayor of Buenavista and previously held the provincial governorship for three consecutive terms. Feonabelle Gumarin Davis, his cousin, serves as a Board Member of Buenavista.

Four (4) officials share the same GAMARCHA family name, Reynaldo Gamarcha Segovia is serving as vice mayor of Sibunag, while Christian Gamarcha Infante, Jimmy Gamarcha Gallego, and Rolly Florendo Gamarcha are serving as Sangguniang Bayan members. Two officials bear the GALILA family name: Mayor Emmanuel Dela Cruz Galila and Sangguniang Bayan member, Jun Cesar Echavez Galila. Two officials share the GANANCIAL family name, Mayor John Edward Ganancial Gando and Sangguniang Bayan member, and distant cousin, Joel Ganancial Maestral, though this relationship could not be independently verified.

Iloilo has a political landscape shaped by its five (5) congressional districts, 42 municipalities, and two (2) cities. Iloilo recorded a dynastic share of 52.5%, slightly below but approaching the national average of 54.5%.

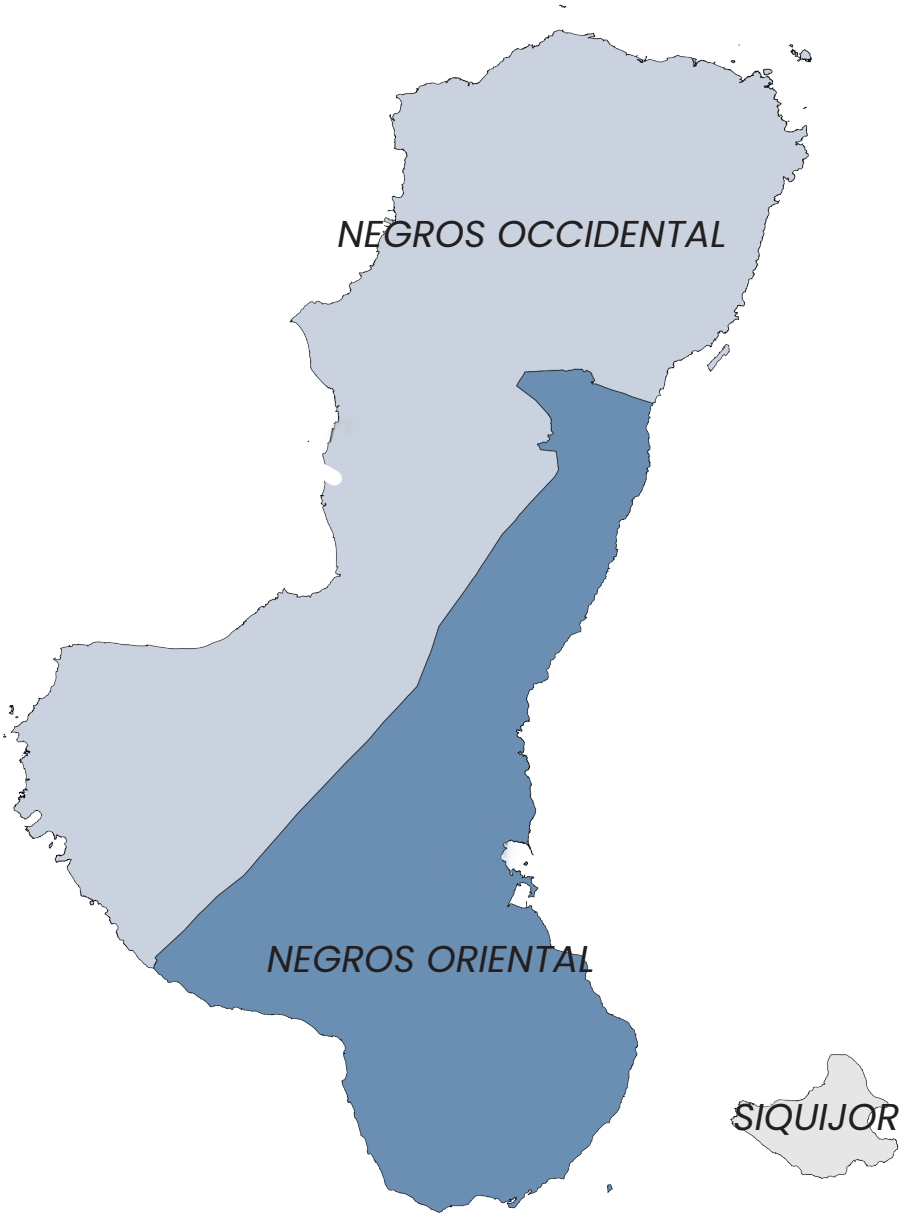

In the 1st district, five (5) officials bear the family name GARIN. Oscar "Richard" Serag Garin Jr., Mayor of Miagao and former vice governor and representative of the 1st district, is the son of former Representatives and Guimbal Mayors Oscar Garin Sr. and Nimfa Serag Garin. His wife, Representative and former Health Secretary Janette "Doc Nanay" Loreto-Garin, and their daughter, Rica Jane Loreto Garin, a provincial board member, extend the family's political presence. His sister, Jennifer Garin-Colada is mayor of Guimbal, while her husband, Lex Anthony Colada, is a former AAMBIS-OWA party-list representative. There is also Guimbal Vice Mayor Christine Serag Garin and Department of Energy Secretary Sharon Serag Garin.

The GORRICETA family includes Representative Kathryn Joyce Fermin Gorriceta, wife of former Congressman Michael Gorriceta; Pavia Mayor Laurence Anthony Gorriceta, son of the late former Congressman Arcadio Gorriceta and cousin of Michael Gorriceta; and their nephew, Councilor Kervin Matthew Gorriceta Zaldivarriaga.

In the 3rd district, the DEFENSOR family is led by Governor Arthur Rivera Defensor Jr., son of former Governor and Representative Arthur Defensor Sr., who serves alongside his sibling, Representative Lorenz Rivera Defensor. Other members include Vice Mayor John Michael Tono Defensor and councilors Irineo Defensor Pecina and Loise Robin Defensor Zuniega. Their maternal cousin, Jason Gonzalez, is a provincial board member connecting their network to the broader GONZALES clan. His father, Reynor Roncesvalles Gonzalez, is the mayor of Lambunao; his uncle, Cesar Legarda Gonzales, is a board member; and his cousin, Arvin Losaria, is a vice mayor.

In the 4rth district, the BIRON family includes Representative Ferjenel Biron and Boratac Nuevo Vice Mayor Hernan Biron Jr., sons of former Barotac Nuevo Mayor Hernan Biron Sr. The Birons are also related to the Gonzales family through their maternal line. The sons of Ferjenel Biron are also active in local politics, with Boratac Nuevo Mayor Bryant Paul Biron and Dumangas Mayor Braeden John Biron.

In the 5th district, the TUPAS clan includes Representative Binky April Montecarlos Tupas, wife of former Representative Raul Tupas. Their first cousin is Board Member Rolex Tupas Suplico. Other members are Banate Mayor Peter Paul Tupas Gonzales, and brothers San Rafael Mayor Roel Tupas Belleza and San Rafael Vice Mayor Roberto Tupas Belleza Jr.

Negros Occidental is a province in the Negros Island Region, composed of six (6) congressional districts, six (6) Sangguniang Panlalawigan districts, 19 municipalities, and 12 component cities, with Bacolod City, a highly urbanized city, serving as the provincial capital. It has a dynastic share of 52.4%, comparable with the national average of 54.5%. It has three (3) provincial dynasties, nine (9) district dynasties, 45 municipal dynasties, and 38 minor dynasties.

The ALVAREZ and ALONSO dynasties are interconnected. The Alonso brothers carry Alvarez as their middle name, linking them to the broader Alvarez clan. Twin brothers Jose Maria Alvarez Alonso and Jose Benito Alvarez Alonso both won mandates in 2025 as mayor of Pontevedra and vice governor, respectively. Jose Benito's daughter, Patricia Paula Alonso Valderrama, won a 4th District provincial board seat, and Giacomo Magno Alonso serves as a Pontevedra municipal board member. 6th District Representative Mercedes Kho Alvarez, daughter of former Vice Governor and congressman Genaro Alvarez Jr., anchors the Alvarez side. Her sibling John Paul Kho Alvarez serves as Ilog mayor alongside his son John Paulo Alvarez as vice mayor. Her niece Angelica Alvarez holds a Sipalay City council seat and her nephew Genaro "Ralph" Alvarez IV a 6th District provincial board seat. Victor Michael Alvarez Javellana and Ma. Femmy Alvarez Martir serve as city councilors of Sipalay and Sagay, respectively, though their relationships to the main line are unconfirmed.

The YULO family name appears across multiple positions and localities in Negros Occidental. Emilio Bernardino Yulo III serves as the 5th District congressman and Nicholas Yulo as a 4th District provincial board member. In Bago City, Andrew Martin Yulo Torres serves as vice mayor alongside his brother, Jake Patrick Torres Yulo and Ma. Josefa Matti Yulo, who both serve as city councilors. Miguel Angelo Gatuslao Yulo, son of Representative Emilio Yulo, serves as mayor of Isabela. Ella Celestina Garcia Yulo and her husband Felix Mathias Segundo Yulo III hold the Moises Padilla mayoralty and vice mayoralty as a spousal tandem. Paul Christopher Lagtapon Yulo and Jerry Soliguen Yulo serve as municipal board members of Hinigaran and Binalbagan.

The MARAÑON family has maintained a prominent presence in the 2nd District of Negros Occidental, rooted in Sagay City. Alfredo Dalisay Marañon III, son of the late Governor Alfredo Marañon Jr., currently serves as 2nd District representative. His brother, Arthur Christopher Dalisay Marañon, serves as a 2nd District provincial board member. Leo Rafael Marañon Cueva, who carries Marañon as his middle name through maternal descent and previously served as 2nd District congressman (2013-2022) and Sagay City mayor, now serves as the incumbent Sagay City mayor in the current term. Perfecto Besañez Marañon and Exequiel Jumawan Marañon serve as Sagay City councilors, both carrying the Marañon surname, though their precise relationships to the main line are not confirmed in available public records.

The MONTILLA family name appears across multiple localities in Negros Occidental. Maria Gina Montilla Lizares serves as Sipalay City mayor alongside her brother, Oscar Chua Montilla, Jr.. Federico Oppen Montilla serves as a Pulupandan Sangguniang Bayan member. Victor Gerardo Montilla Rojas serves as Murcia mayor, Roberto Antonio Montilla Rojas Sr. as a Bacolod City Sangguniang Panlungsod member, and James Anthony Montilla Garrucho as a city councilor. The precise relationships of Victor, Roberto, and James to Gina and Oscar are not confirmed in available public records.

Negros Oriental is a province in Negros Island Region, composed of three (3) congressional districts, three (3) Sangguniang Panlalawigan districts, 20 municipalities, and six (6) component cities, with Dumaguete City serving as the provincial capital. It has a dynastic share of 56.3%, comparable with the national average of 54.5%. It has three (3) provincial dynasties, three (3) district dynasties, 38 municipal dynasties, and 34 minor dynasties.

The SAGARBARRIA and LONGA dynasties emanate from the same nuclear family. Governor Manuel "Chaco" Longa Sagarbarria is the son of Dumaguete City Mayor Manuel "Chiquiting" Teves Sagarbarria and incumbent 2nd District Representative Ma. Isabel "Maisa" Longa-Sagarbarria, while his sister Melissa "Chessa" Sagarbarria holds a Dumaguete City council seat, a single family holding the governorship, a congressional seat, a city mayoralty, and a city council seat in one electoral cycle. Emilio Manuel Sagarbarria Yoldi, a Bais City councilor, is the nephew of Chiquiting through the congressman's sister.

The LIMKAICHONG and IWAY families are deeply intertwined through marriage and political succession in the 1st District. Emmanuel Limkaichong Iway won the 1st District congressional seat in 2025, succeeding his aunt-in-law Representative Jocelyn Sy-Limkaichong (2016-2022). Emmanuel is the nephew of Jocelyn's husband Lawrence Limkaichong Jr., who in turn succeeded Emmanuel as mayor of La Libertad. The family has held the 1st District congressional seat and the La Libertad mayoralty continuously, rotating among members across at least three electoral cycles.

The DEGAMO and VALLEGA families are connected through incumbent 3rd District Representative Janice Mira Vallega-Degamo, widow of the late Governor Roel Degamo. Her son, Nyrth Christian Degamo serves as a 2nd District provincial board member, while another son, Carlo Remontal, serves as a 3rd District provincial board member. Carlo is listed separately in the data as his official ballot name does not carry the Degamo surname. Shari Torres Vallega, a municipal board member of Pamplona, connects to Janice's maiden Vallega line. Janice's classification under both surnames reflects her dual identity as a Vallega by birth and a Degamo by marriage.

The SERION family has dominated Vallehermoso across multiple electoral cycles. Mayor Aloma Monica Bernus Serion and Vice Mayor Marianne Serion Gustilo are siblings. Another sibling, Rusty Bernus Serion, holds a 1st District provincial board seat. Council seats are held by Janeth Serion Caingcoy, Tita Ramos Serion, Monika Gustilo Serion, Clark Celso Endrina Serion, and Oliver Serion Bongoyan, collectively giving the family the mayoralty, vice mayoralty, a provincial board seat, and multiple council seats in a municipality.

The TEVES family traces its political roots to 19th century sugar planter Vicente Anunciación Teves and currently holds mayoralties in three localities. Luigi Marcel Teves Goñi serves as mayor of Bais City alongside his mother, Mercedes Teves Goñi, as vice mayor. They are a mother-and-son tandem who previously swapped positions, with Mercedes serving as mayor from 2013 to 2022. John Teves Raymond Jr. serves as mayor of Bayawan City. Edgar Teves Jr. serves as mayor of Valencia alongside his daughter Juna May Teves as vice mayor. The precise inter-relationships among the three branches are not fully confirmed, though local records identify them as part of a single extended Teves clan.

Siquijor is a province in Central Visayas (Region VII), composed of one (1) congressional district, two (2) Sangguniang Panlalawigan districts, and six (6) municipalities, with Siquijor town serving as the provincial capital. It has a dynastic share of 50.7%, below the national average of 54.5%. It has two (2) provincial dynasties, one (1) district dynasty, seven (7) municipal dynasties, and eight (8) minor dynasties.

The VILLA and SAMSON dynasties belong to the same political family. Lone District Representative Zaldy "Jecoy" Samson Villa and his son Jake Vincent Villa were both reelected in 2025, with Zaldy retaining the congressional seat and Jake his second term as governor. Their relay is among the most seamless in the Visayas: Zaldy served three terms as governor (2013-2022) before shifting to Congress, while Jake first won the congressional seat in 2019 then succeeded his father as governor in 2022, effectively securing the province's top two offices across three consecutive electoral cycles. Jan Dean Ocao Villa serves as vice mayor of Larena, representing a separate Villa branch that ran against the Jake-Zaldy tandem in 2025, reflecting the clan's presence in competing political factions. Honey Grace Macion Samson and Chuser Camacho Samson serve as municipal board members, though their precise relationship to Zaldy's maternal Samson line is unconfirmed.

The second notable provincial dynasty is the TUMALA family. Vice Governor Dindo Anghag Tumala was Governor Jake Villa's running mate in 2025. Merry Cris Bucog Tumala serves as a municipal board member of San Juan; her precise degree of relationship with Vice Governor Dindo is unconfirmed.

The ASOK family has maintained a consistent presence in the municipality of Maria, with Roselyn Tancio Asok serving as mayor and her husband Meynard 'Dondon' Real Asok as vice mayor. Meynard previously served as mayor before Roselyn assumed the position in 2022, after which he shifted to the vice mayoralty. Irving Roy Vios Asok holds a Sangguniang Bayan seat in Maria, although his precise relationship to Roselyn or Meynard is unconfirmed.

The DUHAYLUNGSOD family operates across the municipalities of Siquijor and Lazi. Adam Duhaylungsod serves as mayor of Siquijor town, alongside Eric Veradio Duhaylungsod as a Sangguniang Bayan member. Phil Moore Duhaylungsod Largo serves as mayor of Lazi. The family's presence across two municipal mayoralties and a council seat reflects a network spanning the island's central and southern municipalities, though their precise inter-relationships are unconfirmed.

The MAATA family holds positions in the municipality of San Juan. Rubilyn Maata Ragay serves as mayor of San Juan. Jacinto Verano Maata serves as a Sangguniang Bayan member of the same municipality. The precise relationship of Rubilyn and Jacinto are not established in the available public records.

Bohol is a province in Central Visayas (Region VII), composed of three (3) congressional districts, three (3) Sangguniang Panlalawigan districts, 47 municipalities, and one (1) component city, i.e., Tagbilaran City, which serves as the provincial capital. It has an indicative dynastic share of 56.5%, comparable to the national average of 54.5%. It has three (3) provincial dynasties, four (4) district dynasties, 68 municipal dynasties, and 77 minor dynasties.

The BESAS-TUTOR family represents a cross-dynasty configuration anchored by Vice Governor Nicanor "Nick" Sarabia Besas and his daughter, 3rd District Representative Kristine Alexie Besas-Tutor, who is currently on her third consecutive term. Kristine's husband, Christopher Bernados Tutor, serves as vice mayor of Candijay, while her brother, Gian Carlo Tocmo Besas, serves as a Tagbilaran City councilor. Isidore Gaviola Besas serves as a municipal board member of Ubay, and Donna Marie Esarza Tutor as a municipal board member of Mabini, though their precise relationships are not confirmed in available online records.

The AUMENTADO family simultaneously holds the governorship, a congressional seat, and a provincial board seat. Erico Aristotle "Aris" Aumentado, son of the late Governor and Deputy Speaker Erico Aumentado and Peregrina Cabagnot-Aumentado, currently serves as governor, while his wife Maria Vanessa Cadorna-Aumentado holds the 2nd District congressional seat, and his niece Jiselle Rae Aumentado Villamor serves as a 2nd District provincial board member. Through his mother's Cabagnot lineage, the family is also linked to Emmanuel "Junin" Cabagnot Caberte, incumbent mayor of Sevilla, though the precise degree of consanguinity is not confirmed in available public records.

The LIM-YAP family holds concurrent positions across the 1st District and Tagbilaran City. John Geesnell "Baba" Yap II, whose mother's surname is Lim, currently serves as 1st District representative, having previously served as Tagbilaran City mayor (2013 to 2022). His wife, Jane Censoria Cajes-Yap, serves as the city mayor. Lucille Yap Lagunay serves as a 1st District provincial board member, while Juan Manuel Yap Lim serves as mayor of Corella. Their precise relationships to Baba Yap are unconfirmed.

The JALA family has maintained a multigenerational political presence spanning the 3rd District and Tagbilaran City. The late Eladio Manligues Jala served as 3rd District congressman from 1998 to 2007. His son, Adam Relson Limbago Jala, succeeded him in the congressional seat from 2007 to 2010 and currently serves as vice mayor of Tagbilaran City. Raymond Gallardo Jala serves as the incumbent mayor of Loboc and Greg Crispinito Lapura Jala serves as a 2nd District provincial board member. Their precise relationships to the Adam-Eladio line are not confirmed in available records.

The GARCIA family name appears across three municipalities in Bohol. John Felix Lao Garcia, son of former three-term Bien Unido Mayor Babie Garcia and the late Board Member-elect Atty. Felix 'Lingging' T. Garcia, currently serves as mayor of Bien Unido. Felicito Garcia Sr. serves alongside him as a Bien Unido municipal board member. Ian Gil Garcia Mendez serves as mayor of San Miguel. Janette Aurestila Garcia and Maximo Gucor Garcia hold positions in Talibon. The precise relationships among the Garcia officials in Bien Unido, San Miguel, and Talibon are not confirmed in available public records.

Cebu is composed of seven (7) congressional districts, eight (8) Sangguniang Panlalawigan districts,[4] 44 municipalities, and six (6) component cities with three (3) highly urbanized cities (i.e., Cebu, Lapu-Lapu, Mandaue). It has an indicative dynastic share of 61.6%, significantly beyond the national average of 54.5%. It has two (2) provincial dynasties, 14 district dynasties, 78 municipal dynasties, and 82 minor dynasties.

The BARICUATRO family simultaneously holds positions across two localities. Pamela Baricuatro was elected governor in 2025, defeating five-term incumbent Gwendolyn Garcia. Governor Baricuatro and Mayor Glenn Baricuatro of Pinamungajan are confirmed relatives, though the precise degree of relationship is not confirmed in publicly available sources. Ana Jessica Baricuatro, wife of Glenn, serves as vice mayor of Pinamungajan and Cesar Baricuatro serves as 7th District provincial board member.

The RAMA family holds concurrent positions in Cebu City and the municipality of Poro. Eduardo Roa Rama Jr. serves as the 2nd District representative of Cebu City, while Mikel Francisco Rama, his cousin and son of former Cebu City mayor Michael Rama, serves as a city councilor. Edgar Gadingan Rama serves as mayor of Poro, and Dina Zurita Rama as Poro vice mayor.

The GARCIA-FRASCO family forms one of Cebu's most prominent inter-dynasty configurations. Karen Hope Flores-Garcia, wife of Gwendolyn Garcia's brother Pablo John Garcia, currently holds the 3rd District congressional seat. Pablo John Garcia IV, Gwendolyn's nephew, serves as incumbent mayor of Barili. Gwendolyn's daughter and former Tourism Secretary Christina Garcia-Frasco is married to 5th District Representative Vincent "Duke" Frasco, son of former Liloan Mayor Panphil Frasco. Duke's cousin, Aljew Frasco, serves as mayor of Liloan, while Margarita Domingo Frasco serves as Liloan vice mayor. Mark Eric Garcia Espinosa is an incumbent councilor in Toledo City.

The CALDERON family holds the 7th District congressional seat and multiple positions in Samboan. Patricia Cinco Calderon succeeded her husband, Peter John Calderon, as the 7th District representative in 2025. Peter John is one of four siblings (i.e., children of the late Emerito Calderon Sr. and former Vice Governor Beatriz Durano Calderon) who collectively hold multiple positions: Emerito Emmanuel Durano Calderon serves as mayor of Samboan, Raymond Joseph Durano Calderon serves as a Sangguniang Panlalawigan member, and Marissa Jude Calderon Alazas serves as a Sangguniang Bayan member in Samboan.

The DURANO family has maintained a political presence in Danao City spanning multiple generations. Ramon "Nito" Duterte Durano III, son of Ramon "Mano Amon" Durano, Sr., serves as mayor of Danao City. His daughter, Carmen Remedios Hotchkiss Durano, serves as vice mayor, and his nephew, Ramon Montesclaros Durano V, serves as a Sangguniang Panlungsod member. In Sogod, Nito's first cousin, Moonyeen Durano-Streegan serves as mayor, and her son, Joseph Thaddeus Streegan Durano serves as a Sangguniang Bayan member. The Durano family thus intersects with three other dynasties identified in this mapping: the Duterte municipal dynasty, the Streegan municipal dynasty, and the Calderon district dynasty.

[4] Under the Local Government Code of 1991, highly urbanized cities (HUCs) should only maintain a Sangguniang Panlungsod, with no representation in the Sangguniang Panlalawigan. Mandaue City is an exception: RA 6641 (1987), which amended its city charter, preserved its voters' right to participate in provincial elections. This is further retained under Section 452 of the LGC. Consequently, Mandaue City simultaneously maintains a Sangguniang Panlungsod and elects its own Provincial Board members to the Sangguniang Panlalawigan ng Cebu.

The island-province of Biliran has the smallest land area among the six (6) provinces comprising Eastern Visayas (Region VIII). It is composed of: lone district representation to the House of Representatives; two Sangguniang Panlalawigan districts, and eight municipalities. Out of the total 91 elective posts in the entire province, 43 positions or 47% are occupied by dynastic-related officials, wherein three (3) are characterized as provincial dynasties, six (6) as municipal dynasties, and 12 as minor dynasties. Incumbent of the lone district representation of the province comes from the same ruling provincial dynasty.

The most prominent political family in the province is the ESPINA dynasty. In the 2025 elections, Espina family members succeeded in securing eight (8) positions in the provincial government, lone district representation, and two municipal governments. Siblings Governor Rogelio and Vice Governor Roselyn lead the province, while their brother Congressman Gerardo Jr. is the district representative. Meanwhile, father and son tandem, Mayor Rodolfo Sr. and Vice Mayor Jake, head the municipality of Kawayan. The former is also a sibling of Governor Rogelio and is the twin brother of Congressman Gerardo Jr. In Naval, Mayor Gretchen Stephanie, daughter of Governor Rogelio leads the municipality alongside her cousin, Sangguniang Bayan (SB) Member Jose Antonio, son of Vice Governor Roselyn. Another Espina family member also sits in the Sangguniang Bayan of Naval, SB Member Ofelia.

The CORPIN and GO family names follow the ESPINAs in terms of the most number of held positions. The former has one Vice Mayor and one Sangguniang Bayan member, both serving in the municipality of Biliran; while another CORPIN official sits as member of Sangguniang Bayan in the municipality of Caibiran. Similarly, there are three (3) elected officials with the family name GO. Two (2) of them share GO-UYVICO names, both serving as Vice Mayor and councilor in the municipality of Culaba. However, the exact genealogical relations among these personalities remain unclear due to dearth of available reference online.

The province of Eastern Samar is comprised of: lone district representation to the House of Representatives; two Sangguniang Panlalawigan districts; one component city and 22 municipalities. Out of the total 245 elective posts in the province, more than half are occupied by politicians with possible dynastic relations. The 63.3% estimated proportion of potentially-dynastic officials exceed the computed national average of 54.5%. In terms of dynastic profile, Eastern Samar has two provincial dynasties, one congressional dynasty, 37 municipal dynasties, and 40 minor dynasties.

The EVARDONE family is among the most prominent political clans in the province. While records from the 2025 elections showed that there are nine (9) candidates with a family name of "Evardone"— either middle or last name, two (2) more family names are, in fact, related in varying degrees, to this primary surname. These are ZACATE and MEJICA. This brings the total to 13 elected officials with the family name of, or familial connection to, the Evardone name, serving in the provincial government, and municipalities of Arteche, Jipapad, and Sulat. Governor Ralph Vincent and first cousin Vice Governor Philip Jr. head the provincial government of Eastern Samar. They are also joined by another relative in the Sanggunian Panlalawigan, Board Member Pearl, cousin of Governor Ralph Vincent. Meanwhile, the municipality of Arteche is led by mother-son tandem Mayor Susana Mejica-Evardone and Vice Mayor Roland Boie. Another potential relative also serves in the Sangguniang Bayan, SB Member Adulf Mejica Pajanustan. Brothers Mayor Javier Evardone Zacate and Vice Mayor Dionisio Evardone III head the municipal government of Sulat. In the eight-seat Sangguniang Bayan, three SB Members are also related to the Evardone-Zacate family names: Councilor Lourdes Evardone, Councilor Paul Zacate Sumbilla, and Councilor Sofia Isabelle Zacate—daughter of Mayor Javier. The wife of Mayor Javier and mother of Councilor Sofia Isabelle, Board Member Virginia Zacate also sits in the Sangguniang Panlalawigan of Eastern Samar. Finally, Mayor Benjamin Evardone Ver, a distant uncle of incumbent Governor Ralph Vincent leads the municipal government of Jipapad.

Another political clan in the province is the NICART family. Based on records, there are four (4) elected officials whose middle or last name is Nicart. Mother and son pair, Mayor Conrado Uy Nicart III and Vice Mayor Thelma Uy Nicart, governs the municipality of San Policarpio. They share the Nicart family name with Sangguniang Bayan Member Bonifacio Nicart, while another elected official possessing the said surname is Councilor Bernadette Nicart Aseo in the municipality of San Julian. It is difficult, however, to establish whether Councilors Bonifacio and Bernadette are connected with the clan. The Nicart surname is affiliated with Uy, the maiden surname of Vice Mayor Thelma. Aside from Mayor Conrad III, it is also noted that the Uy family name is also shared by two (2) more local legislative personalities in the same province: Borongan City Councilor Frich Baylon Dy Uy and SB Member Jimmy Uy Umil Jr in the municipality of Oras. However, the exact genealogical relations among these personalities remain unclear due to dearth of available reference online.

The GONZALES clan is also a politically influential family in Eastern Samar. In the 2025 elections, four (4) candidates won elective positions led by Congressman Cristopher Sheen Gonzales representing the lone district of the province. He is joined in the public service by his two (2) siblings, Mayor Annaliza Gonzales-Kwan in the municipality of Guian and Board Member Mark Pol Gonzales in the Sangguniang Panlalawigan. His niece, Councilor Kinna Mae Gonzales-Kwan also holds office in the Sangguniang Bayan of Guian. Congressman Cristopher Sheen is also the son-in-law of another member of the House of Representatives, Congressman Marcelino Libanan of the 4Ps Partylist. Two (2) more local officials bear the Libanan family name: Councilor Fernando Carlo Libanan Batica and Councilor Carlo A. Libanan, both serving in the Sangguniang Bayan of the municipality of Oras. It remains unclear, though, whether the three Libanans share genealogical relations.

Leyte is composed of five (5) congressional districts, five (5) provincial legislative districts, three (3) cities and 40 municipalities. Out of the total 453 elective posts, half of them (238 posts equivalent to 54.5%) are held by politicians with possible dynastic relations. In terms of dynastic profile, Leyte has five (5) district-based dynasties, four (4) provincial dynasties, 55 municipal dynasties, and 54 minor dynasties.

Among the most prominent political clans in the province is the ROMUALDEZ family. Records from the 2025 elections showed that there are seven (7) elected officials with the Romualdez family name holding various positions led by Congressman Ferdinand Martin Romualdez, representing the 1st district of Leyte. He is joined in the House of Representatives by his wife and son, Representatives Yedda Marie and Andrew Julian of the Tingog Partylist. His other son, Councilor Ferdinand Martin Jr., holds office in the Sangguniang Panglungsod of Tacloban. Father and son tandem, Mayor Alfred and Vice Mayor Raymund Vincent, heads the city government of Tacloban. The former is a cousin of Congressman Ferdinand Martin. The Romualdezes of Leyte are also genealogically related to the Marcoses of Ilocos Norte province including President Ferdinand Marcos Jr., and his son, Congressman Ferdinand Alexander Marcos.

The succeeding generations of public officials from the VELOSO-LORETO family trace its roots to the couple, Maria Veloso and Carlos Loreto (Generation #1). Active members of these generations can be explored in the following family sub-branches: Loreto-Cari, Loreto-Petilla, and Petilla-Loreto. The LORETO-CARI sub-branch includes the matriarch Councilor Carmen Veloso Loreto-Cari (Generation #2) and his son Mayor Jose Carlos Loreto-Cari, both serving the city of Baybay. Councilor Carmen's other son, Board Member Michael Loreto-Cari, sits in the Sangguniang Panlalawigan; while her grandson, Congressman Carl Nicolas C. Cari (son of Mayor Jose Carlos) represents the 5th district of Leyte in the House of Representatives. Meanwhile, the matriarch of the LORETO-PETILLA descendant line, Mayor Remedios Veloso Loreto-Petilla (Generation #2), leads the municipality of Palo. Her son, Governor Carlos Jericho Loreto-Petilla, heads the provincial government of Leyte. Another elected official shares the Petilla family name, Councilor Alvin D. Petilla who sits in the Sangguniang Bayan of Sante Fe. In the PETILLA-LORETO sub-lineage, the actively serving elected officials include Sangguniang Panlalawigan member Carlo Petilla-Loreto and his sister, Congressman Janette Petilla-Loreto-Garin of the 1st district of Iloilo. Parents of the siblings are Mr. Jose Veloso-Loreto (Generation #2) and Mrs. Asuncion Petilla-Loreto. Councilor Carmen, Mayor Remedios and Mr. Jose are siblings.

Aside from the Loreto-Petilla-Cari branches, other sub-lineages of the VELOSO family have also produced their respective generations of politicians: (a) Congressman Anna Victoria Veloso Tuazon serving the 3rd district of the province, and her sister Sangguniang Panlalawigan Member Marie Kathryn Veloso-Kabigting; and (b) Cousins Mayor Remedio B. Veloso and Mayor Carlos G. Veloso leading the municipalities of San Isidro and Villaba. Mayor Carlos shares the surname with Vice Mayor Edgar T. Veloso and Councilor Richard R. Veloso, also serving the municipality of Villaba. However, the exact genealogical relations among these personalities remain unclear due to dearth of available reference online.

Another politically-dominant family in the province is the JAVIER occupying five (5) positions, based on the 2025 elections. Congressman Lolita Tañala Javier, representing the 2nd district of Leyte, is married to Vice Governor Leonardo M. Javier, Jr.. Congressman Lolita has three (3) sons holding public office, namely: Mayor Jassie Lou Tañala in the municipality of Jaro, and Mayor Michael Dragon Javier and Vice Mayor Mark Christopher Javier, both in the municipality of Javier.

Note: For brevity, 23 municipal dynasties and 38 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Northern Samar is a second income class province in the Eastern Visayas region. It is composed of two (2) congressional districts, two (2) provincial legislative districts and 24 municipalities. Out of the total 255 positions, around 60% are occupied by potentially-dynastic officials. This exceeds the estimated national average of 54.5%. In terms of dynastic profile, it has one provincial dynasty, 38 municipal dynasties, and 38 minor dynasties.

The ONGCHUAN family is a prominent political clan in the province of Northern Samar. Based on the 2025 election results, there are four (4) elected officials carrying the said family name. Governor Harris Christopher M. Ongchuan leads the provincial government; while his wife, Mayor Charlene L. Ongchuan, leads the municipality of Laoang. Governor Harris' brother, Congressman Edwin Marino C. Ongchuan, represents the 2nd district of the province in the House of Representatives. Another public official, Councilor Emil Nicholas B. Ongchuan II, sits in the Sangguniang Bayan of Laoang, and an ex-officio Board Member in the Sangguniang Panlalawigan.

While the table above only displayed 15 surnames categorized as potential municipal dynasties, it is worth mentioning that there are 23 more surnames that are potentially falling under this dynasty type. Of these 23, there are five (5) local government units whose mayor and vice mayor bear the same family name. These are: Abude-Menzon in the municipality of Lapinig; Avila in the municipality of San Isidro; Bordeos-Saludaga in the municipality of Lavezares; Labador-Tejano in the municipality of Mapanas; and Rosales in the municipality of Catarman.

Samar, formerly-known as Western Samar, is a first-class province in the Eastern Visayas region. It is composed of two (2) congressional districts, two (2) provincial legislative districts, two (2) cities and 24 municipalities. Out of the total 280 elective positions, more than half (153 posts equivalent to 54.5%) are occupied by local officials with potentially-dynastic links. In terms of dynastic profiles, there are two (2) provincial dynasties, 32 municipal dynasties, and 27 minor dynasties.

The prominent TAN family occupies the top positions in the provincial government, as well as, the two (2) congressional districts of Samar. Niece-uncle tandem, Governor Sharee Ann Tee Tan and Vice Governor Arnold V. Vasquez, leads the province. On the other hand, Governor Sharee Ann's two brothers represent the 1st and 2nd districts in the House of Representatives, Congressmen Stephen James and Reynolds Michael, respectively.

Aside from the aforementioned four (4) Tan officials, 15 more local officials bearing the same family name serve in various capacities across the two cities and nine municipalities, and in the Sangguniang Panlalawigan. However, the exact genealogical relations among these personalities remain unclear due to dearth of available reference online.

The MADRIAGA-UY family holds a strong presence in the city of Catbalogan led by son-father pair, Mayor Dexter Madriaga Uy and Vice Mayor Coefredo Tan Uy. They are joined by Mayor Dexter's sister and former Mayor, Councilor Stephany Madriaga Uy Tan. Per newspaper articles online, Councilor Stephany is the estranged wife of Congressman Stephen James Tan. Meanwhile, another Madriaga-Uy official also sits in the Sangguniang Panglungsod, Councilor Edward.

Online references state that the Madriaga-Uys of Catbalogan City, the Uys of Calbayog City, and Uy-Babalcons of the municipality of Paranas are distinct and unrelated clans. It might be recalled that the "Count" column in the table above tallied all frequencies as long as middle or last names matched; hence, the double-digit figure count for officials bearing common family names like Tan and Uy in the province.

While the table above only displayed 13 surnames categorized as potential municipal dynasties, it is worth mentioning that there are 19 more surnames that are potentially falling under this dynasty type. Of these 19, there are four local government units whose mayor and vice mayor bear the same family name. These are: Latorre-Astorga in the municipality of Daram; Cabuel in the municipality of Motiong; Costelo in the municipality of Talalora; and Mabag in the municipality of Pinabacdao.

Note: For brevity, 1 district dynasty, 19 municipal dynasties and 20 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Southern Leyte was established as a new and separate province in 1960. It is composed of two (2) congressional districts, two (2) provincial legislative districts, one (1) city, and 18 municipalities. Out of the total 206, 93 or 45% posts are held by dynastic personalities. Notably, the said dynastic share is the lowest across the six (6)provinces in the Eastern Visayas region. In terms of dynastic profiles, there is one (1) district dynasty, one (1) provincial dynasty, 25 municipal dynasties, and 20 minor dynasties.

The GAVIOLA-MERCADO family has a considerable presence in the province. It accounts for the one count in the district dynasty and one count in the provincial dynasty in the table above. Siblings, Governor Damian Gaviola Mercado and Vice Governor Rosa Emilia Gaviola Mercado, head the provincial government of Southern Leyte. Their other brother, Congressman Roger Gaviola Mercado, represents the 1st district of the province in the House of Representatives. Congressman Roger's wife, Mayor Luz Verano Mercado, leads the city of Maasin, and is joined by their son, City Councilor Mikhael Verano Mercado.

The Mercado family name is also shared by two (2) more elected officials, namely: Maasin City Councilor Isagani M. Mercado, also in the city of Maasin and Councilor Valdemar L. Mercado, Jr. in the municipality of San Ricardo. It is difficult, however, to establish whether they are genealogically connected with the Gaviola-Mercado clan.

Five (5) Sangguniang Bayan members and one (1) Vice Mayor across multiple municipalities share the Lim family name, either as their middle or last name. These are Councilors: Alex C. Lim and Victor Lim Chua Jr. in the municipality of Liloan, Lylwynn Lloyd A. Lim in the municipality of San Francisco, and Permelie Lim Palacio in the municipality of San Ricardo; and Vice Mayor Jocelyn Lim Bungcaras in the municipality of Saint Bernard. However, the exact familial relations among these personalities remain unclear due to dearth of available reference online.

Note. For brevity, 16 municipal dynasties and 24 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Sulu is composed of 19 municipalities, one (1) component city, and a lone congressional district. The province has an indicative dynastic share of 61.8%, exceeding the national share of 54.5%. There are potentially two (2) provincial dynasties, one (1) district dynasty, 30 municipal dynasties, and 23 minor dynasties.[5]

The TAN clan continues to dominate political positions across Sulu, which also has connections with the ABUBAKAR clan. Abdusakur Mahail Tan, the incumbent Vice Governor, previously served three (3) consecutive terms as governor and is married to former Vice Governor Hadja Nurunisah Abubakar. Their children hold various positions in the province. Abdusakur Abubakar Tan II is currently the governor, whom he has alternated positions upon the expiration of their term limits, Samier Abubakar Tan, is the first district representative, Shihla Tan-Hayudini, was reelected as mayor of Maimbung, and Shernee Tan-Tambut, former Kusug Tausug party-list representative, was elected vice mayor.

Also bearing the same family name are the Tans of Jolo with Mayor Edsir Que Tan, his niece, Vice Mayor Khumaidy Alfad Tan, and his son, Councilor Edsir Ahmad Tan II. Other officials who bear the same family name but relationships cannot be determined based on available resources are Councilors Edzfar Marjoni Abubakar Tan (Maimbunao) and Fermuhaira Talib Tan (Old Panamao).

Meanwhile, the ARBISON family name is shared by eight (8) officials across multiple levels of the LGU. Munir Mundoc Arbison, serves as the 2nd district representative. His sons include Luuk Mayor Al-Makram Napii Arbison and Board Member Al-Nur Napii Arbison. Other officials who carry the same family name but whose exact relationship cannot be determined include Luuk Vice Mayor Marijhun Gonzales Arbison and councilors Nadia Arbison Alih, Alhamar Samla Arbison, Arvin Arbison Hamsani, and Dalma Alay Arbison.

Note: For brevity, 14 municipal dynasties and 12 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Zamboanga Sibugay was created through Republic Act 8973. It is comprised of 16 municipalities and organized into two (2) congressional districts. It has an indicative dynastic share of 35.6%, significantly lower than the national average of 54.5%. It has one (1) district dynasty, three (3) provincial dynasties, 20 municipal dynasties, and 12 minor dynasties. What is striking about these 20 municipal dynasties is that six (6) have vice mayors that are relatives (i.e. children, spouse) of the mayors.

The HOFER family is a prominent political clan in the province. Dr. George Hofer, the patriarch, first entered politics as mayor of Titay from 1992 to 1998. He is considered as the "founding father" of the province with the passage of the bill seeking the separation of his district from Zamboanga del Sur after serving as its representative in 1998. He then served for three consecutive terms in office after being elected as Zamboanga Sibugay's first governor in 2001. His daughter Dulce Ann became representative of the 2nd district of the province in 2007 and from 2012 to 2019. She has been serving as governor since 2022 up to the present. Her cousin, Anna Marlesa Hofer Tamano-Hasim is the current 2nd District Representative. Anna Marlesa's married name is the same as Sharif Mazin Alih Hasim who is a municipal councilor of Ipil but available public documents cannot confirm their familial ties. Belonging also to the Hofer clan is George Pavlo Saguitan Hofer, grandson of Dr. Hofer, who serves as a Provincial Board Member.

Another political clan is the OLEGARIO family based in Ipil, Zamboanga Sibugay, with a long history of leadership in the municipality and province. Although no direct link has been established from online information about the current set of Olegario politicians, the Olegario surname became prominent when Andres P. Olegario became the mayor of Ipil town in 1972 to 1986. Although available information online indicates no direct relationship to Andres P. Olegario, the Olegarios who have been in public office include Rey Andre Camacho Olegario who served as vice governor of the province in 1998-2007, 2013-2016 and 2019-2025. Anamel Camacho Olegario, who has the same middle name and surname as Rey Andre, became the mayor of the town of Ipil from 2016 to 2025, and is currently Vice Mayor of the same town. Another Olegario, Ramses Troy "Rambo" Dy Olegario, is the current Mayor of the town of Ipil in Zamboanga Sibugay.

Note: For brevity, 20 municipal dynasties and 20 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

The province of Zamboanga del Norte is situated within the Zamboanga Peninsula (Region IX) in the northwestern part of Mindanao. It is composed of three (3) legislative districts, 25 municipalities and two (2) component cities. The province has an indicative dynastic share of 38.5%, significantly lower than the national average of 54.5%. It has four (4) provincial dynasties, three (3) district dynasties, 28 municipal dynasties, and 20 minor dynasties.

Political leadership in the province has long been associated with the JALOSJOS and UY families. Both have sought influence over the provincial capitol and major cities such as Dipolog and Dapitan. The most recent elections marked a change with the Uy family consolidating positions across provincial, district, and municipal levels, including the governorship and leadership in Dipolog City. The Jalosjos family, on the other hand, was not able to make their presence in governorship, leadership in Dapitan City, and congressional representation, marking a departure from trends in past decades.

Governor Darel Dexter Uy, a former mayor of Dipolog City, is the son of Roberto "Berto" Uy, a former Governor and current mayor of Dipolog City. Governor Uy's mother, Evelyn "Belen" Tang Uy also previously served as mayor of Dipolog City and recently won the mayoralty of Dapitan City. 1st District Representative Roberto "Pinpin" Uy Jr. is also a son of Dipolog Mayor Berto Uy and brother of Governor Dexter Uy. Mayor Roberto Lim Uy Jr. of Liloy shares the Uy surname and is married to Provincial Board Member Venus Arancana Uy, though their direct connection to the Uy political clan is not clearly established.

Other district representatives of the province are known allies of the Uy family – Representative Irene GOLLAYAN LABADLABAD in the 2nd district and Representative Adrian Michael AMATONG in the 3rd district. The Labadlabad family has maintained political presence in the 2nd District and in Sindangan through alternating roles among immediate family members. Representative Irene Labadlabad is the daughter of Rosendo Labadlabad, former 2nd district representative and former mayor of Sindangan. Her mother, Glona Gollayan Labadlabad, is the current mayor of Sindangan and previously served as 2nd district representative for three terms.

Note: For brevity, 25 municipal dynasties and 36 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

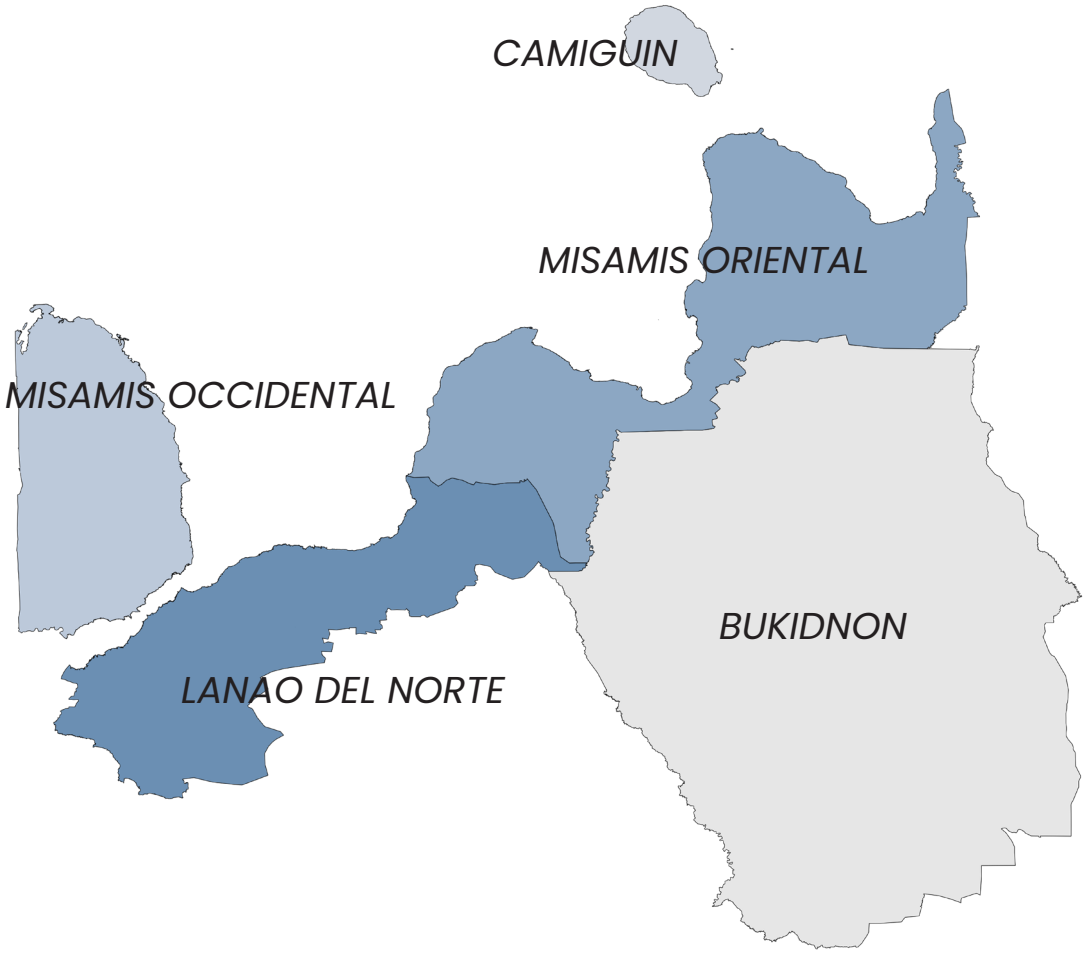

The province of Zamboanga del Sur is in the southern part of Zamboanga Peninsula (Region IX) in the western part of Mindanao. It has four (4) legislative districts which include the two (2) districts of Zamboanga City; 26 municipalities, one (1) component city, and one (1) independent and highly urbanized city. The province has an indicative dynastic share of 45.7%, relatively lower than the national average of 54.5%. It has four (4) provincial dynasties, one (1) district dynasty (two others are subsumed under provincial dynasties), 36 municipal dynasties, and 36 minor dynasties.

Political leadership in Zamboanga del Sur has historically been associated with CERILLES and YU families. In recent elections, the influence of the Cerilles family has declined while the extended CABARDO-YU family has consolidated positions across provincial and district levels.

Governor Divina Grace Cabardo Yu, a former three-term Representative of the 1st District was succeeded in Congress by her son Joseph Kim Cabardo Yu, who is currently serving his first term. Her daughter, Jeyzel Victoria Cabardo Yu, is serving her second term as 2nd District Representative. Prior to Governor Divina Grace Yu's tenure, the gubernatorial position was long held by her husband, Victor Jo Yu, who also served as 1st District Representative from the 14th to 16th Congress. Another son, John Raymon Cabardo Yu, was elected Mayor of Labangan. Pagadian Vice Mayor Monique Shaira Yu To may also be related to the Yu family, though confirmation could not be established with publicly available online information.

Beyond the Cabardo-Yu family, the Cabardo family name has also extended its political presence at municipal level. Ruel Ormar Cabardo was elected Mayor of Tambulig, while two other Cabardos sit as councilors in Lakewood and in Pagadian City. Their actual filial link to the Yu family, however, is subject to verification.

Across 26 municipalities of Zamboanga del Sur, about one-third reflect possible dynasties where both the mayor and the vice mayor, including some municipal councilors, carry identical surnames. These family names include Diaz-Ocapan, Glepa, Matias, Molina, Soronio, Sulong, Tingson, and Yecyec.

Note: For brevity, 19 municipal dynasties and 18 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Bukidnon is composed of four (4) legislative districts, two (2) component cities and 20 municipalities. It is the third largest province in the country in terms of total area of jurisdiction behind Palawan and Isabela, respectively.

Bukidnon has an indicative dynastic share of 35.4%, lower than the national average of 54.5%. It has three (3) provincial dynasties, four (4) district dynasties, 26 municipal dynasties, and 18 minor dynasties.

The ZUBIRIs are among the most famous clans of Bukidnon. At present, Juan Miguel F. Zubiri is a senator while his wife Audrey Kay Aquino Tan-Zubiri represents the 3rd District of Bukidnon. This congressional seat was previously occupied by the Zubiri patriarch Jose Ma. Rubin Zubiri, Jr. from 1987 to 1988. In 2013, Jose Ma. won the gubernatorial seat, while his son lost the concurrent senatorial race. Note that there is a member of the Sangguniang Bayan of Maramag named Bernard Lucasan Zubiri, however he cannot be confirmed as a relative of the aforementioned Zubiris.

Another prominent surname in politics in Bukidnon is PEPITO. The current governor of Bukidnon, Rogelio Neil Pepito ROQUE, is part of the Pepito clan. His wife, Laarni Roque, is the current representative of the 4th District of Bukidnon. Two towns in Bukidnon have elected public officials with Pepito as surname and/or middle name: Ranulfo Jose Zabala Pepito Jr. (Member, Sangguniang Panlalawigan) and Maria Norly Tasani Pepito (Member, Sangguniang Bayan) of the town of Impasug-Ong; and Jose Joel Pepito Doromal (Mayor of Maramag) and Jofidel Pepito Doromal (Member, Sangguniang Bayan, Maramag).

Another emerging political clan is the QUIÑOS. Clive Dadole Quiño is the current Vice Governor, while his older brother Rogelio Narvasa Quiño is the Mayor of Manolo Fortich. Meanwhile, Rina Edrote Quiño, Member of the Sangguniang Bayan of Manolo Fortich, is the wife of the vice governor, according to publicly available accounts.

In Kadingilan, Bukidnon, the CANOY family, specifically, Jerry Canoy Jr., are prominent political figures. Jerry Jr. is the incumbent Mayor of Kadingilan with namesake, Jerry Obial Canoy occupying a Sangguniang Bayan position. Other possible relatives include Analisa Agustin Canoy (Member, Sangguniang Bayan) and Susano Mercado Canoy, Jr. (Member, Sangguniang Bayan). However, their exact relation to the mayor cannot be determined from publicly available information.

Camiguin is a lone-district province composed of five (5) municipalities, and 58 barangays. The province has an indicative dynastic share of 39.3%, notably below the national average of 54.5%. Among the five (5) provinces in Northern Mindanao (Region X), it has the second smallest dynastic share, closely following Bukidnon (35.4%). One (1) primary provincial-level dynasty was identified within Camiguin, although a secondary provincial-level dynasty is subsumed under this. Five (5) municipal-level dynasties and six (6) minor dynasties are active within the province, while no district-level dynasty was identified.

The largest and most influential dominant political clan in the province is the ROMUALDO family, of which some members have the middle name MODINA. Members of the family currently occupy four key provincial, district, and municipal positions. The lone district representative Jurdin Jesus "JJ" Modina Romualdo is father to the incumbent governor Xavier Jesus "XJ" Dela Fuente Romualdo and brother to Vice Mayor Rodin Modina Romualdo. Meanwhile, the representative's other son, Yñigo Jesus, is the mayor of the Municipality of Mambajao, the capital of the province.

The Romualdo clan has held influential positions in Camiguin since the 1980's. The family's patriarch Pedro P. Romualdo occupied the congressional seat from 1987 to 1998 before his son JJ succeeded him, and Pedro served as governor from 1998 to 2007. Pedro, then, returned to the congressional post from 2007 until 2013. Following the patriarch's death in 2013, his grandson XJ was elected as lone district representative.

The province of Lanao del Norte is situated in Northern Mindanao region (Region X) along the northwest and southwest coast of Mindanao island. It is composed of three (3) legislative districts, 22 municipalities, and one (1) highly urbanized city. The province has an indicative dynastic share of 52.2%, slightly lower than the national average of 54.5%. It has three (3) provincial dynasties (subsuming two (2) district dynasties), 31 municipal dynasties, and 29 minor dynasties.

Political leadership in Lanao del Norte has been shaped by the QUIBRANZA-DIMAPORO family, which has held provincial positions for several decades. The marriage of Abdullah Dimaporo, son of Maranao leader Ali Dimaporo, and Imelda "Angging" Quibranza, daughter of Governor Arsenio Quibranza in 1970s brought together Maranao and Christian constituencies in what became known as the "grand coalition."

Recent election results continue to reflect the presence of the Quibranza-Dimaporo family in provincial leadership. Governor Mohamad Khalid Quibranza Dimaporo, son of Abdullah and Imelda Dimaporo, is serving his second term. He previously held office as 1st district representative for three terms from 2016 to 2025 and as governor from 2007 to 2016. His mother, Imelda Quibranza-Dimaporo, served as governor from 2016 to 2025 before transitioning to a legislative role. Prior to this mother-son rotation between executive and legislative positions, Abdullah Dimaporo also served as governor and congressional representative.

The current 2nd District Representative Sittie Aminah Q. Dimaporo, sister of Governor Khalid, is serving her second term. Rep. Sittie Aminah is married to Vice Mayor Ulwan Dimaporo of Sultan Naga Dimaporo (formerly Karomatan), in the 2nd district of the province. Vice Mayor Ulwan is son to the town's incumbent Mayor Motalib Dimaporo who has also previously served as vice mayor.

Note: For brevity, 18 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table

Misamis Occidental has an indicative dynastic share of 43.2%, lower than the 54.5% national average. It has two (2) provincial dynasties, two (2) district dynasty, 20 municipal dynasties, and 18 minor dynasties.

The OAMINALS comprise the most prominent political family in the province. Governor Henry Sevilla Oaminal is the father of 2nd District Congressman Sancho Fernando Fuentes Oaminal and Asenso Pinoy Party-list Representative Attorney Henry "Indy" Fuentes Oaminal Jr. Riza Oaminal Delos Santos who is the mayor of the Municipality of Clarin is the elder sister of Gov. Oaminal. Ozamis City Councilor Sancho Sevilla Oaminal Jr. is the younger brother of Gov. Oaminal and Mayor Riza. Ozamis City Mayor Sam Norman Go Fuentes is also the brother of Attorney Pearl Grace Fuentes-Oaminal, who is the wife of Gov. Oaminal.

Tagged as a provincial dynasty, Vice Governor Rowena Lapinig GUTIERREZ is the mother of Lopez Jaena Mayor Andrea Cherry Pink Lapinig Gutierrez-Cagas. Both are prominent members of the Asenso Misamis Occidental (Team Asenso) alliance led by Gov. Oaminal.

At the district level, the ALMONTE surname is represented by 1st District Congressman Jason Paredes Almonte, Oroquieta City Vice Mayor Aurora Virginia Mag-usara Almonte, and City Councilor Don Ian George Mag-usara Almonte. However, there is no clear information available online regarding their relationship with one another.

Among the possible municipal dynasties, the Villanueva surname has the most positions (8 seats) headed by the husband-and-wife tandem of Calamba Mayor Luisito Bergado Villanueva Jr. and Vice Mayor Ezel Tabuelog Villanueva.

Note: For brevity, 3 municipal dynasties and 31 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Misamis Oriental has an indicative dynastic share of 48.6%, lower than the 54.5% national average. It has two (2) provincial dynasties, two (2) district dynasties, 29 municipal dynasties, and 31 minor dynasties.

The husband of Governor Juliette Tiu UY is Villanueva Mayor Julio Tadoy Uy. Both have served as Representative of the 2nd district of Misamis Oriental and Mayor of Villanueva. Despite having a similar surname, there is no available online information linking Cagayan de Oro Mayor Rolando Adlao Uy to Juliette and Julio Uy. Vice Governor Jeremy Jonahmar Go PELAEZ also shares the same surname with Medina Councilor Jelizza Mandac Pelaez but with no clear information regarding their relationship.

The EMANOs comprise another prominent political family in Misamis Oriental. 2nd District Congressman Yevgeny Vincente Emano is the brother of Tagaloan Mayor Nadya Beja Emano. Tagaloan Vice Mayor Rolando Emano Seno and Villanueva Vice Mayor Jeric Gayloa Emano are related to Congressman Emano through the extended Emano family, though they are not his immediate relatives. Provincial board members Syremae Neri Emano and Princess Nacional Emano are also relatives from the broader Emano political clan. Municipal Councilor Honey Analou Emano Doña is also another relative serving under the administration of Tagaloan Mayor Nadya Emano. Cagayan de Oro City Councilor Yevonna Yacine Beja Emano is the sister of Congressman Emano and the youngest daughter of the late political patriarch and former Cagayan de Oro Mayor Vicente Yap Emano and Aloma Beja Emano.

Also notable in Misamis Oriental politics is the LAGBAS Family. 1st District Congresswoman Jennifer Artadi Lagbas is the sister of Kinoguitan Mayor Danilo Artadi Lagbas Jr., and first cousin to Sugbongcogon Mayor Cheezee Salvador Zanoria Lagbas and Vice Mayor Ivan Chester Enghog Lagbas. Kinoguitan Councilor Lilibeth Magno Lagbas is the wife of Kinoguitan Mayor Danilo Jr. while Sugbongcogon Councilor Benedict Jamero Lagbas Jr. is the first cousin of Congresswoman Lagbas.

Davao Occidental has an indicative dynastic share of 50.8% which is slightly lower compared to the national average of 54.5%. It has two (2) provincial dynasties, four (4) municipal dynasties, and eight (8) minor dynasties. It has no district dynasty as its lone representative is related to the governor.

The most prominent political family in the province is the PERALTA-BAUTISTA family. The family traces its roots to its patriarch, Benjamin Bautista, Sr., who was former mayor of Malita (1968-1978), assemblyman (1978-1984), and as representative of the 2nd district of Davao del Sur (1987-1998). His children have won various elective positions in Davao Del Sur and in Davao Occidental (consisting of the municipalities of Sta. Maria, Malita, Don Marcelino, Jose Abad Santos and Sarangani) when it was created through RA 10360 on July 23, 2013.

There are ten (10) members who are currently holding elective positions. At the provincial level, these include the governor and vice-governor, one provincial board member and the lone representative. Two of the five municipalities in Davao Occidental are currently led by members of the Bautista family. The current governor, Franklin Peralta Bautista, and the vice-governor, Lorna Bautista Bandigan are siblings. The lone representative of the province, Claude Peralta Bautista, is their brother. This family is also prominent in the town of Malita. The incumbent mayor, Benjamin Peralta Bautista Jr, is also their brother while the vice-mayor, Bradly Llido Bautista, is the son of the governor, and nephew of the mayor. Meanwhile, the son of Malita mayor, Benjamin Tan Bautista III, is a provincial board member while his daughter, Estefanie Bautista Dumama, is a municipal board member. The son of the current congressman, Claude Benjamin Bautista II, is the mayor of Santa Maria.

Another notable political family in the province is the ARCIAGA-JOYCE clan in Jose Abad Santos. The mayor, Jason John Arciaga Joyce, and the vice-mayor, James John Arciaga Joyce, are siblings. Another brother, Jardin John Arciaga Joyce is a municipal board member. The exact relation of another municipal board member, Harden Henry Pahl Joyce, to the Joyce–Arciaga clan cannot be confirmed.

There are two other identified municipal dynasties involving DE ARCE and MARISCAL family names. Mayor Adelan B. De Arce of Sarangani shares a surname with Municipal Councilor Andres Vicente Narvaiza De Arce but the familial kinship cannot be established. Vice Mayor Josephine B. Mariscal and Municipal Councilor Maribel Mariscal Aplacador of Sta. Maria have the same family name but the exact relation cannot be established based on publicly available documents.

Davao Oriental has an indicative dynastic share of 36.5% which is significantly lower than the national average of 54.5%. Nevertheless, it has three (3) provincial dynasties, one (1) district dynasty, ten (10) municipal dynasties, and nine (9) minor dynasties.

The DAYANGHIRANG family is regarded as the most prominent clan in Davao Oriental with a father and son tandem for the governor and a representative of the 1st district of the province. Governor Nelson Dayanghirang, Sr. has a long career in public service. He served as mayor of the Municipality of Manay, provincial board member, representative (2007-2016 and 2022-2025) and governor (2016-2022).

The representative of the 1st district, Nelson Restor Dayanghirang Jr., is the son of the incumbent governor. He first entered politics as a provincial board member in 2019-2023. Through automatic succession rules under the Local Government Code, he took his oath as vice-governor on 30 June 2023, filling in the position of then Vice-Governor Nino Sotero Uy who assumed the gubernatorial responsibilities of the late Governor Corazon Nunez Malanyaon.

There are three other local officials with the Dayanghirang surname but the exact relationship with the governor cannot be established. Mayor Jon Marco M. Dayanghirang and Councilor Mae Dayanghirang Llavore are both serving in Manay, where the governor previously served as mayor. The third one is Jerome Cayacay Dayanghirang, a councilor of Mati City.

Another prominent family is the GAYTA-RABAT clan. Vice Governor Ma. Glenda Monette Rabat-Gayta is part of the Rabat political family. Her daughter, Tara Marie Rabat Gayta, is a councilor of Mati City. Two other officials of Mati City – Vice Mayor Lorenzo Leon Garcia M. Rabat and Councilor Jose Paolo Luis R. Rabat appear to belong to the same clan but available public documents cannot establish exact family relations.

A father-and-son tandem can be traced to the ALMARIO family. Mayo Z. Almario who is currently the mayor of Mati City was previously the representative of the 2nd district. He was succeeded by his son, Cheeno Miguel D. Almario, who previously served as a councilor of Mati City.

There are three officials with GO as surnames – Mayor Ma. Angelica Tesoro Go of San Isidro, Vice-Mayor Christian Lawrence Go of Lupon, and Provincial Board Member John Erwin Go Montojo. Available public documents cannot establish their familial ties.

Davao de Oro is divided into two (2) legislative districts comprising of 11 municipalities with no cities yet. The province has an indicative dynastic share of 34.1%, lower than the national average of 54.5%. It has three (3) district dynasties, one (1) provincial dynasty, nine (9) municipal dynasties, and ten (10) minor dynasties.

The most prominent political family in the province is the ZAMORA family hailing from the town of Monkayo. The political careers of the Zamora family started with Manuel E. Zamora popularly known as "Way Kurat." He was elected to three terms as a Member of the House of Representatives representing the 1st District of Davao de Oro (formerly Compostela Valley). First elected in 2001, he was re-elected in 2004 and 2007, and again in 2019. From 2022 to 2025 he served as the mayor of Monkayo until his retirement in politics in 2025. Manuel Zamora's daughter, Maria Carmen Solamillo Zamora-Mabanglo (previously Apsay) succeeded him as representative of the 1st District of Davao de Oro in 2022 after serving as Vice-Governor of the province in 2019-2022. In 2025, most of Maria Carmen's relatives won positions in the province, namely: Manuel Jr. (half brother of Carmen) as Mayor of Monkayo, Raul Gorospe Mabanglo (husband of Carmen), and two of Carmen's sons from a previous marriage, Herve Martelle Zamora Apsay (Provincial Sanggunian), and Hugh Maxuelle Zamora Apsay (Municipal Sanggunian).

Another notable political clan in Davao de Oro is the GONZAGA family that hails from the town of Mawab. Available online documents show that their political career started with Ruwel Sambas Gonzaga, a lawyer, when he became a representative of the 2nd District of Davao de Oro from 2016 until 2025. In 2022 to 2025, his wife, Dorothy Montejo became governor of the province and now serves as vice governor. Three (3) of Ruwel's siblings entered politics in 2025: Ruwina (Sanggunian Panlalawigan), Ruperto III (Sanggunian Bayan, Mawab), and Runero (Sanggunian Bayan, Mawab).

Note: For brevity, 4 municipal dynasties and 8 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Davao del Norte is comprised of eight (8) municipalities and three (3) cities and two (2) congressional districts. Its capital and largest city is Tagum. The province also includes Samal Island to the south in the Davao Gulf.

Davao del Norte has an indicative dynastic share of 34.8%, lower than the national average of 54.5%. It has one (1) provincial dynasty, two (2) district dynasties, sixteen (16) municipal dynasties, and eight (8) minor dynasties.

The most prominent political family in the province is the UY family from Tagum City. They have been active in local politics since the late 1990s. The patriarch, Rey Tao Uy, is the mayor of Tagum City. His two (2) children, De Carlo and Ciara, are the representative of the 1st district and city board member, respectively. Al David Uy, board member of the 2nd district and former mayor of Samal City, shares the same last name but public records do not provide confirmation of exact familial connection with the aforementioned Uy family. Al David's wife, Carmeglynn Lacson Uy, also serves as councilor in Samal City.

Notable also is the RELAMPAGOS family with four (4) of its members holding elective positions. The father, Jose E. Relampagos, won as mayor of Panabo City in 2025. His children also won positions in the 2025 elections: Janris Jay Gentiles Relampagos (Board Member, 2nd District Davao del Norte), Josie Mary Gentiles (Member, Sangguniang Panlungsod), and Josephus Gentiles (Member, Sangguniang Bayan of Carmen). Note also that the Vice Mayor of Panabo City (Franklin Gentiles) and another Panabo City Sangguniang Member (Janno Paolo Gentiles) share the same surname as the wife of Mayor Jose Relampagos, Josephine Gentiles, but familial ties cannot be confirmed based on available public documents.

Davao del Sur is comprised of nine (9) municipalities and one (1) component city which is Digos City, all encompassed by a lone legislative district. While not a component city, Davao City is the largest city in terms of area and population within the province's jurisdiction, yet it is administratively independent from the province. With that said, Davao City is only grouped for geographical and statistical purposes and serves as the regional center of the Davao Region. Davao City has three (3) legislative districts.

Davao del Sur has an indicative dynastic share of 35.4%. This share is lower than the national average of 54.5%. It has one (1) provincial dynasty, six (6) district dynasties, eight (8) municipal dynasties, and 12 minor dynasties.

The most prominent political family in the province is the DUTERTE family. According to public records, the first member to occupy an elective seat in Davao City was Vicente Gonzales Duterte who became Governor in 1959. In 1986, Vicente's son Rodrigo Roa Duterte began his political career as the Officer-in-Charge Vice Mayor of Davao City. Rodrigo eventually served seven (7) inconsecutive terms as mayor, two (2) inconsecutive terms as vice mayor, one (1) term as representative, and one (1) term as president of the Philippines. He won the 2025 mayoral race in Davao City; however, the seat was declared permanently vacant after he was unable to take his oath during the six-month prescribed period due to his detention at The Hague. The role was assumed by his son Sebastian, who was originally elected as vice mayor. In 2026, Rodrigo "Rigo" Duterte II, Rodrigo's grandson, was sworn in as the vice mayor. He was originally a member of the City Sanggunian. Rigo's father is 1st District Representative Paolo Zimmerman Duterte while Rigo's brother Omar Vincent Sangkola Duterte is the 2nd District Representative. Three more Dutertes are in public office: Vice President Sara Zimmerman Duterte-Carpio, whose term is from 2022 to 2028; Paolo's wife, January, as barangay chair of Catalunan Grande; and cousin Harold, who represents the PPP party list in the House of Representatives.

Another political family in Davao del Sur is the CAGAS family. This political dynasty started with the late Douglas Cagas in the early 1980s as an assemblyman in the Batasang Pambansa, then as representative of the 1st district of Davao del Sur (serving three terms from 1998-2007), and was elected governor of Davao del Sur serving from 2007–2013, 2016–2021 until his death on June 10, 2021. Marc Douglas IV Chan is the son of Douglas who is now vice governor while his wife, Yvonne Rona, is the governor. The sons of Douglas' brother Gary are now representative of the 1st District (John Tracy) and mayor of Digos City (Josef Fortich M.), while Gary's wife (Lisa Mariveles) is a member of the City Sangguniang. The vice mayor of Digos City, Johari Gomez Bana, is the son-in-law of Douglas' brother Rio.

The province of Cotabato has three (3) legislative districts, one (1) city, and 17 municipalities. It belongs in the bottom half among all provinces in terms of dynastic share (40.6%). The study estimates that there is one (1) provincial dynasty, two (2) district dynasties, 17 municipal dynasties, and 23 minor dynasties in the Province.

Governor Emmylou TALIÑO Mendoza is the mother of 3rd District Representative Ma. Alana Samantha Taliño Santos. The governor is also the aunt of Vice-Governor Rochella Marie Taliño Taray, and is the daughter of Carmen Mayor Rogelio Taliño. 2nd District Representative Rudy SANTOS CAOAGDAN is the father of both 2nd District Board Member Ryl John Caoagdan and Makilala municipal councilor Liezel Mae Corpuz Caoagdan. He shares a name with 3rd District Rep. Alana Samantha Taliño Santos although it is unclear if they are blood related.

The most prominent municipal dynasties include the CABAYAS of Aleosan. Mayor Eduardo Cantomayor Cabaya is the distant relative of municipal council members Jason Neil Clyde Callado Cabaya, Brodly John Calugas Cabaya, and Arnel Nupalo Cabaya. Rosalie Cabaya is also a member of the provincial board in the 1st District of Cotabato wherein Aleosan belongs into. CADUNGON is another key name as this is common among Antipas Mayor Cristobal Doloroso Cadungon, and municipal councilors Fedis Madeleine Bohol Cadungon, Egidio Omega Cadungon, III, and Veronica Cadungon Peñaloza.

Sarangani, which is composed of seven (7) municipalities and a lone congressional district, has an indicative dynastic share of 36.1%. This is lower than the national dynastic share of 54.5%. The province has two (2) provincial dynasties, six (6) municipal dynasties, and six (6) minor dynasties.

The most prominent political family in the province is the PACQUIAO family, which traces its roots from former Senator Emmanuel "Manny" Dapidran Pacquiao Sr. His siblings, Rogelio Dapidran Pacquiao and Zyrex Cantaros Pacquiao, are the current governor of Sarangani and Mayor of the municipality of Maasim, respectively. Mayor Zyrex's wife, Ellen Jade Cellona Pacquiao, is also a councilor in Maasim. Another official bearing the same family name is Councilor Bonifacio Medel Pacquiao of the municipality of Alabel.

Other families holding key positions include the father-daughter CONSTANTINO tandem of Malungon Mayor Reynaldo Figueroa Constantino and Vice Mayor Maria Theresa Dadivas Constantino and the father-son YAP pair of Glan Mayor Victor James Barrera Yap Sr. and Vice Mayor Victor James Perocho Yap Jr. There are also three (3) officials with the family name MARTINEZ in the province: Vice Governor Danny Acompañado Martinez, Kiamba Vice Mayor Marie Jess Martinez Ancheta, and 1st district Board Member Cornelio Callueng Martinez Jr.

Other recurring family names include REGANIT, DANTE–SUMBO, and BALAZON. The Reganit name appears in Maitum with Mayor James Mark Basquiñez Reganit and Councilor Jessiemel Bryan Glang Reganit. The Dante–Sumbo group includes Malapatan Mayor Salway Dante Sumbo Jr., Malapatan Councilor Ruben Asino Sumbo Jr., and Glan Councilor Edwin Dante Pacaldo. The Balazon surname appears in Maitum Vice Mayor Freddie Fernandez Balazon and 1st district Board Member Tito Tazal Balazon. However, the exact relationships of these officials cannot be determined.

South Cotabato has one (1) legislative district, one (1) city, and ten (10) municipalities. Its dynastic share of 35.46% puts it at the bottom-10 among all the provinces. The study estimates there are two (2) provincial dynasties, three (3) district dynasties, 14 municipal dynasties, and eight (8) minor dynasties in South Cotabato.

Incumbent governor Reynaldo Sucayan TAMAYO, Jr. is the nephew of Tupi Mayor Romeo Sanchez Tamayo and also shares a name with municipal council members Rebb Amoroso Tamayo and Chad Rodriguez Tamayo. Tampakan councilor Erve Tamayo Tutor likewise bears the same middle name with that of the incumbent governor. On the other hand, Vice-Governor Arthur Yusay PINGOY, Jr. is the husband of provincial board member Anabelle Garcia Pingoy.

At the district level, 3rd District Representative Dibu Sno TUAN has a similar last name with that of T'boli Mayor Keo Dayle Tanco Tuan and council member Kirk Tanco Tuan. In the Lone District of General Santos City, Representative Shirlyn Legario Bañas-Nograles is the eldest sister of city councilor Cesar Legario Bañas, Jr. In so far as the 1st District of Cotabato, Representative Isidro Dabandan LUMAYAG and Polomolok council member John Edward Lacbay Lumayag both have the same surnames.

The municipalities of Polomolok and Banga both have the PALENCIA siblings as their respective municipal mayors. They also share a name with Banga municipal councilor Jennifer Palencia Plana. Tampakan mayor Leonard Tabaco ESCOBILLO goes by the same surname as councilor Michael Tabaco Escobillo and provincial board member Noel Jalandoni Escobillo. He also shares the TABACO name with Tampakan municipal councilor Catherine Pedrajas Tabaco.

Sultan Kudarat has two (2) legislative districts, one (1) city, and 11 municipalities. It has a dynastic share of 42.96%, which is below the national average. The study estimates that there are three (3) provincial dynasties, one (1) district dynasty, 12 municipal dynasties, and 17 minor dynasties in Sultan Kudarat.

At the provincial level, the governor (Datu Pax Ali Sangki Mangudadatu) and vice-governor (Prince Raden Mangudadatu Sakaluran) both bear the name MANGUDADATU and are the grandchildren of the former and long-time governor of the province and family patriarch Pax Mangudadatu.

The name likewise is present at the district level. 1st District Representative Ruth Mangudadatu Sakaluran, the daughter of Pax Mangudadatu, is the mother of both Vice-Governor Prince Raden Mangudadatu Sakaluran and Isulan mayor Princess Rihan Mangudadatu Sakaluran. The name further extends in other areas such as Lutayan (Mayor Datu Yassin Sangki Mangudadatu; councilor Yahyhjun Kasim Mangudadatu), and Columbio (Vice-Mayor Tondatu Mamalinta Mangudadatu). The names SAKALURAN and SANGKI also figure prominently in the province as observed in the personalities earlier mentioned. In so far as the 2nd District is concerned, Representative Bella Vanessa BITO-ONON Suansing and Bagumbayan councilor Dexter Omega Regla Bito-Onon both share a common name. Note that Bagumbayan is under the 2nd District of Sultan Kudarat.

At the municipal level, Bagumbayan Mayor Elizer David SEGURA bears the same surname with both provincial board members Jose Ramos Pabilona Segura and Elias Solidanio Segura, Jr., and City of Tacurong councilor Jenalyn Cajandig Segura. MONTILLA is another key name particularly in the City of Tacurong as its Mayor, Lina Ortizo Montilla, carries the same name with both councilors Ma. Cora Sebastian Montilla and Lalaine Jarrell Montilla.

Agusan del Norte is a province in the Caraga Region (Region XIII) composed of two (2) congressional districts, two (2) Sangguniang Panlalawigan districts, 10 municipalities, and one (1) component city, i.e., Cabadbaran City, as its capital. It also includes Butuan City, a highly urbanized city independent of the province. It has an indicative dynastic share of 40.6%, below the national average of 54.5%. The province has two (2) provincial dynasties, one (1) district dynasty, 17 municipal dynasties, and 10 minor dynasties.

The CORVERA family represents the first provincial-level dynasty. Dale Bokingo Corvera is the incumbent lone district representative, having previously served as provincial board member, vice governor, Cabadbaran mayor (2007-2016), and governor (2019-2022). His brother, Enrico "Rico" Corvera, serves as incumbent vice governor. Leo Dale Ayo Corvera, son of Representative Dale, serves as vice mayor of Cabadbaran City. Elmer Galo Corvera is a municipal council member of Nasipit; however, his precise familial relationship with Dale is not fully documented in public records.

The AMANTE family holds the province's highest executive office. Maria Angelica Rosedell "Angel" Amante-Matba currently serves as governor (1995-2004, 2013-2019, 2022-present), having also served as 2nd District representative for multiple non-consecutive terms. She is the daughter of former Representative and Executive Secretary Edelmiro Amante and the sister of former Governor and Representative Erlpe John Amante. Judy Chin Amante, wife of Erlpe John, serves as Cabadbaran City mayor, while Erlpe John's daughter, Inez Rosario Antipuesto-Amante, serves as city councilor.

The BOKINGO surname links Dale Bokingo Corvera and Reynante Bokingo Desiata, vice mayor of Butuan City, though the precise degree of their relationship is not confirmed in public records.

The CALO family has long been associated with political leadership in Carmen. Ramon "Monching" Mendezona Calo currently serves as mayor (1995-2004, 2007-2019, 2022-present), while his wife Jovitte Cabrera Calo, serves as vice mayor and previously as mayor (2004-2007, 2019-2022), reflecting a documented rotation. Carmina Rasha Guilot Calo and Jesus Tranquilino Ramirez Calo, Jr. serve as municipal councilors, though no source confirms their familial connection to Ramon and Jovitte. Nieva Calo Famador serves as a 1st District provincial board member, while her son John Paul "Popoy" Calo Famador serves as a Cabadbaran City councilor.

The ROSALES family is concentrated in two towns. Karen Saligumba Rosales serves as mayor of Las Nieves, while her mother Avelina Saligumba Rosales, who held the mayoralty from 2016 to 2022, now serves as vice mayor. Alberto Rosales Japitana and Junjun Rosales Estoque hold council seats in Las Nieves, Pamela Rosales Bermudez in Jabonga, and Marlon Rosales Labis in Butuan City, though their precise relationships to Karen and Avelina are not confirmed.

The LIM family has maintained a long-standing presence in Santiago. Franklin Deiparine Lim serves as mayor (2007-2022, 2025-present), while his wife Zenaida Corro Lim serves as vice mayor, having previously held the mayoralty from 2004-2007 and 2022-2025. Ryan Jade Deparine Lim, son of Mayor Franklin, currently serves as a 1st District provincial board member. Benjie Lim Montes serves as a municipal councilor of Santiago, though his precise relationship to the Lim family is not fully documented.

Note: For brevity, 19 municipal dynasties and nine minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Agusan del Sur is the largest and only landlocked province in the Caraga region (Region XIII). It is composed of two (2) congressional districts, two (2) Sangguniang Panlalawigan districts, 13 municipalities, and one (1) component city, i.e., Bayugan City. It has an indicative potential dynastic share of 44.8%, below the national average of 54.5%. The province has two (2) provincial dynasties, 22 municipal dynasties, and nine (9) minor dynasties.

The PLAZA name has been associated with provincial politics since the 1960s, when Democrito O. Plaza served as congressman and later governor, succeeded by his wife Valentina. Adolph Edward Galido Plaza, son of Democrito and Valentina, and former three-term governor (2010-2019), currently holds the 2nd District congressional seat. Frederick Mark Plaza Mellana, nephew of Adolph Edward and son of former Congresswoman Evelyn Plaza-Mellana, serves as mayor of Prosperidad, the provincial capital. Joseph Dingle Plaza serves as a 2nd District provincial board member. Eric Prochina Plaza and Hector Tanda Plaza serve as municipal board members of Veruela, while Richard Mondejar Plaza and Carpin Mondejar Plaza, Jr. serve as mayor and municipal board member of Santa Josefa. The direct relationship of Joseph, Eric, Hector, Richard, and Carpin to the Plaza lineage is unconfirmed.

The BORJA family is connected to the Plaza dynasty through marriage. Patricia Anne Borja Plaza, niece of Representative Adolph Edward, is the incumbent vice governor of Agusan del Sur. Her brother Randolph Borja Plaza serves as vice mayor of Loreto, while another brother, Roscoe Democrito Borja Plaza, is the mayor of Nasipit in Agusan del Norte, placing three siblings across two provinces simultaneously.

The MONDEJAR name spans multiple municipalities. Salimar Torralba Mondejar serves as mayor of Veruela, alongside his daughter, Sahlee Myr Salazar Mondejar, and Jonito Torralba Mondejar, who both serve as Sangguniang Bayan members. Allan Havana Mondejar serves as a municipal council member of La Paz, and George Mondejar Villanueva holds the same position in Bunawan. The Mondejar name also appears as a middle name among Santa Josefa officials (i.e., Richard and Carpin Plaza), reflecting an intermarriage connection between the two family lines. Precise relationships among officials are not fully established in publicly available records.

The ASIS family has maintained a notable presence in Bayugan City since 2007. Then mayor Magdalena Aniñon Asis was succeeded by her sons Kim Lope (2010-2019) and then Kirk (2019-present). The three brothers (i.e., Kirk as mayor, Kim as vice mayor, and Kim Lope as city councilor) presently hold the city's top three positions. Yvonnette Asis Cano of Talacogon and Louie Lani Asis Yecyec of San Luis serve as Sangguniang Bayan members, though their precise relationships to the Asis line are unconfirmed.

The ELORDE family holds multiple positions at both the provincial and municipal levels in Agusan del Sur. Sylvia Barrios Elorde, wife of former Bunawan mayor Gilbert Granada Elorde, serves as mayor of Bunawan, while her son, Ednard Gil Barrios Elorde, is the vice mayor. Edwin Granada Elorde, who shares both the Elorde surname and Granada middle name with the late former mayor, serves as a 2nd District Sangguniang Panlalawigan member. Samuel Elorde Tortor also serves as a 2nd District provincial board member. The precise relationships among Edwin, Samuel, and the Sylvia-Ednard line are not confirmed in available public records.

Note. For brevity, 4 municipal dynasties and 5 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Dinagat Islands, consisting of one (1) legislative district and seven (7) municipalities, has an estimated dynastic share of 36.7%, which is below the national average of 54.5%. Overall, the province is home to two (2) provincial dynasties, one (1) district dynasty, five (5) municipal dynasties, and five (5) minor dynasties.

The ECLEO family holds seven (7) positions in multiple LGU levels. Geraldine "Jade" Buray Ecleo was elected provincial vice governor after defeating her older brother, Benglen Ecleo. Her nephew, Ozzy Reuben, serves as the incumbent mayor of Basilisa and is the son of former representative Allan I (Alan Uno). She also has nephews/nieces at the municipal level, including councilors Ludwig Ecleo and Reubenne Ecleo. Councilor Bruce Allan Ecleo is also the nephew of Allan I. It should also be noted that the surnames BURAY, MAGAYAGA, and BACOLOD are likely associated with the broader Ecleo clan.

There are also two (2) officials with the BAG-AO family name in the province as Arlene "Kaka" Bag ao won the congressional seat, as well as Allan Bagalay Bag-ao who serves as a member of the Sangguniang Bayan of Loreto; however, their kinship remains unverified due to limited sources.

Meanwhile the DEMEREY surname is represented by Nilo Pepito Demerey Jr. who secured a second term as Dinagat Islands governor and his son, Nilo Marco Miranda Demerey who serves as 1st district provincial board member.

In Cagdianao, the LONGOS father-son tandem of Adolfo Edillor Longos and Marc Adelson Dumdumaya Longos serve as mayor and vice mayor, respectively. Jonathan Mangmang Edillor serves as vice mayor of Dinagat, although their specific relationship could not be determined.

Note: For brevity, 11 municipal dynasties and 30 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table

Surigao del Norte is a province in the Caraga Region (Region XIII), composed of two (2) legislative districts, municipalities, one (1) component city, and three hundred and thirty-five (335) barangays. The province has an indicative dynastic share of 53.5%, comparable to the national average of 54.5%. Three (3) provincial dynasties were identified, along with two (2) district dynasties, 26 municipal dynasties, and 30 minor dynasties.

At the provincial level, the BARBERS family dominates politics, currently holding the Governor and 2nd District Representative positions. Robert Lyndon Smith Barbers has been the governor since 2022, a position he previously occupied from 2001 to 2007. In 2007, his brother Robert Ace Smith Barbers succeeded him as governor after serving as 2nd district representative from 1998 to 2007. Ace Barbers was re-elected as representative from 2016 to 2025 before his wife Bernadette Sison Barbers was elected for the position in 2025. At the municipal level, an individual bearing the middle name of Barbers was identified as vice mayor. Jennifer "Pem" Barbers Bonite is the vice mayor of the Municipality of Gigaquit, while her husband Chandru "Bobet" Tumulak Bonite is the mayor. Charleston Tumulak Bonite, the mayor's brother, is a councilor in the same municipality. However, any familial or political relation between the vice mayor and the governor cannot be confirmed based on publicly available records.

The MATUGAS family is another prominent dynastic presence in Surigao del Norte, holding five (5) positions: District Representative, two (2) Municipal Mayors, Municipal Vice Mayor, and Municipal Councilor. 1st District Representative Francisco "Lalo" Tinio Matugas is brother to Dapa Mayor Elizabeth Tinio Matugas whose son also serves as the vice mayor. Their nephews are Municipal Councilor Marlon Matugas Coro and Del Carmen Mayor Alfredo Matugas Coro II. Although the Matugas family is currently recognized as a district-level dynasty, they have notably occupied the gubernatorial and congressional seats in the past.

The longstanding political rivalry between the two (2) families is widely documented. Elections generally follow one of the following dynamics: a position is won by one of the rivals, a dynast succeeds his or her predecessor, or a candidate aligned with either dynasty secures the win.

Note. For brevity, 13 municipal dynasties and 23 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Surigao Del Sur has an indicative dynastic share of 52.9% comparable to the national average of 54.5%. It has four (4) provincial dynasties, two (2) district dynasties, 17 municipal dynasties, and 23 minor dynasties.

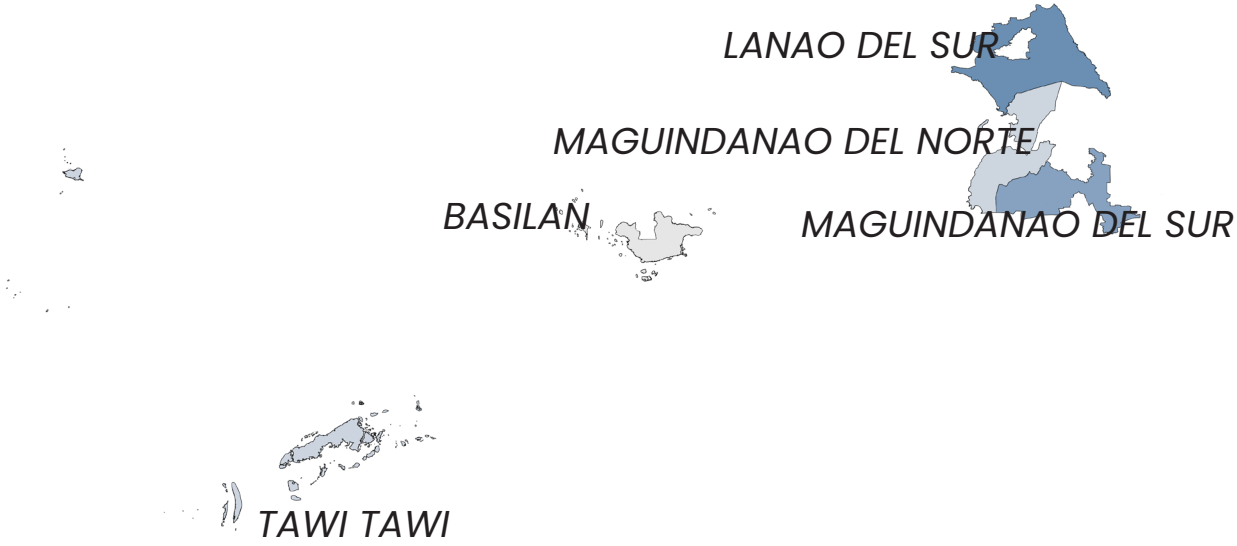

The most prominent political family in the province is the TY-PIMENTEL family, maintaining a significant presence in both provincial and local levels. The incumbent governor Johnny Ty Pimentel serves alongside his sibling, 2nd District Representative Alexander Ty Pimentel. The roots of the political family can be traced back to the patriarch Vicente Pimentel Sr., former Congressman and Governor and his wife, Felicidad Ty Pimentel, also a former Governor.

The provincial-level influence of Ty-Pimentel extends into the municipal level through Alexander's wife, Roxanne Cabrera Pimentel, who is the Mayor of City of Tandag, and the governor's son, John Paul Cruz Pimentel, who is a city councilor. Furthermore, Vicente Hotchkiss Pimentel III, nephew of the current Governor, serves as the Vice Mayor of Carrascal together with his sibling Keith Vincent Pimentel who serves as a Municipal Board Member. Vice Mayor of Tago, Ira Minette Pimentel and Board members Henrich Maraya Pimentel and Angelyn Pimentel share the surname Pimentel but familial ties cannot be established based on publicly available documents.

The OSORIO-ALMEDA family is also tagged as a provincial dynasty where Vice-Governor Manuel Osorio Alameda is brother to Mayor Nicolas Osorio Alameda of the municipality of San Agustin.

The MOMO and SALAZAR families represent district-level dynasties, primarily occupying representative and board member seats. Representative Romeo Momo Sr. serves as in the 1st district. His wife, Eleanor Darvin Momo, is currently the vice mayor of the City of Tandag. She has previously served as a city councilor and a provincial board member. Their two sons, Ruel and Romeo Jr., are currently provincial board member and municipal board members, respectively. Maria Lourdes Kharin Cammayo Momo is a city board member in Tandag.

At the municipal level, the PLAZA family stands out with eight (8) members in office, concentrated in local legislatures with six (6) municipal board member positions. However, family connections based on publicly available online information are not very clear.

Note. For brevity, 13 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Basilan Province has eleven (11) municipalities, one (1) component city, and is represented in Congress through a lone congressional district. The province has a dynastic share of 49.6%, lower than the national dynastic share of 54.5%. There are potentially two (2) provincial dynasties, one (1) district dynasty, 18 municipal dynasties, and 13 minor dynasties present in Basilan.

The SABBIHI-HATAMAN family is one of the province's most prominent political families. Governor Mujiv Sabbihi Hataman and Vice Governor Jim Salliman Hataman are siblings. Their other brother, Gulam "Boy" Hataman leads the municipality of Sumisip as vice mayor, while his son Jul-Adnan Hataman serves as its mayor. The governor's wife is Isabela City Mayor Sitti Djahlia Turabin-Hataman and their son is Board Member Ahmed Djaliv Turabin Hataman. Other members of the Hataman clan, but whose relationships cannot be exacted, are Board Member Juhan Sabbihi Hataman, Maluso Mayor Kaiser Hataman, and Sumisip councilors Omar Hataman and Mun-in Hataman.

The current Congressional representative of the province is an ALANO, Representative Yusop Tanduh Alano, who has completed three (3) terms as vice governor. He is joined by Councilor Muruwa Pawaki Alano but their exact relationship cannot be ascertained.

There are also six (6) elected officials carrying the ABUBAKAR family name, led by Mayor Nasser Adlon Abubakar and Vice Mayor Omaer Arijal Abubakar in Lantawa; five (5) PAWAKI with Mayor Talib Garingan Pawaki and Vice Mayor Tirmiji Jackariya Pawaki in Hadji Mohammad Ajul; and five (5) SALI led by Vice Mayor Raiza Alam Sali in Akbar. However, the relationships of these individuals could not be determined given publicly available information.

Note. For brevity, 48 municipal dynasties and 64 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Lanao del Sur has 39 municipalities and one (1) city and is represented in Congress through two (2) congressional districts. The province has a dynastic share of 77.2%, which is not only higher than the national dynastic share of 54.5% but is also the third highest among the provinces in the country. There are two (2) provincial dynasties, one (1) district dynasty, 62 municipal dynasties, and 64 minor dynasties in Lanao del Sur.

The ALONTO-ADIONG clan is the most prominent political family in the province. The leadership at the provincial level is comprised of Governor Mamintal A. Adiong Jr. and his son, Vice Governor Mohammad Khalid R. Adiong. 1st district Representative Ziaur-Rahman "Zia" Alonto Adiong, is the governor's brother and cousin of 2nd district Representative Yasser Alonto Balindong. It is to note that Representative Yasser Balindong is the son of the late Ali Pangalian Balindong, former Deputy Speaker of the House of Representatives and Bangsamoro Parliament. In total, there are 19 political figures sharing the surname BALINDONG across the municipalities of Lanao del Sur, such as the mayor-vice mayor tandem in Picong, Mesron Dimaporo Balindong and Yacob Dimaporo Balindong. With them is also a total of seven (7) individuals tied to the DIMAPORO, many of which occupy the mayoral seats in the municipalities of Binidayan, Malabang, Tamparan, and Tubaran. However, their connections could not be ascertained.[6]

Moreover, there are other mayor and vice mayor pairs that share the same family name, including the GANDAMRA in Marawi City with Vice Mayor Majul Gandamra joined by his sons Mayor Shariff Zain Gandamra and Councilor Muhammad Gandamra; BENITO in Calanogas with Mayor Abdul Hakim Aguam Benito and Vice Mayor Macapado Aguam Benito Jr.; CAPAL in Tagaloan with Mayor Misangcad Magondacan Capal and Vice Mayor Cosain Laundi Capal; and MINDALANO in Madamba with Mayor Jalani Macalbe Mindalano and Vice Mayor Amer Huseein Macalbe Mindalano. However, the exact relationships of these individuals could also not be exacted.

Note. For brevity, 7 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Maguindanao del Norte is composed of 11 municipalities, one (1) component city, and a lone congressional district. The province has an indicative dynastic share of 57.1%, which is higher than the national average of 54.5%. Maguindanao del Norte's political landscape is characterized by the presence of three (3) provincial dynasties, 11 municipal dynasties, and seven (7) minor dynasties.

The gubernatorial positions in the province are occupied by two (2) political families: the MASTURA clan and the SINSUAT clan. Governor Datu Tucao Ong Mastura is the brother of Mayor Datu Armando Mastura and former Congressman Datu Michael Mastura. Further, the current representative to Congress, Bai Dimple Mastura, is the wife of Sultan Kudarat Mayor Shameem Mastura.

Vice Governor Datu Marshall Sinsuat, who won against her cousin's wife, former Vice Governor Bai Ainee Limbona-Sinsuat, is joined by four (4) other individuals holding positions in the municipality of Datu Odin Sinsuat. These include Vice Mayor Bobsteel Ibrahim Sinsuat and councilors Datu Uga Abas Sinsuat and Datu Mohammad Yasser Seismundo Sinsuat. Also included is Board Member Datu Michael Cueto Sinsuat. However, their exact relationships could not be confirmed.

Still in the municipality of Datu Odin Sinsuat are five (5) officials with the ABAS family name, including Mayor Abdulmain Pasagui Abas, Councilors Datu Uga Abas Sinsuat, Sophia Maliga Abas, and Norodin Maliga Abas; as well as provincial Board Member Michael Abas Kida. However, their ties could not be ascertained.

Note. For brevity, 10 municipal dynasties and 25 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Maguindanao del Sur is composed of 24 municipalities and a lone congressional district. The province has the sixth-highest indicative dynastic share in the country at 72.3%, exceeding the national average of 54.5%. There are potentially four (4) provincial dynasties, two (2) district dynasties, 23 municipal dynasties, and 25 minor dynasties.

Foremost among the political families are the AMPATUAN and MANGUDADATU clans, with 38 and 11 individuals, respectively, currently holding elective positions. Seven (7) municipalities are headed by an Ampatuan, five (5) of which are paired with an Ampatuan serving as vice mayor. These pairings are found in the municipalities of Datu Hoffer Ampatuan, Mamasapano, Shariff Aguak, Shariff Saydona Mustapha, and Datu Unsay. In the municipality of Datu Unsay, Mayor Datu Andal Santiago Ampatuan V succeeded his father, Andal Ampatuan Jr., an example of intra-family succession.

The Mangudadatu family, occupies mayoral posts in three (3) municipalities: Datu Abdullah Sangki, Buluan, and Mangudadatu. The latter two (2) municipalities also have a Mangudadatu serving as vice mayor. The province's congressional seat is held by Esmael "Toto" Gaguil Mangudadatu, who previously served as governor from 2010 to 2019. His children, King Jhazzer Tiamson Mangudadatu and Princess Grace Tiamson Mangudadatu, serve as vice mayor and councilor of Buluan, respectively. Meanwhile, Buluan Mayor Ibrahim Gaguil Mangudadatu is Representative Mangudadatu's brother, while Datu Wali Mangudadatu is his nephew.

Another prominent family in the province is the MIDTIMBANG clan, led by Governor Ali Musali Midtimbang, who ran against Bai Mariam Mangudadatu in the most recent elections. There are five (5) municipalities with Midtimbang mayor-vice mayor tandems: Talayan, Guindulungan, Datu Hoffer Ampatuan (Midtimbang-Ampatuans), and Datu Anggal Midtimbang. There is, however, no information online that could confirm their exact familial relationships. The position of vice-governor is currently occupied by Hisham Nando, who shares the same surname as Councilor Redwan Nando in the municipality of Datu Paglas. Finally, the SANGKI family maintains local influence in Datu Abdullah Sangki and Ampatuan as they occupy the mayoral and vice mayoral seats in these municipalities. Again, limited online information precludes the determination of their relationships.

Note. For brevity, 17 minor dynasties were no longer included in the table.

Tawi-Tawi is composed of 11 municipalities, one (1) component city, and a lone congressional district. The province has an indicative dynastic share of 57.5%, higher than the national share of 54.5%, and its political landscape of Tawi-Tawi is shaped by the presence of one (1) provincial dynasty, (one) district dynasty, 14 municipal dynasties, and 17 minor dynasties.

Foremost among political families are the SALI and MATBA clans. The provincial executive posts are held by a father-son tandem, Governor Yshmael Sali and Vice Governor Al-Syed Sali, while the governor's nephew, Dimszar Matba Sali, serves as the lone district congressman. Other political figures bearing the Sali surname include Languyan Mayor Abduhasan Ismail Sali and Sapa-Sapa Mayor Odet Sali, although their precise familial ties could not be determined.

Aside from Representative Dimszar, whose middle name is Matba, the Matba family also holds significant municipal posts.In South Ubian is the spousal tandem of Mayor Hadzri Halun Matba (former congressman) and Vice Mayor Rofaida Alpha Matba. There are also two councilors in Languyan that bear both the Matba and Sali family names: Abu Bashar Sali Matba and Abdel-Marzsid Matba Sali.

Several municipalities are governed by other family tandems. Turtle Island is headed by the JAMALUL spouses, Mayor Jay Sayang Lonzaga Jamalul and Vice Mayor Mohammad Faizal Hajani Jamalul, while Bongao is led by the QUE brothers, Mayor Jasper Shia Que and Vice Mayor Jimuel Shia Que, sons of the late former Mayor Albert Tan Que.

In Sitangkai are the AHAJA, Mayor Allan Kingking Ahaja holds office, having won against Vice Mayor Tiblan Canon Ahaja's brother, Serbin Canon Ahaja. In Panglima Sugala are the MASQUISO SAHALI, led by Mayor Nurbert Masquiso Sahali and Vice Mayor Dayang Iman Masquiso Sahali, while in Tandubas are the ASDALA SALIH with Mayor Al-Sahid Asdala Salih and Vice Mayor Rahiema Asdala Salih. While they bear the same middle and last names, familial links among them could not be fully confirmed.
